THE HUMAN VIEWPOINT
 as seen by
JACK, DOCK, and REGGIE
 Well, since we always spill the beans we had better start now. Here we are having the time of our lives down here in Jacksonville, Fla. We arrived in Jacksonville about 5 o'clock last Tuesday afternoon. As we got off the train, we noticed a small sign beside the station. Reggie read it aloud: "Get come to the Land of Golden Opportunity, The Home of Florida Seafood and Beautiful Girls."
 "Speaking of Jacksonville no doubt!" Those words came from mouth of a small man about five feet 4 inches tall with a kind of dark sandish hair and medium complexion, who liked to be around 45 years of age. He invited us to his home after finding our name and we later learned that he was B. T. James, owner of The James Fishing Company. After having dinner we were introduced to Mr. James' daughters. They were beautiful and everyone just like their father, possessed a most magnetic personality. Thanks to Mr. James, we have had a swell time and we've seen most of Jacksonville and also traveled up state and seen those beautiful and unforgettable Florida swamps and marshes. We also talked to one of the Native Florida Indians who live back in the heart of The Florida Everglades. We managed to arrange a few items out of the Indian for souvenirs but it was a tough struggle. Some of the roads were straight for miles and all you could see on either side of you was The Everglades and the large trees and swampy grass that grew in them. A few places we noticed hogs and cattle in pastures in the edges of the Everglades. We visited a local theatre with the James daughters and found a little number "Mexican Magic" playing there. The picture was about a Mexican magician and it was rather good and really funny.
 On Thursday evening Mr. James, Jack and Margaret, Dick and Joan, Reggie and Sue, (and Mrs. James) spent a very entertaining evening at a band concert. We don't remember the name of the band but there was only eight members and they really were good. The state from which the musicians were playing had been specially constructed and had a large number of Triplic Mirrors (Cones, we think) as the background. Every time one of the musicians stood up there were eight perfect images behind him. It was really a swell set-up and we're sure that Mr. Hendrichs would have loved it.
 We hate to change the subject but we would like to thank all you nice people for the nice cards and especially the young man from Washington. We received these cards the day before we left Kings Mountain on vacation. We wish to say to the young man from Washington that his guess about our authors was wrong. Sorry. May we wish you better luck next time and if you'll tell us who you want to hear about we'll do our best to please you. We also might say that we have been informed of a mistake which we printed last week but was entirely unaware of. Miss Carol Newby is now employed at The First National Bank and plans to spend the summer in Kings Mountain. The Best City in the East State. We say the bank will have lots of new customers before the summer is over.
 At this time, we really must close for we have just been called down to dinner and we sure could not miss that. So long, for now, and we'll do our best to see you again next from here in Jacksonville but in case we don't then we'll be back in a couple of weeks. We forgot to mention above that we sure did enjoy the card from that cute girl that called us "Flamers" and we would like to receive many such cards. Thanks. Until next week we are yours sincerely

Army Engineers' Buildings on Alaska Highway

 Through the wilderness along the Alaska Highway, newly completed road building project of the Army Engineers in Alaska, this powerful building cuts a clear trail 60 to 100 feet wide. The Engineers built the military highway in record time. Army Engineers, with modern equipment like this, are ready to build and fight in all parts of the world where they may be needed.

Completes Advance Course in Radio

Miss Margaret Cornelia Ware of the Signal Corps Ground Signal Service of Camp Coles Signal Development Laboratory of Fort Monmouth, N. J., spent the past seven days here with her family.
 On July 19, she completed a six months advanced course in Radio, and is now working in one of the Laboratories there in Red Bank, N. J. Previous to her training by the SIGNAL, she successfully completed a four months Radio Course in Charlotte, N. C., at the Barile NYA Center.
 Although she is not subject to any Military discipline, other than certain rules of the Laboratory, she wears a soldier boy blue uniform with the Signal Corps Ground Signal Service insignia.
 She states: "I feel I am doing my little bit for myself and my country by fulfilling my duties to the best of my ability, since I have taken a man's job, releasing him for duty elsewhere."
 Miss Ware is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Ware, and a former graduate of the Kings Mountain High School.

WE DON'T CROW BUT

 Official government figures show that banks are the outstanding source of farm production credit.
 The country's commercial banks lend almost $5 to every $1 loaned by Production Credit Associations.
 We cite these figures not as a boast but simply to show that the country's farmers prefer to borrow from their local banks. Six million farmers can't be wrong!
