Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

"U GOT to be patient if you are going to get anything done in this here world," the teacher was telling the kids. "You can't never get anywheres by fidgiting and jumping around. It takes patience to learn arithmetic. You gotta settle down and be quiet and work settle down and be quict and work at it, just like you was out fishing and felt like you had to catch about so many fish. You know, don't you, Adolph, that it takes patience to catch fish? You gotta sit quiet and keep your mind on what you're doing. Are you listening to me, Adolph?"

"Yeah, I'm listening."

"Yeah, I'm listening."

"Well, what did I say you gotta have to catch fish?"

"Ah—why, worms, I reckon."

Laughing Around the With IRVIN S. COBB

Settled By An Authority

By IRVIN S. COBB

IN A rural district in Indiana is a general practitioner of medicine an impressive front. Among the natives he passes for a veritable fount of wisdom.

One evening he walked into the country store and the store-keeper, addressing the congregated loafers about the stove, said:

"Now we can find out about it." He turned to the newcomer.

"Say, Doc," he said, "there's a question come up that we want you to settle. I been readin' in the paper here about this here new bovine virus that them foreign doctors is usin' now. Just what is bovine

The oracle scarcely hesitated.

"Bovine virus," he said, in his most oratorical manner, "derives its name from the man that discovered it—the eminent French scientist, Dr. George W. Bovine."

"There now," said the store-keeper facing the audience, "I told you the Doc would know if anybody did."
