A WISE PLAN I try to fix my thought on the good that is in every soul, and make my appeal to that and the plan is a wise one.

BUYING CHILDREN In an Alabama newspaper we note the following: Montgomery, Ala.—School lunch programs benefiting nearly 2,000,000 boys and girls in the nine southern states were announced recently by Col. James H. Palmer, regional administrator of the Food Distribution Administration.

Contracts are expected to be negotiated shortly with the Alabama State Department of Education and educational departments of other states, he said, whereby our child may receive a well-balanced meal in the middle of the day, regardless of his ability to pay for it.

Most people are now making more money than ever before, say the economists estimate that the income this year will be $20 billion dollars more than goods available for purchase.

It is a very rare case, indeed, that the parents of a child are not in possession to furnish it a noonday lunch and the expenditure stated above bears no relation to necessity or to the relief of distress.

Many years ago Bismarck of Germany said: "What you wish to have in the life of a nation first place in the schools of a nation."

In conformity with that philosophy, Germany placed militarism, and the idea that Germany was destined to rule the world, in her schools and we now see the results. The giving of free lunches to school children puts them in the position of receiving a "hand-out" from their Government and will still into their minds the idea that the Government is obligated to take care of them throughout their lives.

The New Deal advocates do not like for children to become imbued with that doctrine and have conceived the idea of giving free noonday lunches to school children and there by teach them that they should depend upon their Government rather than themselves or their families.

The little boy who receives a lunch as a "hand-out" and is told that it came from his Government will be sold upon the idea that his Government has an obligation to take care of him and that he should always demand whatever he wishes.

That is what the New Dealers wish and that is what they will acquire from the free lunch and similar programs.

They know that Bismarck was right when he said: "What you wish to have in the life of a nation first place in the schools of a nation. Textile Industry.

Wrapping oranges and other citrus fruits in paper treated with diphenyl has been used with success by citrus-fruit growers in Australia. Losses of fruit in the treated wrappers were 1/2 less than losses in control lots of similar fruit kept in ordinary, untreated wrappers.

HERE AND THERE

Haywood E. Lynch. I had a good talk with George Martin Luther Starvo who was here for a few days from the battle front. Martin was distressed for seven months at Camp Meade, while his ship was in repairs. He met a number of Kings Mountain boys among them "Coach" W. J. Fullerton. Even though the Kings Mountain Naval Officer had been sick and was just recently out of a Boston hospital he was handsome in his striking uniform.

I met M. P. Herndon, retired Southern Railway Engineer, who has moved back to Kings Mountain the other day in Pifer Hardware. Bright Patterson introduced the ex-railroader to me and remarked that he was a first cousin to him, P. D. and Jim Herndon and Will Logan. Tom Herndon who was standing nearby said he looked more like Will Logan than the Pattersons or Herndons. Mr. Herndon spoke up and said, "I ought to because Will is my double first cousin, my father and his mother were brothers and sisters and my mother and his father were brothers and sisters."

Grady King must be a mind-reader or something. He had a feeling one morning last week that Mr. and Mrs. Fred Evans were going to visit them. He went to dinner and told Mrs. King of the hunch he had and sure enough when the Kings stopped in the post office that afternoon there was a letter from the Evans saying they would be up for a visit. The Fire Chief might be going physics anyway to know the Evans were coming and they came.

J. E. Rhodes stopped by the office Tuesday morning to show me two fine ears of corn he had raised in his Victory Garden with all man power. He produced the fine corn with a hoe and a little garden plow.

Mal Ward and Dave Saunders decided to set the Volunteer Fire Department to a watermelon feast. But when the melons were cut, all 13 of them were found to be green. Some of the firemen thing, maybe it was dark when the two benefactors picked the melons that they could not tell ripe ones from the green ones.

The Honor Roll, created by the Kings Mountain Lions Club to pay tribute to those in the armed forces, is to be dedicated Saturday afternoon at 8:00 o'clock. Every citizen, especially members of the families of those whose names are listed as serving their country, is invited. The streets near the board should be fitted to overflowing, and I am looking forward to seeing one of the largest crowds ever assembled in Kings Mountain to honor those who are giving their all for their country and their loved ones at home. Let's all be there, the band is going to play and Hon. A. L. Subwinski is going to speak.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS Free the Seas

Before we win the final battle with Hitler's Nazis all navy men are agreed we must win the battle of the Atlantic; that is to free the sea lanes of the German U-boats.

A year ago we were building 50 cruises and nearly 200 destroyers or just about enough for a two ocean navy.

Now we have come to realize that this war is to the finish, "either take all," and our Government is building a five ocean navy. That is why we are being asked to increase our subscriptions for War Bonds. That is why we must do it. U. S. Treasury Department

American citizens should not overlook the fact that John L. Lewis called off his coal strike only on condition that the government would operate the mines. The government strictly obeyed Mr. Lewis' terms. The implications involved in that capitulation of government to labor leader dictatorship, are staggering. The pattern is now perfected to set aside the right to private ownership and operation of property and establish state socialism, strike by strike.

Discussing this situation, the New York Times says: "Mr. Ickes may declare that the government has no desire and no plan for nationalization of the coal industry. He may declare that it hopes to return the mines to private ownership at the earliest possible moment." But meanwhile the government does precisely what Mr. Lewis possible outcome that the miners will work for private owners. The price that will be paid for the mines, but any other group of workers, can now force government operation of an industry simply by declaring that they will not work for private owners. "What the Administration is saying, in brief, is that it must accept John L. Lewis' terms because it is powerless to do anything else. It might review its labor policies of the last ten years, the one sided set of laws it has placed on the books, and the one-sided enforcement policies of its agencies, to learn how it came to be so powerless."

And that is a picture before which every red-blooded American should bow his head in shame — government impotent effort a labor dictator — government violation of private property rights for a labor dictator — government collecting fines for a labor dictator — government powerless to employ a workman not sanctioned by a labor dictator — government the puppet of a labor dictator

Ain't Love Grand! Illustration of a man and woman in a romantic pose.

Jack is head-over-heels for the one—the only—the most beautiful girl on earth. And when he's left talking for an hour-to-day, he's using the telephone to express his sentiments of length.

You, Jack, have a grand feeling! You're using a party-line, none of your telephone neighbors can talk while you are chatting. A tap-up line also helps cause congestion in the central office. It puts an added burden on equipment through which our calls must pass. This equipment can't be expanded to handle all demands, for telephone material is going to be built instead.

So please, Jack, help keep the lines clear—for your party-line neighbors, the folks of your community, and the people handling vital our business that can't wait. Go to see the help, and avoid congestion too. If you do call, please to hold, don't understand when you talk for us.
