The Kings Mountain Hesald
Established 1889 Published Every Thursday

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE, Haywood E. Lynch Editor-Manager

Entered as second class matter at the Postoffice at Kings Mountain, N. C., under the Act of March 3,

SUBSCRIPTION RATES One Year ..... $1,50

A Weekly newspaper devoted tre promotion of the general wel "Dear Sir are and published for the enlight-Ita vicinity.

AN HONEST WORKMAN

Is never afraid of an inspector. Values his honor above his wages. Gets real pleasure oht of his job.

employers.

boss comes in.

not a curse. Always gives sorething that wages owned buildings.

cannot pay for. getting a sauare deat.

clock take care of itself. -The Sihoot Industrialist.

THAT POST OFFICE

Post Offices are usually awarded upon the recommendation of the Congressman in the order of the recelpts. This has been the policy of Congressman A. L. Bulwinkle.

There are three towns in the tenth Congressional District eligible for Post Offices according to offilial reports from Washington. The recelpts of the Kings Mountain Post Office is larger than the other two towns.

We are not going to tell anyone how to vote in the Primary Saturday -but we would like to have a fine government Post Office in Kings Mountain, The Best Town in the State,-so vote and vote right.

Local Boy Makes Hig hHonors

Phillip Elam, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Elam of Kings Mountain is graduating at State College with high honors. He has just returned from a 1500 mile livestock judging heaviche powder. When a political eastern United States and made high him into voting for them! The poor College and was fourth among 42 men from eleven colleges. The main he was elected member of the Lambda Gamma Delta, national hon orary fraternity. He is also a member of Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary educational fraternity and Mu Beta Psi, honorary musical fraternity. He is a member of the red-jacketed State College band and of the college glee club.

students for the year.

Mr. Elam is a graduate of Kings Mountain High School and Wingate

Junior College. His many friends in Kings Mountain will be interested to know that he has accepted the appointment as assistant County Agent of Madison County and will assume his duties soon after commencement.

HEALTH CLINIC MEETS

On Thursday afternoon, May 26th, the Mothers and Bables' Health Clin ic had its fourth meeting in the Red Cross office at the City Hall.

The midwives of the community have shown fine cooperative spirit in helping to promote the Clinic.

There were 24 examinations made. Dr. Ramseur was the phylician in charge assisted by Miss Cora Beam and Mrs. Pride Ratterree.

The Herald Publishing House

-PRINTING OF ALL KINDS-

-INCLUDING--Letter Heads

-Shipping Tags -Special Rule Forms

-Circulars and Placards -Statements and Bill Forms -Booklets and Pamphlets

-Wedding Invitations -Visiting Cards

-Announcements -Envelopes

-Mall Orders Given Prompt-

-Attention-

-Phone 167-

******************* OPEN FORUM

An open torum for our readers, but no letter can be published if it exceeds 500 words. No anonymous communications will be accepted. The name of 3 the writer will not be published ? however, if the author so requests.

Editor of Herald:

I will appreciate it if you will puolish the enclosed letter which received by a local citizen. Yours truly,

********

"My attention has been called to ment, entertainment and benefit of a situation in your good city about the citizens of Kings Mountain and which the citizens of Kings Mountain are very much interested in im: proving. I have reference to their, as well as your own, desire for a new Post Office building. 'Frankly, after personal observation of your builling facilities on sev Depends more upon ability than pull, eral occasions, it is both surprising Appreciates justice far more than and disappointing to me to think that with the available money in Is not envious of the success of his Washington and the number of new Post Office structures erected throu-Doesn't have to speed up when the ghout North Carolina recently, that Kings Mountain has been overlooked Believes that work is a blessing and in the provision of a Post Office in keeping with your other privately

"May I take this opportunity to Doesn't nurse the thought he is not congratulate you and the other civic minded citizens of your community Looks after his tasks and lets the in seeking this improvement, Let me assure you of my personal interest and whole-heartel support of your proposed project both now and following the coming Congressional election. The City of Kings Mountain is most certainly worthy of a new Post Office building and I intenu to see that it gets it.

With kindest personal regarls,

"Sincerely yours, "Hamilton C. Jones."

By George!

(Observations in and about K. M.

Hi-Sports Comment)

Three months of virtual inactivity ahead, and no wonder someone suggestel a sitdown strike for a twelle month term. Tuesday afternoon the drug store looked like the supply room at school when Mr. Bridges wasn't around. Then up the street to he "Herald" office and goolbye de pression. Two of the "Chatterers" were there and one of the Musketeers-trying to play secretary, hostces, and advisory board for Mr. Lynch. He finally left them alone in fellow had given up all hope when

Mr. Lynch came to his rescue. contest was at the University of heaven" when three gentlemen, each In recognition of judging activities with a cigar, drop in at once....The tilleged gentlemen (Junior!). Nick anl another .... And hey were looking for M. J. P..... Wheo-ho .... "I abhor elgars ....!"

