Energetic Housewives Sweep Away Good Soil

Errows wielded by energetic housewives is one of the reasons given by John Harris, landscape specialist of the State College Extension Service, for the extremely poor soil in the yards of hundreds of North Carolina farmsteads. "This fertile soil which has been swept away, together with that blown and washed away, is why it is difficult to have grass lawns in front of numerous farm homes," Harris declared.

Continuing the specialist said: "The best solution to this problem is the use of Bermuda grass. This grass should be propagated by planting the roots during the fall or early spring. However, there are some farmers who refuse to use Bermuda because it spreads rapidly in their crop land."

In this case, the following procedure is recommended: A one to two inch layer of barn manure should be spread over the yard. The soil should then be scarified as deep as possible and the yard sown in peas.

Safety Not In Number

The old adage to the effect that there is safety in numbers certainly does not apply in automobile travel, according to Ronald Hocutt, director of the North Carolina Highway Safety Division.

Hocutt pointed to the recent accident with eight young people overturned enroute to a high school football game, injuring four of the boys and girls in the car and killing two.

"There is serious danger in the practice of overloading an automobile," he declared. "In the first place, when three or four people are jammed into the front seat, the driver does not have sufficient room to operate the car safely, due to the difficulty of shifting gears and using the brakes. And on top of that, when there are too many people in a car, the driver has too many distractions and can not very well keep his or her mind on their driving."

Hocutt cautioned all car owners against overloading their automobiles, and he particularly urged that parents who allow their teen-age children the family car to go to a football game, dance or other school activity should admonish their children not to take along any greater number of persons than the car was designed to accommodate.
