Members voted to loan their new flags which were a gift to the Post, to other patriotic organizations, for stage use only. It was brought out that the beautiful flags might get soiled if they were loaned for parade use.

A committee was appointed to investigate the possibilities of organizing a rifle team for Kings Mountain composed of both members of the Legion and citizens at large. The committee was also instructed to locate a suitable range for the target practice. Glee Bridges was named chairman of this committee. Jim Herndon and Dr. O. P. Kiwanis Hear Address At Meeting

"It is a part of the modern trend in education to do something about finding people for jobs and a place to live," said Ralph Barbare, an educational leader and President of the Danington, S. C., Kiwanis Club, in an address to the local Kiwanis last Thursday evening. The program was in charge of the Vocational Guidance Committee of which P. M. Neisler is chairman. The speaker was presented by City School Superintendent B. N. Barnes. Mr. Barbare is doing an outstanding work in vocational counselling in Florence and through the Kiwanis Clubs.

"Our schools," he said, "are giving more and more courses preparing young people for jobs. In connection with this there should be a vocational councillor. He should know the community in which he serves." The Federal Government has bureau for this kind of service, he pointed out. This is called Diversified Occupations and lining up with this department the government will pay around one salary of one of the local teachers salary which must be as much as $1800 in this service. The student taking work in this department does part work in school and part at work on a job of some kind. To qualify a class of 20 to 40 young people must be secured and this teacher expert works with them.

In connection with this work students are tested to determine their fitness for an occupation. Tests are made of their interests and capacity. Job analysis are undertaken to determine what jobs are open and offer the best opportunity for the student to prepare for.

Mr. Barbare pointed out that most young people entering an occupation will have to work with their hands although they would like to enter one of the professions which are probably already overcrowded. "Manual labor," he said, "needs to be glorified so that the young people may be satisfied in the work which they must enter. They will find the pay already higher for the beginner. The failure of the schools in doing work on vocational guidance and in training is responsible for the work which now must be done as a kind of relief through the CCC, the NYA, and to some extent through the W.P.A."

The Kiwanis Meeting this evening at 6:30 at the Woman's Club will be a Fellowship Meeting followed by Committee Meetings. Each member of the club is a member of committee to render some service and each chairman is calling his group to meet with him following the meeting.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

A GUY called up a lawyer and said he was fighting with his wife all the time and he guessed he would get a divorce. He made an appointment for two o'clock and when he marched in he found that the lawyer was pretty busy because all the other folks wanted divorces, too. So the lawyer was not very sympathetic, but got right down to business, with a pad and a pencil.

As soon as the guy sat down the lawyer says, "Now, please tell me when did these heated relations begin?" "Well," says the guy, kind of sad, "I guess they began right away. It was her relations, mind you, that was so strained, and they started coming in on us the day of the wedding. We ain't got rid of them since, and they keep eating and straining on us more and more. But my relations are all right. They live in Australia."

School Enrollment Gains Eighteen

The enrollment for the first day of school this year showed a gain of 18 over the first day of school last year according to Supt. B. N. Barnes. The total enrollment for all the schools this year is 1,637 compared with 1,619 for last year.

Most of the increase was in the High School with 29 more pupils, but the lower grades were off so the net increase was only 18.

Miss Mitchell Williams, who taught one of the 6th grades at Central School last year has been transferred to West School, where a 6th grade will be added. Supt. Barnes explained that West School temporarily lost their sixth grade two years ago because the average attendance did not meet state requirements for the sixth grade teacher. There were enough pupils for a sixth grade, but the average attendance of the school was not enough for a teacher. Supt. Barnes was very happy that the attendance has increased enough at West School to replace the teacher and grade. Mr. Barnes said, "No one wished to move the teacher, but it came as a matter of necessity."

School opened Tuesday morning with appropriate chapel exercises in each of the schools. Children remained until noon yesterday, and full schedule will begin today.

Washington Snapshots by JAMES PRESTON

(Opinions Expressed in This Column Are Not Necessarily the Views of This Newspaper.)

As America's industries are faced with the necessity of producing for national defense, a new plan of attack is being shaped up against them in Washington.

It is reminiscent of the effort made a year ago to convince the people that manufacturers wanted war because of the profits in it. That effort died in its youth since it was easy for the Average American to understand that manufacturers don't want to get into a business which will disappear tomorrow. That is war business.

But now, with the nation rearming, manufacturers are being called upon to produce for national defense despite their preference for peaceful pursuits. Yet despite their willingness to cooperate they are being called "saboteurs."

Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

Appertaining to Finance

By IRVIN S. COBB

A GENTLEMAN in a Southern town, well known as brilliant but careless, was persistent in his application for loans and extremely tardy about repaying them. He had induced a local bank to let him have forty dollars and gave his note therefor.

At the end of each godday period he invariably appeared and asked that the note be renewed; and as there was nothing else to do, the bank always renewed it. One day he appeared and said to the cashier: "I'd like to renew that paper of mine you have there." "Certainly," replied the cashier; "I'll fix it up for you." The cashier made the proper preparations for the renewal; and then he said: "Say, the directors were talking about this paper of yours the other day. They decided they wouldn't charge you interest on it any longer." "That's very considerate of them," was the reply. "I'm mighty glad to hear it. I certainly am under obligations to them." "Yes," continued the cashier, "we're not going to charge you interest, we're going to charge you storage!"
