Thanksgiving Day Is To Be Quiet Occasion Here

Thanksgiving will be celebrated in a quiet manner this year in Kings Mountain, according to a check-up made on plans for the day by The Herald.

The Bank, and Building and Loan Associations, and the Kings Mountain Public Library will be closed for the day.

Large numbers of hunters are planning to take to the woods and fields early Thursday morning. With the hunting season less than a week old, the numbers of quail and rabbit are expected to sharply reduced by Thursday afternoon.

Already a number of local citizens have left Kings Mountain on visits to friends and relatives in other sections of the country during the Thanksgiving season, and many others are planning some visits the latter part of the week.

Two football games are likely to attract a number of local fans—the Wake Forest-Davidson game in Charlotte, and the annual Carolina-Virginia tilt in Chapel Hill. Other fans are planning to take Saturday off to witness Duke-Pittsburgh game in Durham.

By far the majority of citizens plan to spend the day at home, with perhaps a "Sunday" dinner at the middle of the day.

FIREMEN STILL NEED TOYS

The Herald has been asked by the local Volunteer Fire Department to repeat the request for used toys to be brought to the City Hall so they can be repaired and repainted to make some little boy or girl happy on Christmas morning. Rust and corrosion cause an annual direct loss exceeding that caused by fire and flood combined.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a fellow at a lawyer's office complaining that he felt awful low. He was one of the lawyer's customers, so the lawyer listened to him.

"Why, Mr. Wise, that ain't nothing but depression," says the lawyer. "I was that way last week. I got the best little old remedy in the world for it. I went right home and pretended I was sick and got my wife all excited about my health, and she petted me and kissed me and put an ice bag on my head and fussed over me, and I felt fine. Just the best kind of treatment for us babies that think we're grown up."

"By golly, you're right, I think," says the customer. "I'll try it. Where can I find your wife this afternoon?"

Mr. Byron Keeter made several remarks relative to local citizens trading out of town, also about the numerous times local merchants are called on for donations and prizes. He expressed his disapproval of asking merchants to donate for the Christmas decorations.

Washington Snapshots by JAMES PRESTON

(Opinions Expressed in This Column Are Not Necessarily the Views of This Newspaper.)

Washington, if it really tried, ought to be able to give the kiddies some worthwhile lessons in how "ring around the rosy" should be played. But one influential "inner circle" economist — claims to be the only one who a year ago foresaw the present business recession — sees flaws in it. Listen to his summary:

"We set out to do something for those who live in shacks and don't have enough to eat and wear. So we put them on relief. Then to get the money we levy new taxes. And naturally we get an increase in

Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

An Easy Job for a Colored Boy

By IRVIN S. COBB

MOST of us are familiar with the story of the colored brother in a Southern town who was approached by a labor agent seeking recruits for a construction contract in a nearby state.

"Look here, boy," said the white man. "Would you like to have a nice steady job of work?"

The darky stirred uneasily, where he reclined against the sunny side of a cotton bale.

"Not if I kin get anything else to do," he stated, truthfully. A somewhat newer variant of the same general theme has to do with a large black female who spoke proudly of her favorite son's present position.

"Henery, he's got a mighty nice job now," she said. "He gets plenty of money and don't even have to soil his hands. He's travelin' wid a circus. All he has to do is to get into a cage twice a day and put his head in de lion's mouth. De rest of de time he has to hissef."
