The picture of the tin cans that arrived just a few hours too late for the last issue of The Herald. There are 15,000 cans in the case. The group in the picture are: Chief of Police Jimmy Burns who is standing in the rear enlisting the aid of the two Civic Clubs in financing the event. W. E. Blakey, left, President of the Kiwanis Club, and H. Tom Fulton, right, President of the Lions Club, acted as judges for the event, which went a long way toward riding Kings Mountain of tin cans which are breeding places for mosquitoes. Editor of The Herald, Haywood E. Lynch, is the little fellow standing by the little Policeman Melvin Hoover who is next to Officer Carl Short. The Herald wishes to publicly thank Mr. Harold Hunnicutt for taking and developing the photos which makes the above picture possible.

Mountaineers Win In Extra Inning Thriller

Local fans had the opportunity of seeing one of the best high school baseball games ever played on the local field last Tuesday evening when Kings Mountain defeated Morganton nine in 11 innings by the score of 3 to 2. Excitement of game winning possibilities reigned in every inning.

Charles "Lefty" Ballard and Jaynes hold a pitchers battle which continued with momentum until the 11th, resulting in the first defeat for Jaynes and also the team. Morganton collected 5 hits off Ballard while the Mountaineers secured six. Bigham with two for four led the attack for the visitors. Gibson and Ballard collected two each for the locals.

Morganton made two runs in the first inning and led until the fourth. Kings Mountain made one in the third and one in the fourth to tie the score which remained two all until the 11th inning when Ware singled, reached third on Ballard's single, and on the next play raced home for the winning run to climax a brilliant and magnificent finish.

Hickory Wins Close Game 2 to 4

The strong Hickory team nosed out the Mountaineers last Friday by the score of 2 to 4, for the only loss of the season. Both teams played jam up ball throughout the contest. Sigmon, the right handed ace of Hickory, was very effective on the Mountaineers batters and allowed only two hits, one of which was a home run by Luther Ware, Mountaineer second sacker; Foley Cobb left fielder obtained the other. Hickory obtained seven hits off of Ballard while Ballard struck out 13 Hickory men. Lail and Camp collected two each for Hickory. Time and time again Hickory's smooth fielding stopped the Mountaineers' attack with sensational catches.

shooting can be avoided. But virtually none believes that the whole nation is aware of the troublous shoals ahead.

Voters who write in usually fall into several well-defined groups: Those who want to see Hitler defeated at any cost, those who still think the war is none of our business, those who say we should preserve social gains even if it means becoming a German province, and those who insist we must set up a totalitarian form of government matching Hitler's.

Of course, as most solons see it, there is a middle way. But the majority are worried by fear lest this country, in supplying resistance to dictatorship, destroy the very thing it is seeking to preserve.

What it gets around to is this: The general tendency of Congress recently has been to avoid experiments and theories. So the planners have changed tactics. Instead of advocating their proposals for the "general welfare" they now urge them as DEFENSE necessities.

One example will suffice. Many states have long conducted safety inspections of boilers. By and large they have done a pretty good job. Few boiler explosions are heard of. Yet now a bill has been introduced which for DEFENSE purposes would let Congress and the Federal government take over this state function.

Every plan, every proposal, which Congress rejected in comparatively normal times is now being dressed up in a uniform, and its supporters are saying: "Look! We must pass this to speed defense!"

That tendency worries the legislators, particularly those who think that instead of trying new things we should make workable those laws already on the statute books. Another thing which concerns them is belief expressed by some constituents that the job of building and maintaining defense is easy.

To counteract that belief, few facts slowly are being made public, to show that tanks and planes and guns can't be built overnight and by a few men.

For instance, it took 15 months to build one plant, install the proper machines, train the workers, and turn out a million shells. It will take only 60 days for the next million.

Another example is this: A huge, five ton multiple spindle bar machine would have to work constantly two and a half days to turn out enough bullet cores to keep one machine gun firing for a single hour.

Already, the nation's plants are humming at top speed. Contracts have been placed with them for about $13 billion worth of defense goods. But not including what will develop later this year or in years to follow, Congress has approved or is in the process of voting more than $42 billion—nearly three and a half times as much.

The job grows bigger daily. Most patriotic legislators hope it won't be interfered with by demands for new experiments, or by demands for maintenance of SOCIAL gains no matter what the cost.

The current Congressional fear is put this way by Rep. Summers of Texas, who is regarded by his colleagues as one of the soundest legislators in Washington: "We are repeating the mistakes of France. I warn you, the boys in uniform won't knock off at 5 o'clock. They'll stand the night watches."