And which one of that 'Fun and Pro-150" duet is C P. interested in ....? Anchow' was down Sunday ..... Brought the family ....! Doesn't aced crelentials does he, J. H.?.... He is listed among top ranking Cora Herndon didn't, have any boys at her party ....!?

The girls selling popples Saturday

How Government Can Help

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

In recent weeks America has heard an increasing number of demands for closer cooperation between government and the forces of production, in the long effort to achieve recovery and Various men and groups representing the productive capacities of the nation have indicated their eagerness for common action toward this objective.

They have pointed out that in production lies the solution to our pressing unemployment problem; that by production, both on the farm and in industry, was created the high American standard of living; that only through the restoration of production can the prosperity which is the natural condition of America be recaptured.

From the days of the pioneers who, by their courage, enterprise and labors, converted forests and prairies into the greatest farmlands on earth, that has been the American path of progress. Its efficacy is apparent—not only in our national growth in size and power, but in our advancement beyond other nations in the general well-being of all our people.

And despite the set-backs of recent years, America's capacity for produc-tion still remains unbounded. In the soil, the mines, the industrial and com-mercial resources of our country lie unlimited possibilities of production.

Here, as probably in no other nation, we have both the desire to consume and the ability to meet that demand. If our capacity to resume production can be unleashed, the way to recovery

The producers of America are eager resume. They ask cooperation of overnment. They ask that government sink and act on behalf of all the poo-te, not certain groups or classes or loce. And government in granting such must have changel shoes about the lunch hour .... One pair couldn't possibly have lasted all day .....! "Hank" tried to make it appear as a joke .... but he was really in earnest when he held hands with H. Fails in the library, we say .....! And what will Jack Ormand do this summer .... Making Charlotte an every night affair would be unethi- days business trip to New York. cal .... er sump'n ....! Bob and just like the other kids....! kid, I've got James Smith bent al- in Gastonia.

LET'S LOOK BACK From The Kings Mountain Herald

NINETEEN YEARS AGO JUNE 5, 1919

Messrs M. E. Herndon and E. Campbell left Tuesday for a few Misses Winnie Vera and Juanita Red had their girl friends "down Marmey leave Friday for Philalelfront" at the theatre Sat. P. M ..... phts to visit Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Forgot themselves and 'yippee-ed" Caper.

Misses Lydia Dixon, Bessie Stuart Note to Marjorie Rhea: Catch up and Lila Woodward spent Saturday really ....! Ask M J. if you don't be Mr. Paul Whitesides of York left voir, Adieu .... Aloha and G'bye..! Mrs. T. G. Hudspeth.

Chapter One

"Tom . . . TOM . . . TOM!"
Only the katydids answered Aunt
Polly in the quiet little Mississippi River town of St. Petersburg that lazy summer's day. The old lady pulled her spectacles down and looked over them about the room; shen she looked under them. She seldom looked through them—they were her state pair and she could have seen through a pair of stove lids just as well.

As Aunt Polly turned toward the kitchen of her modest home she said not flercely, but still loud enough for the furniture to hear:
"Well, if I get hold of you I'll—"
She did not finish for by this time she was punching under the bed with the broom and she needed breath to punctuate the punches. TOM . . . TOM !"

Tom meanwhile had dashed not to school, but to a swimming hole near the river. When he finally came home he recounted his adventures to Little Jim, a small colored boy who helped around the house, as they chopped the next day's wood.

as they chopped the next day's wood.

At supper, Aunt Polly asked questions full of guile. She loved to contemplate her diplomacies as marvels of deep cunning.

"Tom, it was middling warm in school, warn't it?"

"Yes'm,"

"Didn't you want to go in a-swimming, Tom?"

Now Tom knew where the wind lay, and he forestalled the next move.

"Well, if I get hold of you I'll—"
She did not finish for by this time she was punching under the bed with the broom and she needed breath to punctuate the punches. She resurrected nothing but the cat. In the kitchen stood Tom's younger half-brother, Sid, a smug and oily little "good boy" attired in an apron, wiping dishes.

"I never see the beat of that boy," muttered Aunt Polly, "why can't he be more like you, Sidney?"

"I reckon he jest doesn't try hard enough," replied Sid, trying so hard to be nice that he dropped the plate he was polishing.

Is y, and he forestalled the next move.

