CAMELS
Camels are vicious beasts. The creature's long, yellow teeth can inflict one of the ugliest of wounds, and there is scarcely a time when a camel will not seize an opportunity to tear its master's flesh. The Arabs treat their camels badly, and the creature's retort by showing themselves the meanest domestic beasts known.
Native owners freight them camels with as much as 1400 pounds, and drive them as far as eighty miles within three days. It is considered an act of fate if the animal dies after such an ordeal; if the camel manages to live, it is pastured for a week to recuperate.
Camels are fierce fighters among themselves. They don't have horns or claws, so they use their teeth. Seizing one of the legs of a rival, a fighting camel twists and tugs till either he or his opponent is down; the victor then falls upon the weaker one and pommels him with his feet till death comes.
Man's temperature varies only a degree or two, whether he is in the torrid zone or at the North Pole; the camel's temperature may rise or fall as much as nine degrees within 24 hours on the Sahara Desert.

Friends Meet After 49 Years

Mr. C. O. Bumgarner, town councilman from Ward 1 and for 21 years a resident of Mooresville, was made quite happy Tuesday, when two of his boyhood friends dropped in to spend the day. Mr. Bumgarner is a native of Alexander county, but when quite a lad went over to Catawba county, where he stayed a brief spell. But while he was in Catawba county he formed some strong friendships with other boys of that community, among them being M. P. Harmon and R. S. Thornburg. They became separated, each going his own way. At a hospital in Charlotte during the Christmas holidays Mr. Bumgarner met a lady from Kings Mountain and in conversation the name of Mr. Harmon was mentioned. When the good lady returned to Kings Mountain she looked up Mr. Harmon and told him of meeting with a friend of his boyhood. Mr. Harmon got in touch with Mr. Thornburg, and on Tuesday the two men came up from Kings Mountain and spent the day with Mr. Bumgarner. They had not seen one another for 49 years. The conversation lasted throughout the day referring to their varied experiences since they parted in Catawba county. —Mooresville News-Leader.
