Friday, June 6, 8 P. M. Commencement Exercises.

Mrs. H. L. McCrary, Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte, N. C., will give the commencement address.

Mr. Hoodie Russell, the son of Mrs. Ora Russell, of Lucky Street died Saturday. His funeral was held at the Baptist Church Monday afternoon. Hoodie was formerly a student in the Davidson School.

Mrs. Carrie Kibbler of South Batleground Road is still on the sick list.

Mrs. Eliza A. Tribble who was recently in an automobile accident, is improving at her home on West Kings street.

Mr. C. W. Roberts, Mrs. G. S. Surratt and Mrs. Virginia Johnson attended the Commencement at Teachers College, Winston Salem this week.

Mrs. M. B. Gidney and Miss Margaret Davidson were visitors in Winston-Salem last week-end.

Miss Evelyn Davidson and Miss Willie Davidson of Charlotte were visitors in Kings Mountain Tuesday.

Miss Caldwell of Clover is teaching in Mrs. Tribble's place while Mrs. Tribble is recovering from her injury.

The Rev. E. A. Crawford of Forest City closed a series of meetings at the A M E Zion Church.

eggs, and more of them, are simple and can be followed on every farm without additional expense, the State College leader stated. The steps include:

1. Provide the flock with the proper quality feed for good eggs.
2. Keeping a deep, clean litter on the poultry house floor, and continuing the birds in the house until noon if needed.
3. Providing plenty of clean nests, at least one to every five hens.
4. Producing infertile eggs for the market. This will require removal of male birds from the flock as soon as the breeding season is over.
5. Gathering eggs frequently, to reduce the number of dirty eggs.
6. Cooling eggs as soon as they are gathered, to as near 50 degrees as possible, to prevent spoilage. Never place warm eggs in the case.

Dairy Animals Need Training for Shows

Prof. Fred M. Haig of the State College Animal Husbandry Department is annually called upon to judge dairy cows and other farm animals at county, community and sectional fairs and livestock shows throughout North Carolina. The exhibition season for livestock is not far off.

Prof. Haig herewith offers some suggestions on fitting and preparing dairy animals for the show ring, giving pointers on what he and other livestock judges will be looking for.

The dairy heifer, first of all, must be taught to lead and stand properly. This requires constant daily practice and a lot of patience on the part of the showman.

It is not desirable to have dairy heifers excessively fat for exhibition purposes. It is necessary, though, for the well-fitted animal to carry a fair amount of flesh. A very thin animal will have little chance of winning. The grain ration should be made up of a mixture of such feeds as wheat bran, ground oats, corn meal and linseed oil meal. Along with the grain ration should be fed good quality legume hay, and corn silage or beet pulp.

Brushing stimulates the circulation of the blood and helps to make a glossy coat of hair.

To make the animal more attractive the head, neck, belly and tail from switch to tail-head should be

Austrian peas are proving a good winter cover crop in Cherokee County, especially on farms of low fertility, reports A. Q. Ketner, farm agent of the N. C. State College Extension Service.

Mrs. J. M. Williams of Brevard is making an excellent record for her 13th year with a hot water battery brooder, raising 1,100 baby chicks this year, reports Assistant Farm Agent Edwin L. Shore.

The Jamesville and Robersonville Elementary 4-H Clubs have resolved to hold regular meetings throughout the summer, says J. I. Eagles, assistant farm agent of Martin County.

Claimants Punished For Compensation Law Violations

RALEIGH. — Fifteen claimants for benefits have been arrested, tried and fined or given road sentences for violating the Unemployment Compensation Law, primarily for failing to report proper earnings while drawing compensation, in various city or county courts of the State in recent weeks. Chairman Charles G. Powell, of the Unemployment Compensation Commission, reports.

A negro boy of Greenville was given a suspended sentence in Pitt County Superior Court for forging his brother's name to claims and checks, after filing a claim in the brother's name and with his Social Security number. He secured about $20 in benefits belonging to the brother, who had started a claim, and then went off to school, returning and filing a claim. The student found his credits exhausted and protested. A comparison of signatures led to the arrest. Judge J. Paul Frizzelle placed him on probation.

In Rowan County Court four claimants were found guilty, three of which were given road sentences, suspended on payment of $40 and costs in two cases and $20 and costs in the other. The fourth paid the costs and reimbursed the Commission the amount of overpayment. One claimant was found not guilty and another had died, meanwhile.

Nine claimants in Winston-Salem Municipal Court were found guilty of failing to report earnings properly. All were fined $20 and costs and required to refund to the Commission the amount of overpayment.

In Greensboro City Court a claimant was fined $10 and costs and required to refund the overpayment. The Commission's local Employment office managers, field representatives and claims deputies are watching closely and bring to justice these claimants who try to get money to which they are not entitled from the fund. Because of the many ways of checking on them, they are usually caught finally, unless they die meanwhile, as in one case in Rowan county, Chairman Powell, states.

