

The McSwain Tour

By E. S. McSwain

(Con'td from last week)

Both are celebrating the same event—the completion of the Panama Canal—and both have their own mission, separate and apart from each other, so that instead of detracting from one another they really help each other—tourist will go to see two when they can do so for one price, when they would not go for one. Take the grounds at San Francisco, everything is well arranged, the many fine buildings and exhibits, and of course, has the usual Zone attractions. As above stated the buildings are of Spanish design and appearance, but there are many reproductions of ancient Indians old homes, etc. Painted Desert, etc., etc.

Monday, June 24th. Although we were up late last night enjoying the sights, at 4:45 this morning found us stirring again, as we wished to take another peep at the Exposition and then start for our return trip. But before starting on the journey towards home, for in reality this is the "turning-around" point, let us take a look around and see just where we have got to, briefly.

When we reached Tia Juana (Aunt June) which is just over the Mexican line, we had crossed the State of California, its long way, north and south, a distance of a little over one thousand miles. In other words to bring it home, as it were, if California was placed on the Atlantic side of the United States it would reach from Savannah, Ga. to Boston, Mass., or at least its length embraces the same latitude as the distance between the two cities named California, the state we all hear so much about, then has room to have beauties and advantages, though all of it is not beauties, as some of the numerous literature would have us believe. In fact, it has almost everything you can start only in beauties and riches of all kinds, some of the best farming, grazing, vegetables, fruits of all kinds, and almost everything else you can name, in its best, on the other hand it has mountains, snow capped perpetually, glaciers, as well as the only active volcano inside the United States (outside of Alaska); it also has barren deserts, and at different places its climate varies from about the hottest to the coldest—along the U. S. as a basis. It is indeed a state in the union; this also applies to its resources and points of interest, and no one need fear going to California thinking we will not find a place, a climate, an occupation or surrounds to suit his ever wish; its there, and if you can be pleased you should be in some place in some place in this great state. Let us also look a little farther back than California. We have not only crossed this wonderful state but we have a little more than crossed the United States across its western coast. Starting in north of the boundary we have passed on down south of the southern boundary, a distance of over seventeen hundred miles, by rail. Thus we crossed the Great Golden West on the western edge of this great country, and we have seen much to remember and be thankful for. It is indeed a great west and I wish I could tell you more of its greatness but must hasten on, but it is a land abounding in opportunities; a place where big things are done, but all of them have not been done yet, nor all of the good opportunities taken advantage of. It is a place where every one is a booster, not a knocker, and they all make it their business to see that each and every one that has paid them a visit goes away with the feeling that he is glad that he came and sorry that he could not stay longer. The arguments, the different things brought forth to your attention, seem to be as unlimited as the wonderful resources of this great west; you have not visited a city until you have taken an Auto-Sight Seeing tour with an experienced guide and lecturer who knows every point of interest and is prepared to answer any of the thousands of questions you may wish to ask. No he doesn't wait for you to ask them either; he anticipates you on most occasions and answers the questions you were about to ask. We spent a great deal of time with these sight seeing tours and consider the time and money well invested; it's the only way to see the sights and points of interest and it is worth it.

The Herald

$1. - 14 MONTHS - $1.

We will give The Herald fourteen months for one dollar.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS

All persons not now taking the paper who bring or send us a dollar between now and the first day of January will get the paper until January 1917. This offer will hold good until January first 1916 but the longer you put it off the less extra time you get. In short a dollar received any time up to January first pays you up to January 1917.

OLD SUBSCRIBERS

If you are already taking the paper and are behind with your subscription come in and pay up to November 1915 then add a dollar and it pays you up to January 1917.

EXPLANATION

Suppose your date is 5-15 [June 1, 1915] and you wish to take advantage of this special offer, you simply pay up for the five months 5-15 to 11-15 and then add a dollar and your receipt will call for 1-17 [Jan. 1, 1917]. There will be no "next week" business in this. The money must accompany the order.

OUR REASON

Subscription collections were no good last fall on account of the general business depression. We couldn't collect and didn't expect to. A number of our subscribers came to us and asked us to carry them over. We did it. Some of them have already come in and paid up. We have been lenient with you and given you the very best paper we could under the circumstances. Now, you are "flush" and we are exceedingly lean. Won't you come in now and let's even up matters? We believe you will or else we would not dedicate this space to this offer.

It has been the custom of this paper in past years to collect subscriptions by contest or special representative. This didn't profit the subscriber; only made him pay his debts. This year we are going to give the subscriber the benefit of the collector's commission by giving him this extra two months.

Again, we desire to get all our subscriptions to expire with the year, a thing which will greatly aid us in keeping the account straight.

Don't lay this aside but consider our position and your advantage.

If you are not already taking the paper by all means take advantage of this offer and get the cleanest and newsiest local paper in this whole section fourteen months for only a dollar.

We are not reducing the price of the paper but just making this special offer for the sake of getting in some more and tipping our subscribers. Act now!

Colds Need Attention.

Internal throat and chest troubles produce inflammation, swollen or redness and unless checked at once, are likely to lead to serious trouble. Caught in time Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey lozenges the phlegm and destroys the germs which have settled in the throat or nose. It is soothing and healing. Pine is antiseptic; honey is soothing—both together possess excellent medicinal qualities for fighting cold germs. Insist on Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey, etc. at Drug-ists.
