Up-to-the-Moment HOLIDAY DRINKS

A very merry, dancing, drinking, laughing, quaffing, and unthinking time. —Dryden

THIS is pretty much the prescription for holiday parties. And the fact that the mint juleps are sparkling with the tang of pineapple juice instead of alcohol, that the hot punch is spiced with cinnamon, cloves and allspice and the egg-nog boasts only brandy extract, does not, at all, mean that the parties will be less hilarious. It takes only good food, good holiday drinks and a good dance orchestra to make youthful parties effervescent, and these holiday parties for home-from-school-and-college crowds are indeed a "laughing, quaffing, and unthinking time."

Do Be Up-To-Date
Make certain, however, that your parties are the very latest thing, up-to-the-moment in every sense of the word, if you are entertaining the younger set. There is no other group more intolerant of last year's styles whether it be clothes, dance steps, food or drink. You can buy gaily decorated glasses for your holiday drinks at very little cost indeed—glasses with pictures on them so that each person can carry his pineapple juice from ping-pong table to card table and know it when he sees it, glasses conveniently numbered for that same purpose, Roman striped glasses, polka-dot glasses—all kinds. But be sure that your punch glasses are punch glasses—squat little mugs, and that your mint julep glasses are authentic—tall as a track-star and glamorous as a Junior Prom "date."
Here are several suggestions for holiday drinks to fill the glasses—they're strictly there!
Noel Mint Julep: Boil four tablespoons mint jelly, four cups water and four cups sugar until the jelly is all melted. Cool. Add two cups pineapple syrup and the juice of four lemons. Serve very cold with a sprig of fresh mint in each glass. Instead of ice, use ginger ale flavored with the mint syrup from green cherries and then frozen in cubes. This fills six tall glasses.

Coffee Milk Shake: Combine two cups strong clear coffee, one-half cup maple syrup, one cup evaporated milk and one-fourth cup canned chocolate syrup. Shake well in a cocktail shaker with crushed ice until cold. This fills six tall glasses.
Holiday Punch: Mash two bananas and add two cups pineapple syrup, one cup evaporated milk, two tablespoons fresh lime juice, one-half cup orange juice and one-half cup crushed pineapple. Shake well with crushed ice. This fills five tall glasses.
New Year Egg-nog: Beat four egg yolks until thick. Add one-half cup sugar and one-third cup brandy extract. Add two cups evaporated milk and two cups water combined. Then fold in four stiffly-beaten egg whites. Sprinkle nutmeg on top. Have very cold. This fills twelve small cups.
Spiced Hot Punch: Boil one quart water with the following spices: one 3-inch piece of cinnamon, one teaspoon whole cloves and one teaspoon allspice. Add two cups of syrup from canned pineapple and reheat. Beat eggs well, allowing one-half egg to each glass to be served. Divide the eggs among the glasses and pour the hot punch in, stirring well. Serve at once. This makes about one and one-fourth quarts.

Work Animals Need A Balanced Ration

For economy and efficiency on North Carolina farms, the horse and mule are hard to beat.
Good work animals supply a highly satisfactory form of pulling power for farm implements and machinery, and they utilize feed crops that can be grown at home.
But to get the best service out of work stock, care must be exercised to feed it properly, said Prof. R. H. Ruffner, head of the animal husbandry department at State College.
Corn, oats, and barley are about equal in feeding value, but corn is a little cheaper, usually, for feeding mature animals. Barley should be crushed or ground before feeding.
A great variety of hays are suitable for horse or mule feed. For each grower, the best type to feed is that grown on his own farm, Prof. Ruffner stated.
Among the hays and roughages fed with good results are: lespedeza timothy, clover, corn stover, soybean, cowpea, alfalfa and peanut.
When timothy and ear corn are fed, it is well to include a quart of wheat bran each day to balance the diet.
Animals at work need 2 to 2½ lbs of feed, dry roughage and concentrates combined, for each 100 pound of live weight. A 1,000 pound mule should receive 10 pounds of hay and 10 pounds of grain.
However, if the hay or roughage contains a lot of weeds or coarse stems, the quantity fed should be increased. A good practice is to give the animals all the roughage they will eat without waste.
When animals have plenty of good hay or pasturage, and are not working, the grain feed may be cut in half.

A clock invented about 10 years ago is run by a tiny speck of radium. The clock ticks every 10 seconds and it has been estimated that it could run for 10,000 years without a change of fuel. It is doubtful, however, that the work will last that long.

Finding papyrus hard to procure, Euthemes II, King of Pergamus in the Second Century B. C., introduced the use of sheep and cattle skins for writing purposes.

School News

A very interesting program was given at Central school on Monday, Dec. 2. Rev. A. G. Sargeant had charge of this program and he spoke on "The History of the English Bible." This was a very interesting talk and I feel that everyone was benefitted by his address.
In this talk we learned that the Old Testament was originally written in Hebrew and the New Testament was originally written in Greek. Later they translated the whole Bible into Latin. When the Anglo-Saxon people wished for a Bible that was published in their language, the others objected to this. Wycliffe, a graduate from Oxford, tried to translate the Bible into English. All of his work was done by hand and they sold from $150 to $200 a book. The people who opposed to this brought him to a public square and burned him.
The second man who tried to translate the Bible was Tyndale. He is called the Father of the English Bible. Tyndale would go from place to place to try to get a chance to get the Bible published. He was imprisoned and later he was strangled and burned.
The last of these men that Rev. Sargeant talked about was Coverdale. He translated the first English Bible which was licensed to be published. This is called the King James Version.