"Some of us pumped our heads, mine's damp yet. See?"

Aunt Polly tried another trick. "Tom, you didn't have to undo your shirt collar where I sewed it, did you?"

Tom opened his jacket. His shirt collar was securely sewed.

Aunt Polly was half sorry her strategy had miscarried, half glad that Tom had stumbled into obedient conduct, when up piped Sidney:

"Didn't you sew his collar with white thread, Aunt Polly?"

"Why, yes, I did," said Aunt Polly.

"Holler 'nuff!" Tom demanded.

"Now there, that's all right," gasped Aunt Polly. "You didn't mean to do it. Go on back to school head with a thimble-covered finger.

Tom dropped a paper-covered dime novel of the era, "The Life of John Murrell, River Pirate."

"Forty times I've told you if you didn't leave that jam alone, I'd skin you alive!" said Aunt Polly.

Tom obligingly handed her a switch from behind the closet door.

As the switch hovered, he pointed and yelled: "Aunt Polly! What's that behind you?"

As she whirled and anatched her skirts from danger, Tem bolted.

Surprised and angered the old lady stood for a mement looking after the fleeting boy, then shook her head, half amused, half perplexed.

She entered the bitches and found

"I ain't doin' my duty by my own dead sister's child. and that's the Lord's truth, ain't it?" she addressed her meditative niece.
"Yes, ma'am,' said Mary absently.

"Well," gloated Sidney, "that thread is black." Tom fied, leaving a promise of a "Well," mean to do it. Go on back to school

—don't wait for Tom."

Sid jerked off his apron, slapped on his hat, and as he left the house by the back porch, stopped at the door of the jam closet and called:

"Good-bye, Tom!"

Aunt Polly tip-toed to the door and opened it, and when Tom darted out, grabbed him by the ear and rapped him smartly on the head with a thimble-covered finger.

Tom fled, leaving a promise of a licking for Sid.

Just around the corner he met a stranger in town, a boy a shade larger than himself. This boy was well dressed—on a week day—and had shoes on. There was an air about him that irked Tom.

Neither boy spoke as they moved sidewise in a circle, face to face and eye to eye. Finally Tom said:

"Tom fled, leaving a promise of a licking for Sid.

Just around the corner he met a stranger in town, a boy a shade larger than himself. This boy was well dressed—on a week day—and shoes on. There was an air about him that irked Tom.

Neither boy spoke as they moved sidewise in a circle, face to face and eye to eye. Finally Tom said:

"Tom fled, leaving a promise of a licking for Sid.

Just around the corner he met a stranger in town, a boy a shade larger than himself. This boy was well dressed—on a week day—and shoes on. There was an air about him that irked Tom.

Neither boy spoke as they moved sidewise in a circle, face to face and eye to eye. Finally Tom said:

"Tom fled, leaving a promise of a licking for Sid.

Just around the corner he met a stranger in town, a boy a shade larger than himself. This boy was well dressed—on a week day—and shoes on. There was an air about him that irked Tom.

Neither boy spoke as they moved sidewise in a circle, face to face and eye to eye. Finally Tom said:

"Tom fled, leaving a promise of a licking for Sid.

"I'd like to see you try it." A few more such challenges and counter-invitations and then both boys were rolling and tumbling in the dirt, punching and scratching at each others' noses, covering themselves with dirt and glory. Presently, through the fog of battle, Tom appeared, seated astride the new boy, and pounding him with his fists.

"Holler 'nuff?" demanded Tom.
At last the stranger got out a smothered "Nuff," and Tom let him up and said: "Now that'll learn you, better look out who you're fooling with next time." She entered the kitchen and found
Mary Sawyer, a dreamy, pretty girl of about fifteen, working intently on her latest poem.
"I ain't doin' my duty by my own
"I ain't doin' my duty by my own

(To be Continued)

Copyright 1938 by United Artists Corporation

Promptness Plus Accuracy

Promptness plus accuracy equals First National Service. It's as easy as a problem in arithmetic. That accounts for a part of the reason why our list of satisfied customers continues to

We invite your accounts.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Kings Mountain, N. C. Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Subscribe to

THE HERALD

$1.50 a Year

VOTE FOR Renn G. Honeycutt

CLERK SUPERIOR COURT

—JUNE 4th PRIMARY—

I ask for your Vote and Support on the basis of my record as a private citizen.

I have had 12 years' experience in Accounting in a responsible position at the same job.

I refer you to the cotton farmers and business men of the County as to my reliability and efficiency.

I am the son of the late Rev. W. V. Honeycutt, and since early youth, have been a church member, and a worker in the church.

YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT WILL BE

APPRECIATED