ATHLETICS ON UPGRADE

(By Martin Harmon)

During the past season athletics at Central High have been going up the ladder. Both the football team and the basketball squads showed improvement over previous seasons, and the baseball team won the championship of the Western Conference.

Last fall a group of green inexperienced men reported for football practice. These same fellows were molded into a team that showed a record of three wins, three ties and four losses. The high spot of the season was a 20-0 victory over Shelby, the first in over a decade. In addition, the Mountaineers tied the championship Cherryville squad. Basketball began with a bang; Central won four straight conference engagements. Coach "Red" Fulkerson's combination of Wilson and Hullender, forwards, McSwain and Mode, guards, and White, center breezed through all opposition. Then upon the ineligibility of White the combination was broken, and after two weeks of experimenting, Mode was shifted to center and Early played guard. After this change the Mountaineers resumed their winning ways and ended the conference season in fifth place, with eight victories and six defeats. Clyde McSwain, captain and guard of the aggregation was placed on the all-conference squad by a poll of the league coaches.

The girl basketball team was less fortunate than the boys. Although they won only three and lost ten, the lassies played sensationally at times. And toward the end of the season produced a smooth-working combination. "Dot" Hord was placed on the all-conference team.

Baseball was an outstanding success. Last Friday, before 400 fans, Jake Early pitched the Highs to the championship. During the season the Mountaineers were defeated only once in conference play, and that defeat was due to faulty fielding. Captain Early starred both as a pitcher and hitter. He led the league with seven victories and one defeat, and led the club in hitting with a .421 batting average. This was Central High's first baseball championship team.

SPEAKING CONTESTS

(By Sara Collins)

For several years Kings Mountain High School students have been working hard to reach a certain goal. This goal was to win either the County School Masters' reading contests or the County School Masters' declamation contest. This year, we have more than reached this goal. Pauline Goforth, who won the local Pearl Fulton medal, went to Shelby and won for us the honor of having the best reader in the county. Hank Wilson, who won the local J. G. Hord medal, did his part by winning the County School Masters' declamation contest.

Pauline Goforth read "A Minuet". Hank Wilson declaimed, "A Farmer's Home." Sara Herndon won the L. P. Baker medal, given for the best reader in the grammar grades. Her reading was "Brotherly Love." The Grammar Grade declamation contest was won with the medal given by Mrs. C. E. Neisler, by Bill Wilson, whose declamation was "A Farmer's Home."

Another contest, the outcome of which we are very proud, was the debate. Those on the affirmative side, Juanita Putnam and Sarah Mae Falls, went to Bessemer City where they were defeated by Rutherfordton. Our negative team, Ruby Hughes, and Martin Luther Harmon, went to Rutherfordton where they defeated the Bessemer City debaters.

SENIOR CLASS GIVE FLOOD LIGHTS

(By Pauline Ballard)

We, of the Senior Class, had heard many complaints about people stumbling outside our school building on nights when performances were given, and we decided that floodlights would make a good class gift. We then set to work to make enough money to buy this gift to leave to the school. Many days were spent preparing for the Senior class play, "The Thirteenth Day" which helped provide for this fund. The merchants also helped us by giving us ads, which were greatly appreciated.

We could hardly wait to see our lights installed. The columns, which are eight feet high, are made of granite. They are set three feet deep in the wall bordering the steps. The globes are of the same shape as the ornaments on top of the building, in order to blend with the symmetry of the building. Each globe has two 150 watt bulbs for the purpose of lighting the campus and a 1,000 watt bulb equipped with a reflector for casting a light on the building. Each light is controlled by the switchboard from the first floor of the main building.

The blindest people in the world are those who believe everything they see.

4 reasons

WHY IT IS SOUND JUDGMENT TO

See the Norge before you buy

- 1 UNUSUAL ECONOMY
- 2 UNSURPASSED CONVENIENCE
- 3 LIFETIME MECHANISM
- 4 MANUFACTURER'S RESPONSIBILITY

WHEN you buy a new refrigerator, you want a good one. You want to know that it is a good one. You buy it for its economy and convenience. You expect it to have a long-lived mechanism. And you want it to bear the name of a responsible manufacturer.

Norge is certainly the economical refrigerator to buy and to use. Actual figures from Norge owners show savings—in food and refrigeration costs—up to $11 a month. Some report even greater savings.

"Don't know how I ever kept house without Norge," is the way Norge owners express their idea of Norge convenience.

Mechanically, Norge is unsurpassed. The famous Rollator Compressor, the cold-making mechanism, is simple, surplus powered, almost everlasting. And by actual test, it improves with use.

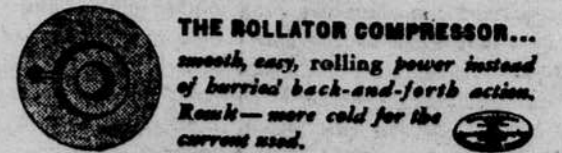

Norge is backed by a tremendous manufacturing organization. Borg-Warner, of which Norge is a division, has fifteen factories and manufactures parts for nearly every automobile built today.

From any and every standpoint, it is good judgment to see the Norge before you buy.
