The Motor

We picked out this Stetson Soft Hat for the special benefit of men who pride themselves on wearing the right thing while it is still new and exclusive.

Narrower brim, higher, more sloping crown, new treatment of band—and made and finished in the thorough-going Stetson way.

Come look it over.

TWO KILLED

Charlotte, N. C. Sept. 21—Mr. John M. Craig, secretary of the Ed. Mellon Company and one of the most popular and promising young business men of the city, and Miss Christine Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Maxwell, who live at 1605 South Boulevard, Dillworth, were instantly killed last night at 10:45 o'clock when Mr. Craig's high-powered seven-passenger touring car in which they were riding was overturned on the Statesville road one half mile north of Crofts and 10 miles from Charlotte. Mr. David J. Craig of Statesville, a brother of Mr. John M. Craig, and Mr. W. Heyward McCade, Jr., who were also in the car were both painfully but not seriously injured while John Fingear, the colored chauffeur, had his leg broken.

Buried At Gastonia

Mr. Craig was a native of Gastonia and the body was brought there for burial Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The funeral was preached by his pastor Rev. D. H. Rolston of the First Presbyterian church, Charlotte, before leaving Charlotte and the masons had charge of the burial. The following from Kings Mountain attended the burial. Casper Smith, H. T. Fulton, Capt. F. Dilling, C. F. Hunter, and Dr. O. G. Falls. Those present say that it was one of the most elaborate and largely attended burials they ever witnessed.

The body of Miss Maxwell and the funeral party passed through Kings Mountain Monday on their enroute to Anberson, S. C. where interment was made.

The other three who were injured in the wreck are improving.

Thursday Afternoon Book Club.

Reported to the Herald Mrs. W. A. Ridenhour was hostess to the Afternoon Book Club last week.

Quantities of fall roses were used with artistic taste for decoration.

After the usual business session the club members enjoyed a most interesting and carefully prepared literary program.

Selections were read as follows: "German Life" by Mrs. J. L. McKay, "Ancient Germans" by Mrs. Claud Rhyne, and "Pictures from Early German Life" by Mrs. O. C. O'farrell.

Tables were then arranged for the entertaining games of Rook and Roodles after which the hostess assisted by Mrs. S. A. Mauney, served two delicious courses of refreshments consisting of pimento sandwiches tomato salad with mayonnaise dressing and ice tea followed by ice cream and plain and mint cakes.

The hostess lived up to her past record of knowing how to entertain, the time passing all too rapidly and the hour for departure of the guests coming all too soon.

Besides the regular club members the following invited guests were present: Mesdames J. E. Adderholt, E. L. Campbell, Floyd Mauney Vernon Phillips, M. E. Herndon, Arthur Crouse, R. T. Casler, R. C. Baker, B. A. Mauney and D. M. Baker.

Stringfield

Rev. O. L. Stringfield, assistant superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, spoke in the A. R. P. Church here Tuesday night of a weak to a very small and appreciative audience Mr Stringfield is one of the most entertaining and yet one of the most impressive speakers the writer ever heard.

In his strong appeal for universal prohibition he covered the entire latitude of the emotion. One moment the audience was in tears of pity for poor fallen men and heartbroken women, victims of the liquor traffic, and the next it was in a roar of laughter at some of his apt illustrations. "I have no abuse for the drunkard, but pity only" said the speaker and it was on this plain that his theme was based. "We didn't get prohibition in its entirety in 1906 but we gave it a hard blow" he said. The prohibition law in North Carolina has reduced the shipment into the state from 20 million gallons per year to three million, and has knocked the face off of drinking, was a very satisfactory fact brought out by Mr. Stringfield.

After the address a collection was taken for the extension of the cause of prohibition.

Mr. Stringfield made a proposition for all who wanted whiskey swept from the face of the earth to rise in response to which every person in the house rose.

To Dedicate Presbyterian Church.

The Kings Mountain Presbyterian church will be dedicated the first Sunday in October. Rev. R. A. Miller, former supply pastor, will preach the dedicatory sermon.

A series of meetings will be held here the week before or after the dedication. Rev. Mr. Bateman of Shelby will assist Pastor C. L. Bragaw in the meeting.
