Auto Vacuum Aids Anglers

To many the call of the open road also means the call of the open water. The automobile and good roads have brought thousands of beautiful lakes and streams within reach of the vacationist or the week-ender. Fishing seasons throughout the country are opening, and these young people were among the first to seek their favorite stream. They carry their own boat, lashed to the top of their Chevrolet, and held securely with a new vacuum-grip holding device actuated by vacuum power from the motor. Note the tube connecting boat rack with motor vacuum.

Dear Mr. Lynch:—

As to the law in regard to dogs and game, I know very little about either one, but presume they were intended to preserve or protect wild life or game. All I know about the game law is that we have an open and closed season for hunting and a bag limit on certain birds and squirrels. I have been told that we have a law to compel dog owners to keep up dogs during the spring and early summer, and if there is such a law it should certainly be enforced. A game law without a dog law is about like a prohibition law without an enforcement officer for it is my opinion that there is more game destroyed by stray dogs than by everything else combined including the hunter.

Hawks, crows, cats, black snakes all get their share of young rabbits and birds but from my own observation they are small compared to the dog's share. I will only mention a few that I have made. Some years ago I had a dog that was spending much time in the field and I decided he was not hunting all together for fun. I noticed the birds were still paired in late summer and there was no young birds on my place. I put the dog up and kept him up. Sometime later I found two birds' nest near the road that leads to my creek bottom. I think it was about the first of September. They had a total of twenty eight eggs. I watched them until they were about ready to hatch. My children went to the bottom one evening to get some beans and turned the dog out to go with them for company. I put the dog up next morning and then went to see about my birds and the dog tracks told the tale. There wasn't a shell in either nest, and I don't know how many more he got. Another case I will mention. A place I have down in York county, S. C., for several years after I bought this place I could find a dozen covies of quail on it, and my boys would go down there and get us as many as 50 rabbits in a single day. About 1932 a man moved on a place adjoining mine who had two bird dogs. The man hunted very little but the two dogs covered every acre of my place morning and evening during summer for two years and by 1935 there wasn't a dozen birds on the place and I doubt if there were as

GASLESS SUNDAYS WILL DECREASE TRAFFIC TOLL

RALEIGH. — "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," Ronald Hocutt director of the Highway Safety Division said in commenting on the prospect of "gasless Sundays," which he said would probably cut North Carolina's traffic fatality by as much as 20 per cent.

"While I am not prepared on the basis of information I now have, either to advocate or condemn 'gasless Sundays,' it is interesting to speculate as to the probable effect such a restriction might have on our traffic accident toll," Hocutt said.

"Our records show that 109 of the 449 persons killed in traffic accidents in North Carolina the first five months of this year were killed in Sunday accidents. In other words, one out of every four traffic fatalities in this state occur on the Sabbath. Thus, if our motorists were compelled to keep their cars at home on 'gasless Sundays,' we might reasonably expect a substantial reduction in traffic deaths as a result."

The safety director said the Sunday traffic toll this year totaled 15 in January, 20 in February, 30 in March, 15 in April, and 29 in May. The heaviest toll for any one day this year was on Sunday, March 16, when 11 persons were killed in traffic accidents in the state. Saturdays were even more dangerous than Sundays, the five-month toll for Saturdays being 110 lives. Thus, 229 of the 449 persons killed the first five months of this year were killed on Saturdays and Sundays. This was 51 per cent of the total.

"Think of it, we could cut our traffic accident toll in half by having gasless week ends," Hocutt declared. "Of course, I am not sure that such action will ever be taken or need to be taken in this country. Seriously, though, a substantial reduction in traffic fatalities could be effected without this prohibitive action. If our motorists were willing, they could have their cake and eat it, too. That is to say, they could continue to ride and still not kill or be killed. All it takes is the use of a little courtesy, a little caution and a little commonsense in driving."
