Gaston County Fair News

Gastonia, N. C., Oct. 12.—According to Francis Whiteside, Secretary of the Gaston County Fair, things are lining up nicely in his preparation for the big event.

Premium lists have been mailed to the farmers of the county, and a great deal of interest is being shown throughout this section generally.

This year there is quite an increase in the number of premiums to be awarded, as well as in the size of some of them. The premium booklet carries a complete list of these awards, along with the rules governing the presentation of them, entrance requirements, etc.

The fair office, located at 266-270 West Main street, announces that the checks for these premiums have already been written, and are ready to be filled in with the winners' names. These checks total in excess of $2,000, which fact should increase the number of contributors to the various departments.

One big change has been made regarding entries made in the Live Stock department. Heretofore, only 4-H Club members were permitted to enter swine as exhibits, but this year anyone may do so. Of course, only residents of Gaston County can win prizes, in any department, despite the fact that others may have exhibits in the fair.

Poultry diseases have just about died out in Union County for the present time, and farmers report good production on laying flocks.

Randolph County has set a new record for lespedeza plantings this year, with farmers seeding 40,000 acres.

Reliefers Work Less; Get More

Washington, Oct. 4.—(IPS.)—The average "reliever" on the government's WPA payroll now earns $7.42 more per month and works ten hours less at pick-axe wielding, card-catsetc., than when the Works Progress Administration was established less than two years ago, a survey by that agency reveals.

From January 1936 to June 1937, the average hourly wage for the workers rose nearly 25 per cent.

For example, the WPA reports that New York City reliefers are now doing 108.04 hours of work per month for an hourly wage of 74.7 cents. This hour wage equals many of the building trades wages in most cities.

When the YPA was operating with a peak number on its payrolls, the average worker throughout the U. S. put in 111.3 hours per month for 40.9 cents an hour. Today he works 101.58 hours monthly and receives 52.1 cents an hour. The exact increase in wages, therefore is 24.98 percent, while the decrease in hours worked for his pay represents 8.73 per cent.
