No World's War Need Apply

By IRVIN S. COBB

TMMEDIATELY following the Spanish-American War a story went the round regarding a volunteer who suffered grievous hardships first at Chickamauga, then at Tampa, then in Porto Rico and wound up by having a spell of slow fever. One night, when he was convalescent but still shaky, an officer passing through the hospital ward overheard the invalid as he communed with himself.

"I love my country," the volunteer was saying. "I've fought for her and if 'twas necessary I was ready to die for her. But if I get out of this mess I ain't never goin' to love another country as long as I live!"

For this ancient yarn there is a companion piece of comparatively recent vintage. A battered veteran of the regular army, who had been wounded at Chateau Thierry was visited by a chaplain. The latter inquired regarding his well-being and expressed the hope that the soldier would live to wear the uniform for a great many years to come.

"Well, Padre," said the old timer, "so far as I'm concerned I'll tell you how the thing stands: Before this here World's War came along I thought I'd had a lot of experience and had seen my share of hard campaignin'. I served in Cuby and in the Phillippines, and when the Indians acted hostile I went on the scout after them several times, out West. But we didn't have to deal with pizen gases or high explosive shells the size of galvanized iron ash-cans in any of them little mixups. Padre, I ain't lost my gimp and I wouldn't hang back if Uncle Sam wanted me to help mop up anybody that went on the rampage back home in God's country. But strictly in confidence, I don't mind tellin' you that this here is gein' to be my last World's War."

TO A NEIGHBOR

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N. C. THURSDAY, OCT. 22, 1936

The Town of Kings Mountain is to be congr.f.ulated on its drive to secure funds for establishing a public library. Not only are congratulations in order on the step being undertaken but on the success with which the movement has met to date.

Up to this time Kings Mountain has had no public library, no distributing point for books, to which it's citizens could turn for reading matter, either recreational or informative. As the town has grown, its leaders have realized that a good town deserves the good things of life and, rating a public library as one of the most desirable attributes for their town, they have put their shoulders to the viceel to get one. Already the Town Board has appropriated $25 per month for its maintenance after it is opened.

Hence we predict that a date not too distant will see the Kings Mountain Public Library enconced, as a pleasant reality, in its permanent quarters in the new town hall .- (Cleveland Star) coming down the side of a mountain in the Ozarks in his old car one day, and the brakes wouldn't work. So ething had gone wrong for fair. He couldn't get any lever to budge, and the car was making fast time. When they got to the straightaway near the bottom of the mountain, the car was going faster than ever it did before, and then they saw that the bridge across the river in front of them was out and the river was all full of flood water. His wife says, "Well, Tom, are we going to get killed?"

"Why, I don't think so. It looks pretty hopeful to me."

"But you can't stop the car, can you?"
