TOM AND GEORGE

Tom: "George, a young fellow was sporting what was supposed to be a mustache, and he said he was getting it on the installment plan: How could he get a mustache on the installment plan?" George: "That's easy; a little DOWN and more each week." If you are in the market for pillows, we have some that think there was nothing but down in them after your head lit on them.

The ROUND-UP

By "George"

The Durham Juniors seem to be exactly like their big brother, the Bulls. Or, at least as Cal Griffith paints the Bulls.

Tuesday afternoon the Durham kids mixed with the Shelby lads in the first of the Junior playoffs — and argued throughout the game. In fact, the argument terminated in half a dozen players (Durham) being chased to the showers. This was the first game yours truly has ever witnessed that the fans lingered after.

Those kinds certainly had plenty of brass. They told the ump's exactly what they thought — and the ump's didn't fool either. They sent them out in pairs and threes. In the eighth it looked as if the whole team was going to be chased out. Somehow, tho, it didn't seem as bad to us as others would have it look. Possibly it's because we've been on the bench plenty ourselves. And we have also told ump's what we thought of them. Why should Shelby kike? He's seen them almost as bad. Besides, they won the game.

It probably would have looked better had the coach protested. But he didn't. Not often, anyway. They play merely ruled themselves. And this brings up another point: Can't the players razz the ump's if they want to? After all, it's they who are playing the game.

We're not "sticking up for Durham" at all. Probably they did carry it too far. But, for once, let's look at the players' side, broad mindedly — and not just as Shelby fans. They at least told the ump's what they thought, openly. And who wants a team without some spunk?

Back at Home: Why doesn't some one put the tennis courts to use. They've been fixed up, with quite bit of work done to them, but are rapidly going back to ruin unless they are used.

Mitchell County farmers say they will plant 560 acres of crimson clover in their corn this season. Less than 100 acres were planted last season.

B. P. Lyth of Laurinburg, Scotland County, turned his herd of dairy cows into a field of Biloxi soy beans recently and reports excellent results in the milk flow.

The annual Farm and Home Week exercises will be held at State College, August 1 to 5. A registration fee of $1 per person will be charged this year to defray all expenses.
