

Mountaineer Grid Team Has Practice Tilt Sixteenth

"BOONE" McDANIEL BACK IN ACTION.

By Harmon
Rounding out the first week of football drills, Crowell Little's first Kings Mountain High School football edition showed marked improvement, as each lineman and back buckled down to heavy work for first conference game with Newton on the night of Sept. 30, and the practiced tilt with Bessemer City Friday week.

Some thirty-odd candidates have reported for work, including letterman Clemonsee "Boone" McDaniel, who has been out of action since 1925.

According to present prospects, the Highs this year will have heavy field, built around triple-threat Paul Neisler. It's the old story—a fairly good first team, but too few capable replacements.

Those expected to see considerable action are: ends, Harper and Falls; tackles, McDaniel, Bennett, and Crook; guards, Dickey, Finger, and Suber; centers Wright and Patrick; backs, Neisler, Womack, Ramsey, Campbell, Yates, Neal and McAbee. Harper, a reserve who saw considerable action last year, has looked good in the early drills, and Senior Bud Falls has shown flank promise in his first year out.

McDaniel and Bennett should furnish one of the best tackle combinations in the conference, and Jimmy Dickey and Bob Suber are heavy and experienced at guard, while Dan Finger, letterman last year, has also shown up well. Both Fred Wright and Lawrence Patrick were center reserves last season.

Paul Neisler, who alternated at center and half-back last year definitely has been shifted to the backfield, and so far, has been teaming with Buddy Womack and Charley Ramsey at the wingbacks, and Dixie Campbell in the ball-handling tail-back slot.

Neisler runs and passes well, and lately has been punting some high spirals, a few for forty yards or more, and Little has been coaching him in the quick-kicking art, one of Little's ace accomplishments as quarterback on the 1932 Carolina windmill. Womack is rugged and willing, and he has shown improvement in passing, while Charlie Ramsey is considered by teammates as one of the surest backlers on the squad. Campbell has never played before, but has been running in the tailback position. It is his duty to handle the ball in the many fake plays of the windmill system.

RAMBLIN' In SPORTS

When this year's "Football Annual" termed Crowell Little "easy going," thirty five Mountaineer grid aspirants gave it the merry old razz in a big way. And we agree with the local pliskin chasers. He's making the boys work. The work isn't really as hard as the boys would paint it, but "grass exercise" is new to the majority, and they take it hard. However, it's really getting the boys in shape.

The coming of Clemonsee (Boone) McDaniel has helped the line plenty. "Boone" who hasn't been active on the grid since he was a soph, gives the line a pleasing equilibrium. With him and Bennett covering tackle positions, and Suber and Dickey on guard duty, the line is something to see. "Triple threat" Neisler has been getting off some nice punts lately, besides passing well and carrying the pighide.

Miss Mary Cable, who came to K. M. from Dobson to coach our girls in basketball, is doing a nice job with would-be tennis stars. The kids are green as yet, but she's getting the principles across to them. As to formation of a tennis team, they're too green for a team this year, we believe, but they eager to learn and doing fine. Miss Cable not only knows her tennis but also plays a swell game. She beat your correspondent — and that, my frans, is sump'n.

The biggest football game of the year for local fans will be the Duke-Carolina game — the South's classic. But smart gamblers are holding out on it—too many upsets in the past. And they're saying now that Lalanee isn't as good as he has been painted. It's said that he'll never fill Little's shoes. All we can do is wait and let time show us. After all, the sweetboy is only a soph this year.....!
