Mark the man who puts his political aspirations ahead of his patrotism. He is an ally of the kaiser and should be interned for the period of the war.

Politicians are in a dilemma as to whether to try to win the war or the next election while statesmen of every faith are urging that politics be put into the background for the period of the war.

The Politicians will begin to rep. lenish and punch the fires while true patriots will exercise themselves to not allow political fervor to rise to sufficient temperature as to divert the public mind from the one common and gigantic task of winning the war.

Listen close and see if some politician dont get on a stump and declare that if a certain man with whiskers on his chin were in the presidential chair we would not be in this war. Maybe we would not have but it would have been in us before this campaign is over. All doubt as to whether we would have had to fight the kaiser on American soil if we had not met on another field of battle must by this time be swept from the mind of all intelligent people. He is headed this way and we hold the balance of power that is to stop him and any man who throws a straw in the way of our progress against this monster enemy is both a traitor and a fool.

The daily papers told the story Monday of a gun throwing ten inch shells a distance of 76 miles into Paris all day Sunday. That is a sample of German inventive genius which we have to combat. It is just as well to take off your coat and hang up your hat and go after the kaiser in dead earnest. If it is your

On the other hand, that the supply of labor available, the labor resources of any supplemented as it will be by the country or state insofar as they large force of boys who are joining the U.S. Boys Working Reserve, may not prove sufficient to meet the demands, it is imperative that there should be built up an emer and the national crisis far trans. cends any consideration. gency reserve large enough to supply possible demands. The health and comfort of millions of Americans, as well as the fate of the wir, hings largely upon our ability to raia : and harvest this year a larger supply of foodstuffs than ever we have produced before.

There is opportunity now for urban people sympathetically and constructively to study the farm labor situation and to ren der assistance. In many towns and cities there are men who have had farming experience, who are able-bodied, and who would doubtless be willing to serve the Nation in the field of Agriculture, at this time. Especially for the seasonal strains of planting, cultivating, and harvesting, it will not be too much night before. Suppose it is eight to ass such men to aid the farmers in the nescessary undertaking of maintaining," and if possible, supplementing the food supply in order to feed the armies and to sustain the civillan population behind them. If the soldiers are willing to serve in the trenches, to dig ditches, build railroads, and risk their lives, many civilains can well afford to spare a part of their time to serve in the furrows and in the harvest fields. If it appears that the farmers of a community or region are not able to secure the necessary labor by the usual methods, then the leaders in the town or city immediately dependent upon that region should or ganize, establish touch with representative farm leaders, and see if they cannot assist in solv ing the problem. In so doing they will not only aid the farmers of the Nation, but they will vitally contribute to their own well being and to that of their community. The farmers are willing to do all that they humanly can, but where their labor supply cannot be furnished from the ordinary sources, it must be recruited from those whose very sustenance depends upon the farmers, The soldier and the farmer are eager to do their full share; the soldier is taking chances of losing his life, and the farmer is ri-king the labors of a year on he chance of the seasons; both incur risks. Very many civilians are equally eager to do their share, but may not appreciate the opportunity to serve in the field of agriculture. Each community knows its own problem, and urban people, especially bus

SAVE DAYLIGHT

Just before retiring next Sat arday night turn the hands of cour clock around just one hour thea get up Sunday morning at six as usual. Keep this up until the last Saturday night in Octo per when you will turn the clock back an hour. That meets the demands of the new daylight saving law, And it's a law too Trains will run on the new timhurch will meet by it, business ngagements will be met by it and all important business enacted by the clock as usual. The only requirement is to turn up the time one hour by tso o'clock Sunday morning. We prefer the o'clock when you get ready to retire just turn the clock to nine and go on to aleep. it will do the rest excapt to get you used to waking an hour earlier. The object of this law is to save daylight and thereby save fuel used in making artificial light and for the double purpose of giving people who work by the clock an extra hour in the aftern-oon for gardan work etc.

IS THE RED JUICE YOURS Who will claim the "Red

Inice"? Whoever will may have it on conditions to be named as time claim is filed. It's nice and brown and looks juicy for fair. It is almost in the shape of Switzerland and has very raw edges and rugged slopes. The small disc stuck thereon at a prominint promotory is strikingly designed It bears in colors the likeness of a goblet nearly filled with something red like wine, a bunch of asty looking grapes and a dish of good looking fruit, and the words "Red Juice". It is a small pocket piece of genuine old plug obacco which has a dark brown smell and tooth prints and finger nail prints around about its va ried and rugged edges. Is in yours? If so come and get it. The hunk of "Red Juice" was brought to the Herald office by a Mountain street gardener who found same near his chicken house door last week after he had blessed out his fock of hens for not doing their bit in helping to win the war. This gardener thinks the piece of plug too large for a boy to carry and so says that it was evidently a grown man who had carrying off his eggs and who had heart enough to recompense in part by leaving he small cut of the juicy article But to his chagrin, the gardener dosen't partake of the juicy plug neither does any member of the
