Most of the north corners in Kings Creek and Hughes Township of Cherokee County, have been greatly improved for comfort and beauty this year.

Is there something about the tone of your telephone voice—your way of greeting, your manners, the ease with which you are understood—which gives the person you are talking with a glimpse of a friendly face; of an alert, attractive personality? Your voice and speech together make up your telephone personality.

It's obvious that a pleasant, courteous telephone manner creates a good impression at the other end of the line. Then, too, such little things as answering promptly, speaking directly into the mouthpiece, and replacing the receiver gently when you have finished talking—all do their part in moulding someone's mental image of you. So why not make the most of every opportunity to look your best by telephone?

by a minority group who would destroy it to gain their mercenary ends. They designed their resolution not to destroy any of labor's prerogatives under the Wagner Act but to protect those rights by providing an added measure of responsibility.

Here are the six objectives of the union's resolution, as incorporated in the Byrd-Dewey bill:

1. Aliens are prohibited from old age any labor union office.

2. Union leaders must have had three years of experience in the trade represented by the union.

3. All officials of the union handling funds of the organization must [illegible].

4. A financial statement must be issued to each member at least once a year.

5. Suspension of work because of jurisdictional disputes is forbidden and jurisdiction ascertained by certified proof of representation.

6. A sixty-day cooling off arbitration period is provided with no [illegible] to be retroactive.

The actual bill part much more complicated than that. Maybe that's another reason it's attracting more than a few cursory Congressional glances. But the main reason is this: when a union gets busy and proposes a constructive plan for getting racketeers out of the union business, it's news.

Every once in a while Mr. Johnny Q. Public does something that has Mr. Average Congressman with his ear glued to the coming election completely confused. You will recall the amazement when Mr. Public said he was out to be taxed and taxed plenty to pay for defense. Mr. Public was apparently pretty well informed on the dangers of growing deficits, staggering debt carrying charges and inflation.

Now Mr. Public, as reported by the American Institute of Public Opinion poll, is willing to have his wage or salary frozen so the present level if the cost of living can be prevented from climbing any high er. Sixty two percent of the wage and salary earners said they'd be agreeable to such a move. Asked if they considered they were now being paid a fair wage or salary, some sixty four percent said they were. Yet Mr. Average Congressman still can't believe it. So Congress is still looking for the magician's formula that permits prices to be frozen while labor costs continue to rise.

The "planned economy" boys are hard at work again. For some months they've been digging around in the reports the professors prepared for the Monopoly (T.N.E.C.) Committee building out outlines for government controlled cartels to cover all basic American industries.

They have quietly formulated plans calling for cartelization of industries like automobiles and auto parts iron and steel, transportation, [illegible] hardware, building and construction materials, foodstuffs, textiles, beverages, tobacco and many others. The plan provides for the government controlling and supervising each cartel consisting of the private [illegible] within each of these major industries. As a corollary of the scheme the New Dealers would establish yardsticks for each industry, a system of [illegible] like TVA's.

The optimism for the plan is the assurance that regardless of when the war ends and regardless of who wins, the cartel system under Government control will be essential to the operation of any successful trade relations with the foreign nations. Without any public pronouncement on the work, the planners have completed the overall study for the control of more than fifteen industries.

Harvest Time Nears For Sweet Potatoes

Shortening days and cooler nights herald the arrival of fall and harvest time for sweet potatoes, staple in the diet of North Carolina farm people.

Potatoes keep best when they are allowed to mature before harvesting and before frost kills the vines, according to Lewis P. Watson, extension horticulturist of N. C. State College. If the vines are killed by frost they should be removed immediately and the potatoes dug as soon as possible.

The horticulturist advises the use of a vine cutter attached to the beam of the plow when vines are not removed before harvest. This attachment should be constructed so as to prevent the blade which cuts the vine from going deep enough to injure the potato.

One of the most important rules SUPER SNOOPERS at harvest time is. Do not bruise the potatoes. They should not be thrown from one row to another. Three rows can easily be placed together without throwing the potatoes. Bruised yams rot easily in storage, and dark spots caused by rough handling lower the market value of the crop.

As the potatoes are removed from the soil and piled in the heap row, they should be graded carefully. All cut or broken yams should be piled separately from No. 1's and fed to stock as soon as possible.

For curing and storing, a regular orange crate has many advantages over the bushel tub. Besides easier [illegible] room, the crate allows a better circulation of air.
