> Sixteen billion dollars even in these days isn't a sum within normal human comprehension. So one Southern Congressman went to work with his pencil and translated the total into understandable figures. He found that at present rate the expenditures ran to nearly $250 a second. In other words every time the clock ticked, Uncle Sam paid out $250

> But Uncle Sam, this Southerner reminded, didn't have the $250. He actually was taking in only about $125 each second. So with each clock tick he was borrowing any ther $125. And paying interest on the borrowed money. He now owes near ly $31,000,000,000. Someone has figured out that if $1 had been spent each minute since the birth of Christ the total would not yet be one bild lion dollars.

The question of where to get the money to pay back that borrowed continued to worry some legislators. The President assured them he would not ask for additional taxes this session. Chairman Harrison of the Sente Finance Committee would say only he was "hopeful" there
