

Shaw Urges Farmers To Buy Quality Seed

The cheapest seed to buy is the best that can be found, advises Dr. Luther Shaw, extension plant pathologist at State College.

Likewise, he pointed out, the safest seed to buy, from the standpoint of freedom from seed-borne diseases, is certified seed. Adding everything together, this means that farmers are advised to purchase their planting stock from the most reliable sources available.

The treating of seed for the control of certain plant diseases has been found to be one of the most profitable measures a farmer can use, the State College specialist said.

An outstanding example of this is the treating of cotton seed with 2 percent ethyl mercury chloride dust. In farm demonstrations conducted over a period of four years in North Carolina, the average profit from this practice was $9.82 an acre. Yet the cost of treatment averaged only 15 cents an acre.

Similar profits from treating seed of various field and horticultural crops, such as sweet potatoes, cabbages, and small grains, are being realized yearly by those farmers taking advantage of the treatment. Other growers could make extra returns just as easily.

Another step in combatting diseases of field and horticultural crops is purchasing seed that are free or as nearly free as possible of disease-producing organisms.

A definite movement has been underway in North Carolina toward the production of disease-free seed of agricultural crops for the past several years. Largely aiding in this work has been the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association which sponsors and supervises the production of certified seed.

Low Income Families Get Cotton Mattresses

Cotton and other materials for the making of mattresses is being given to low income families of the State through a cooperative program of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the State Extension Service. Already six counties have availed themselves of this opportunity to receive without cost surplus cotton held by the Surplus Commodities Corporation.

The materials for making cotton mattresses for low income families are furnished in any county where the County AAA committee certifies that there are at least 125 rural families in the specified low income group.

The Extension Service, through its county agents, takes the lead in conducting demonstrations to show members of the families and other leaders how to make the mattresses, and in distributing the cotton and ticking.

Farm families with a total cash income for the calendar year of not more than $400, and non-farm families with a gross income for the year of not more than $500, are eligible to participate in the surplus cotton program.
