

Mountaineers Lose To Forest City 7-0

The Mountaineers were handed their second defeat of the football season last Friday in Forest City, which was the first game this year in which coach Fortling's boys failed to score at least one touchdown.

The first half of the contest was a very close one, with Kings Mountain leading 5-0 on the 5-yard strip, but the blitzing just didn't stick. The half ended scoreless but the Mountaineers clearly showed ing superiority throughout. Second Half. Forest City made her winning touchdown in the third quarter. Underwood scoring K. M. played unusually well on defense. The opponents were unable to complete a single pass throughout the game. Here the Forest City team had been famous for passing its way to victory.

Mountaineers Crippled. No doubt this game was one of the roughest engaged in by the local team in several seasons. Herbert Mitchen was injured on the first play of the game, when he suffered abdomen and leg injuries. Womack sustained a wrist injury. Dickey's foot and leg were hurt and Biddix suffered side and leg injuries. All were out of practice Monday.

Outstanding Players. The outstanding players for Kings Mountain were Gibson, Womack, Tarry, Ware and Biddix. For Forest City, Underwood and Hudson were best.

This Week's Tilt. The Mountaineers are now preparing for the Shelby Lionmen with whom they will contend for the Cleveland County Championship this week. The game will be played on the local field, Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The price of admission is 35c. A large crowd is expected to witness the tilt.

Adam Boyd Hord, 68, for 29 years a member of the Gastonia police force until failing health forced his retirement about two years ago died at his home in Gastonia Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. Hord suffered a stroke of paralysis from which he never recovered. For the past 13 months he had been bedridden and for a year had not been able to speak.

Funeral services were held in Gastonia Sunday afternoon and the body was brought to Elizabeth Baptist church here for burial and interment.

A native of Cleveland county, Mr. Hord was born Sept. 24, 1872. As a young man he went to Kings Mountain and served as a member of the police force there for several years much of the time as chief before going to the Gastonia force 29 years ago. His last years of service on the force was as a member of the plain clothes division.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mattie Dover Hord; three sons, Otis and A. B. Jr., of Gastonia and John Hord, a member of the Charlotte police force; three daughters, Mrs. Wayne F. Dilling and Mrs. Ben Harmon of Gastonia, and Mrs. Carroll Holland of Dallas three sisters; Mrs. J. C. Keller and Mrs. Ed Hord of Kings Mountain, and Mrs. Joe Kendrick of Waco, and one brother, Joe Hord, of Kings Mountain.

An efficient officer, Mr. Hord was popular with his co-workers and with a large circle of friends.

Washington Snapshots

(Cont'd from front page) duce national defense goods but which were not doing so. Before the job was well under way half a dozen branches of the Commission had to have the plan explained to them in detail. Each insisted that the facts found should be reported to them, because they were the one which would have jurisdiction over it.

All this naturally delayed the job. If there had been one boss, the job could have been cleared with him and long since finished.

Nearly everybody at the Commission realizes that private factories must be used to get the materials America needs. Many officials and sub-officials want, therefore, to encourage private enterprise. But not all. They want to put the government into business. They seem to think that the way to encourage business is to compete with it.

Those who feel this way must be influential for Commissioner Knudsen, who after all was responsible for production by one of the nation's biggest and most successful businesses, felt impelled to say this: "There is a school of thought in Washington which feels that the government should go into business on a larger scale. The government is in business on a large scale right now — on a scale as big as it can handle; on a larger scale than any other country except perhaps Russia, and we don't want any part of the Russian system over here.

The success of our program depends upon the brains and patriotism of the American business man, engineer, banker, executive, and working man.

Knudsen is only one member of the Commission. Although his experience would be helpful in building national defense, and although his views doubtless would be shared by a majority of the people, he can run only one branch of the Commission. He can't even run that if the other Commissioners overrule him.

The long and short of it is that under such circumstances no man can do his best job.

The present mess, however, would be even worse than it is of control of everything were given to one whose sole qualification is that he is a theorist, an experimenter, an economist, or a planner.

As defense reaches its peak, the cost to the people naturally will in-

Meeting Defense Communication Needs Today and Tomorrow

To be prepared for emergencies of whatever magnitude or urgency is a requirement to which telephone company workers are accustomed.

The National Defense Program is a new emergency to be met. New switchboards are being installed, several thousand miles of telephone lines have been strung and large scale telephone engineering projects are under way to serve the fifty newly approved and existing army and navy posts and air bases located in the territory served by this Company.

Long distance communication facilities are also being expanded and new circuits have been established to assure ample long distance telephone service between these military bases and all parts of the nation.

Southern Bell and the entire Bell System are in high gear, meeting the nation's present defense needs and prepared to adequately meet those of tomorrow.