June 1 Is Final Date To Enroll In Campaign

With 60,000 or more farm families already enrolled, John W. Goodman, assistant director of Extension at State College, says a concerted drive will be made to enlist another 40,000 in the "Food and Feed for Family Living" campaign before the June 1 deadline for enrollments. Goodman is chairman of the State Agricultural Workers' Council, which links all agencies in the campaign.

"We are very gratified over the response to the campaign to enlist the support of farm families in North Carolina in the 'Food for Defense' program," Goodman said. "We realize that the campaign was started comparatively late, and that some families have mistaken that there is a compulsory angle campaign."

When a farmer or his wife signs one of the Food and Feed for Family Living cards, there is nothing binding on them except their conscience. The cards merely state that the farm family wishes to voluntarily have a part in making for a stronger, healthier rural North Carolina in 1941.

County Agricultural Workers' Councils are active in every one of North Carolina's 100 counties in enlisting the support of farm families. Each county has been divided into communities, and one member of county Council is responsible for contacting as many families as possible in his or her assigned community.

Governor Broughton will sign a certificate of recognition for every family which grows and conserves at least 75 percent of its food and feed requirements for the year. Special certificates will be awarded to landlords who induce all of their tenants to produce and save 75 percent of their food and feed needs. The certificates will be awarded at County Achievement Days to be held next winter.

Twenty-six high school 4-H Club members in Durham County have entered a home beautification contest sponsored by the Kiwanis Club reports Assistant Farm Agent J. A. Sutton.

Farmers of Fork township in Wayne County have indicated their desire to continue as a one-variety cotton community this year, reports D. J. Murray, assistant farm agent.

The pigs of Dalton Jarman, 4-H Club member of Trenton, are responding to a swine sanitation program, making faster gains than the pigs owned by the boy's father.

Madison County farmers are taking advantage of diversified agriculture to increase their annual cash income, reports P. R. Elen, farm agent of the N. C. State College Extension Service.

Flake Martin, who has one of the best beef cattle herds in Anson County, has ceded some of his best land to permanent pasture, reports Clarence Early, assistant farm agent.

W. F. Alligood of Washington, N. C., buys day-old chicks and places them with hens that have been sitting for a few days, says W. G. Andrews, assistant farm agent of Beaufort County.

Blue surplus food stamps added more than $8,930,000 worth of farm products in March to the diets of 3,705,000 members of families eligible to receive public assistance.

Price-supporting measures for poultry, dairy products, pork products, and vegetables will be continued thru June 30, 1943, according to a U. S. Department of Agriculture announcement.

Cotton prices are on the march upward due to increase in the general level of commodity prices, the better demand for cotton goods, and the possible higher loan rate for the 1941 crop.

Older Youth Meeting Moved To Millstone

Camp Millstone, the 4-H Club recreational center in Richmond County, will be the scene of the fifth annual Older Youth Conference May 29—June 2, according to an announcement by L. R. Harrill, State 4-H leader. The conference originally was scheduled at N. C. State College for June 10-14.

The change in place and dates was made, Harrill explained, to permit the use of the college campus by vocational agriculture students and their teachers in furtherance of the National Defense Program.

Registration and a "Get-together Party" are planned for the opening afternoon and night, May 29. The Millstone conference will be formally organized Friday morning, May 30, followed by a keynote address by a speaker of National importance.

On Friday afternoon a panel discussion of nutrition and fruits and vegetables in the diet will be held under the leadership of Miss Mary Thomas, Extension nutritionist, and L. P. Watson, Extension horticulturist. A similar forum on meats, poultry and milk will be held Saturday afternoon with Extension specialists in these fields leading the discussion.

On Saturday morning program will be held on Opportunities for Training of Older Rural Youths. Participating will be John Lang, State NYA director; E. B. Garrett, of the Soil Conservation Service; George W. Coggin of the Department of Vocational Education; Dean I. O. Sphaub, Extension director; and Miss Ruth Current, State Home Demonstration Agent.

A religious program, including a community sing and a Vesper pageant, are on the schedule for Sunday. The conference will close Monday morning, June 2, with a summary of the meeting. Dr. Eugene Merritt of the Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, will be the general discussion leader throughout the conference.

Carelessness Wastes Egg Needed For Defense Food

An increase of at least 5 percent (10 million cases) is needed in egg production this year to meet the requirements of the National Food For Defense Program, including supplies to be exported under the Lend Lease Plan.

Prof. Roy E. Dearstyne, head of the State College Poultry Department, says poultrymen will be making a valuable contribution to the program by taking good care of eggs on the farm. Farmers also should improve methods of feeding and make full use of poultry equipment, he said.

Carelessness in handling eggs for market lost 5 percent of the United States' egg production in 1939, Prof. Dearstyne declared. This loss represents 175 million dozen eggs, with a cash value of about $30,500,000. Careful handling means more eggs for food supplies for this country and other democracies, and additional income for poultry producers.
