THE SERVICEMEN'S VIEWPOINT

As Compiled by Mack Murray
 Received a letter the other day from a soldier friend in North Africa. It was a swell letter although at most everything had been concerned that in everything except a swell poem which I thought you would like to read. According to my friend Sgt. F. B. Wilkinson. This poem reveals the actual thoughts of our boys stationed in North Africa and it is entitled:

Thoughts From A Soldier
 Here I sit
 In Army Khaki;
 Thinking Thoughts
 A wee bit wacky.
 Perhaps it's just
 The Desert heat,
 Or these GI Shoes
 That're on my feet.
 My Thoughts stray
 To a game of golf.
 And Crowds that shout,
 "The're 'em! There're 'em!"
 But my mind is clear
 And my heart is right,
 For our Uncle Sam
 I'll not let him fight!

But the guys I hate
 Are the Axis mob,
 We're a "band to do
 A cleanup job!
 To those yellow rats,
 We'll give their due,
 You can "kick on us,
 We depend on you!

Thanks Barge, and may I assure you that you boys can depend on us. Although we aren't on the fighting front we will be backing you by buying more Bonds and Stamps in the Third War Loan. Until next month, when we'll be back with another swell poem, from The Marines.

The Human Viewpoint will be back next week with a brand new series of human interest articles that will be different from anything that we've had so far. We know you'll enjoy these new articles. Hoping that you'll be with us in our first column that's really different, next week. Yours Sincerely,
 Jack, Dock, and Jerris Booker

Seattle, Wash. Sept. 1.—Asserting that thousands of girls are roving the country, often becoming stranded, the Hoboes of America, convention adopted a resolution urging that no train or bus tickets be sold to girls or minors unless they have parents' written permission to travel.
