Business Is Best Here Saturday Since Christmas

Kings Mountain's biggest crowd since pre-Christmas shopping days was on the streets Saturday. Stores report a most gratifying business.

Spring business is opening up with a bang and merchants are pleased with prospects. Saturday's big crowd brought the best retail trade the merchants have had in ten weeks. The spirit in business was welcome because snow and rain crippled trade for eight weeks. Country roads were so bad that many farmers could not get to town. Then, too, the textile mills were forced to curtail for lack of orders, but the mills are now running better and pay-rolls are increasing.

A much better feeling prevails among the merchants as to retail trade. Anticipating large spring sales of merchandise, they have bought large stocks and will put forth an extra effort in advertising their wares. Farmers are making preparations for planting their fields and home gardeners are planning their gardens.

LION'S CLUB SPONSORING BLIND SURVEY

Children And Tax Listers To Cards To Every Home.

Survey cards furnished by the N. C. Commission for the blind are being distributed this week to all the public schools and will later be carried to all homes in the county where there are blind persons, as initial step in rehabilitating blind people in Cleveland county.

A meeting during the week end of county and other officials launched the project:

The Survey.

Under the general supervision of the city and county superintendents of schools the cards will be distributed to all who have blind persons in their homes. Later the tax listers of the county will make inquiries and list all blind or partially blind people.

When the survey is complete, clinics will be held to ascertain the types of blindness and to secure aid for the patient. Courses of training and study will be suggested and offered. There are said to be 27 or more types of occupation adapted to blind people, when normal persons are adapted to about 3,000 occupations.

The work is being sponsored in a general way in this county by the Lions club of Shelby, and in all parts of the state by civic clubs and societies. It is being done under the N. C. Blind commission which was given $25,000 by the last legislature to be matched by a similar fund from the Federal government.

(Opinions Expressed in This Column Are Not Necessarily the Views of This Newspaper.)

Washington, — (IPS). — Despite Washington talk of a "billion tax bill," it now appears definite that any real attempt to pay for the recent squandered lust epidemic will be put off until after the election.

There has been talk about raising $1,137,000,000, but none of that would go toward paying the debt. It won't even make income enough to meet current running expenses. And some insiders say this is the real situation.

Political strategists calculated that a request should be made to Congress for a "big" tax bill to balance the "normal" budget. Congress could cut that in half, after scanning the March 15 income tax returns and reporting them much bigger than had been expected.

The strategists figured such tactics would provide answers to those who demand a balanced budget and at the same time keep happy until after the election the small-income voters who are in for a terrific wallop when the bill finally is paid.

Few things could have caused as much surprise on Capitol Hill as the President's suggestion that the present method of taxing corporations be replaced with a heavy one on surpluses.
