LESSON FOR OCTOBER 8

PAUL BEFORE PELIX.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Herein I also exercises myself to have a conscience void of oftense toward God and men always.—Acts 4:18.

This is a court scene, and it might be well with certain classes to intro-Juce the lesson by describing such a gathering. The lesson occurred five lays after the last lesson, and twelve inys after Paul reached Jerusalem, bearing the collection for the poor. The place, Caesaren, was the Roman capital of Judea.

I. The Prisoner's Examination (vv. 1.9). In addition to the Roman goveroor, Fellx, attired in his gorgeous official regulls, on a platform nearby, were the high priest of the Jews, in his highly colored and jeweled robes, the lawyer, Tertulius, in his Roman togs, and the elders of the Sanhedrin who had come down from Jerusalem to be witnesses against Paul. Of Tertulius it was said that, by his persuasive tongue, he could make white seem black, and could therefore more easily make it appear that Paul was "a dan-ger to the Roman power, and not mere-ly a turbulent and renegade Jew." The ly a turbulent and renegade Jew." The judge, Felix, was an exceptionally bad governor, who two years later was recalled by Nero to Rome. The inference of verse two is that Paul was an inciter of rebellion and robberies, but the exact charges were three-fold: (See vv. 5-6) (a) that Paul was a mover of insurrection; (b) that he was a displaced of a next of Newsward. a ringleader of a sect of Nazarenes who were causing trouble in the province; and (c) that he had profuned the Jewish temple at Jerusalem. The charge of insurrection would be especially obnexious to Felix who had just been praised for keeping peace in his dominion. That of being a leader of heresy was not serious, for the Romans had no desire to interfere between one Jewish sect and another, but it led to the last one, viz., profaning the tem-ple. The Romans had legalized the ple. The Romans had legalized the Jewish ritual, and for Paul to profane the holy place would be a serious outrage. The weakness of Tertulius' case was that he produced no evidence to support his charges. The accusers were there, but they had no witnesse

11. The Prisoner's Defense (vv. 10-21). Paul cheerfully made his defense, for he knew the Jews and their customs, and that Felix had married a Jewess, (v. 24). We might consider this defense first negatively and then positively. On the negative side, Paul answers each charge seriatim. In the first place there had not been time for him to cause an insurrection (v. 11). Going back over these days; (1) his arrival in Jerusalem (21:15); (2) his appear ance before James (21:18); (8, 4, 5 and 6), the days of his vow (Ch. 21:26, 27); (7) his arrest; (8) his appearance be-fore the Sanhedrin; (9) the conspiracy and his deliverance; (10, 11, 12 and 18) in Caesarea (See Ch. 24:1). Paul's statement showed that the whole story of his experience was fresh in the memories of both friends and foes. It memories of both friends and foes. It was the Jews who did the stirring up. Paul answers the second charge by acknowledging (vv. 14-16) that he be-longed to the Christian way-of salvation, but denied that this was heresy. was a true Jew and a good Pharises, for (1) he worshiped the same God (v. 14); (2) he believed in the Jewish law and prophets. From them he knew he could prove that Jesus was the Messiah. (8) He agreed with the Pharisses (v. 15) in hope to-ward God, a resurrection from the dend and immortal life. Paul's life was "void of offense" toward God in heart and worship, and toward men as shown in good deeds. It was for this that he exercised himself. Literally, he worked exercised himself. Literally, he worked upon the raw material, disciplining and training it. Paul answers the third charge by a simple denial that it had actually taken place, and calls for witnesses. Posttively, Paul explains that he had followed the God of his fathers, that he believed in fulfilled prophecy—literally the resurrection of Jesus from the dead—that he came to Jerusalem with alms for the poor, and, as before the council, he stands upon his integrity.

Felix had a "more perfect knowledge of that way." We believe he had secured this knowledge from Philip, the syangelist, and from Cornelius, the Roman centurion, both of whom lived in Cnesares. By deferring his decision. Felix avoided an outrageous in ustice to Paul, and at the same time gave serious offense to the troublesome Jews who knew of his evil conduct. Jews who knew of his evil conduct. From verse twenty-three we see that Frail was given liberty, literally such indulgence in freedom as would be consistent with his safety. Luke, the physician, and Philip, the evangelist, visited him here, bringing food, books and latters. After a time Felix and his wife, Drusilla, sent for Prul to talk with him "concerning the faith in Christ." Drusilla was a daughter of Herod Agrippe I (vv. 12-23), and a sister of Herod II (See Ch. 26). She was a heautiful woman, such younger than Pelix who was possibly about sixty years of age. Also and her only child porchied in the gruption of Vestvine.

HURRIED EATING

Hasty eating is not by any mean an accomplishment that is acquired alone by the busy business man, for mon among women. This violation of nature's laws, soon er or later will bring the penalty of indigestion and disordered

Food hurried along in the body either wasted, fulfilling no part of its natural functions in nutrition or it is retained in the intestine in this undigested state, causing fermentation and kindred tils that lend to serious

It is easy to see that the active out-door worker may, with less danger, bolt his food, for he sits down for his quiet noon hour and his digestion is in perfect working order owing to active exercise. The indoor worker rushes to lunch counter, often standing while he bolts a piece of pie and washes it down with a glass of milk or a cupful of coffee. Then goes back to an office where he sits in a stooping position. which retards digestion.

It would be far wiser for the indoor worker to fast at noon or take but a glassful of buttermilk or milk than to burry into the stomach a mixture of illy blended foods.

The normal secretions of the mouth are alkaline and as starch is digested in such a medium it is necessary that all starchy foods be properly insalivated. If a piece of bread and butter is well divided in the mouth and a spoonful of said fruit is added to it the acid retards the action of the alkaline. These foods should be eaten alone: fruit, then starches. Fatty foods are valuable, but mix them with starch in the form of pie and trouble begins if you have any digestive weakness. The fat surrounds the starch grains, pre-venting the action of the mouth and intestinal juices and more trouble en-

The foods best sulted to the indoor worker are the easily digested foods and even milk should be sipped, not swallowed as one does water. Milk and eggs, and dishes made from them are best suited to the indoor worker

HOW TO MAKE COFFEE

By the greatest coffee merchants in the world With pictures of three wives and what their husbands say of their coffee

There has been a great deal written and said about making coffee, and wherever you go, each woman thinks her way is best. Yet we all know how much coffee varies; good one meal-bad the next-often so bad you simply Don't be discouraged if you are not getting coffee as fine as you would like to have. Don't be satisfied to drink coffee which is "just medium." A million other women make coffee their husbands brag about, and it is so easy for you to do it.

Instead of coffee which you only put up with because you can't get the kind you would like to have, you can get coffee which every mem-ber of your family will enjoy, coffee which every visitor will praise, coffee which you yourself couldn't do without.

To get these results, the coffee itself must be right and must always be the same
