OUR COUNTRY

There will always be an America. The home of the true and brave. The land that our fathers died for. The land that we'll die to save.

Our hearts are in our country. The land that bore you and I. We've fought for 300 years or more. Probably many more will die.

But our country will be a heaven from oppression, fear and death. For our children and other land's children.

Who hasn't felt a dictator's breath.

We will rid the world of tyranny. Of corruption, terror and rule. We will give Hitler Hitler and company.

A country has never got.

We'll make the grade in the end. Friends.

A thank you the United and all.

We'll make the earth of a country of ours.

And freedom will end the story.

H. E. Johnson

FRIENDSHIP

The decisive test and the most beautiful proof of real friendship will be found in the day of adversity. A friend is never known until needed. When calamity strikes upon us false friends make excuses and go to the bedside helpless. True friends will end the story.

Here and There

By Haywood E. Lynch

This is a Wednesday night Column, and as a rule they are rather short, first because of lack of time to write a longer column, and second because if I had known anything to write it would have already been written, before now.

Kings Mountain was well represented at the annual Picquet meeting of the Piedmont Council Tuesday night in Gastonia. The Best Town in the State already had two holders of the Silver Beaver Award, W. K. Mauney and Carl Davidson. Aubrey Mauney brings the total to three. I would like to nominate for the next to receive the coveted award from here, H. C. Wilson, who has certainly done and is still doing his part for Scouting.

To my way of thinking the uniced bread ruling is one of the most foolish things to come out of Washington. Some say it was made to keep the price of bread down, but the bureaucrats have spent enough printing and mailing bulletins to the bakers of America, besides the cost of drawing up and enforcing the legislation, to more than offset the small cost of slicing bread. More bread is wasted by home slicing, and the poor taxpayer, who is also a bread eater is having to pay a higher price for uniced bread. Think of the hours wasted and the money spent by Washington officials thinking up the uneven, rough home-mangled toast for breakfast. Phooey, the only thing good about the law is that it has given me something to write about when I was short of something for this Column.

County Auditor, Charlie Dillin, who commutes each day to Shelby reports that the highway is a "honesome road" now that "Pleasure Driving" has been stopped.

WITH THE BOYS IN SERVICE

Dear Mr. Lynch:

Just thought I would drop you a line before going to classes tomorrow at Fort Logan Colo taking Squadron Supply Administration in the U. S. A. F. This subject deals with the supplies of the aircraft, so we start at 2 o'clock at night. Have you ever been to Colorado? If not you have some fine cities at Logan are warm but in the distance you can see snow-capped mountains Denver is only six miles from me and is really a friendly town. We are a mile in altitude. We have 30 good days here. The Army is really good to you. If possible send me a K. M. Herald. I haven't seen one since I have been in the Army. That is really one thing you miss because I know.

Yours truly,

Pvt. Bruce G. Styer
