YOU'VE GOT TO WORK If you're willing to learn for things you want And not inclined to shift You'll get to the top in your chosen field Because you're willing to work. If you're willing to do and not just wish And won't let failureirk. You'll find your dreams will be fulfilled Because you're willing to work. Oh, life has fashioned many a snare And many pitfalls lurk To catch and swallow the lazy man Who's never willing to work. So straighten your shoulders; tighten your belt; Pitch in and work like a Turk. And show the world you're the sort of man Who gets there because he'll work -Tim O'Leary

NEUTRAL

That pale word, "Neutral," sits becomingly on the lips of weanlings. But the men whose brains find fuel in their blood, the men whose minds hold sympathetic converse with their hearts—such men are never neutral. No virtue man is neutral right or wrong his thoughts go forth, assertive, unafraid to stand by his convictions, and to do his part in shaping issues to the end. Silence may guard the door of useless words, at dictate of discretion; but to stand without opinions in a world which needs constructive thinking is a coward's part—Selected.

I HAD LUNCH AT THE SCHOOL CAFETERIA

(By Haywood E. Lynch) I feasted on cream chicken, hot rice, green beans, salad with lettuce, delicious hot biscuits, butter, and milk Wednesday in the Central School Cafeteria. Now, here is the strange part of the delicious meal, the entire lot was served.

The Central School Cafeteria, under the direction of Miss Lydia Ann Watkins, Home Economics teacher, assisted by J. E. Hunsinger, Principal, is rendering a real service to hungry boys and girls. Over 200 meals are served each day and the menu is varied from day to day with choice foods that will appeal to any youngster's appetite.

School officials spend the whole day, for the prepared food, and then add items which are given by the Federal Government, and still sell the meal to the children for only 10c. The difference in cost is made up by an allotment from the Federal Government. A full half pint of milk sells for only 1c.

Your editor was the guest of Supt. B. N. Barnes, who by the way is very proud of the Cafeteria. He has every right to be, because I saw and tasted the food the boys and girls are served daily. The meals are planned a week ahead so that the proper nourishment will be furnished young folks enabling them to do a better job in the class rooms. I asked Miss Watkins what she served the day before and the menu was as delicious as the one served the day I was fortunate enough to be present. The menu consisted of salmon, salad, with lettuce, baked potatoes, turnip greens, bread, butter, milk and coffee. Doesn't that sound good?

Another unusual feature of the operation of the cafeteria is that children are allowed second helpings at no extra cost. Just think of getting all you want to eat for only 10c.

Cafeterias are also operated at both East and West Schools and from what I understand, the meals are just as tasty and beautiful. I came to one definite conclusion after my visit, if I was a student at one of the Kings Mountain Schools I would eat every day in the Cafeteria.

HERE AND THERE

Haywood E. Lynch

P. A. Hawkins, who has a gun and a number of friends in the armed services says that he enjoys getting letters more now than he did back when he was a courting man and used to get mail from his sweetheart.

I had a very forgetful week last week. After The Herald was out I began feeling in my pockets and found several items of news that had been omitted by a very absent-minded editor. First, I forgot to mention that my daughter, Betty, had spent the week-end in Lincolnton guest of Miss Nancy Gillman, then I overlooked getting in the paper that Sonny Burdette had returned to Monroe after spending the holidays with his daddy, City Manager H. L. Burdette, and I certainly meant to mention that Charlie Dilling, County Auditor, was back on the job after being sick for several days with the flu. There was another item or two but I have even forgotten what they were now.

I met Mrs. B. G. Weaver in the Home Store Tuesday afternoon, and the conversation drifted around to good things to eat. John Logan said that coconut cake was his favorite. I told them my favorite cake was a peanut butter and marshmallow, a variety that my mother used to make. By the way she sent me one for my birthday several months back. Then Mrs. Weaver wanted to know if I had ever tasted Irish potato candy. Having never heard of it before she described how to make it and it really sounded good.

A picture appeared on the front page of the Charlotte News last week showing a sailor helping an elderly lady across the street in New York City during a recent snow. The sailor is the exact image of Charles A. Goforth, Jr., and a number of folks hereabouts are sure that he is the "Gob" assisting the lady. His daddy says he is not quite sure but his mama says she knows her boy when she sees his picture and "his him." I have seen the picture and I am most certain it's C. A. Jr.

I noticed by a sign on the door of Baker's Grocery that R. C. and Bill are sick. Hope's hoping they are both out before this is published.

Herbert Adams, night manager of the Ice Plant is certainly one loyal reader of The Herald. The weather never gets too bad for him to come by the office late on Wednesday night, to get his copy. He has the distinction of being the first person to see a copy. He reads his edition hours before regular subscribers who are home fast asleep.

Herald readers should appreciate the picture on the front page this week. The modest fellow did all he could do to keep us from getting his picture. Flitting after several attempts to get his picture I turned the matter over to Aubrey Hunsinger, publicity man of the Club who in turn secured the likeness from Mrs. Foster. The Herald man enjoyed a delicious dinner Tuesday, thanks to Paul Hunsinger who had helped your editor out with some fine backbones. They call the noon day meal lunch at the Central School Cafeteria, but to me it was a beautiful dinner. Another thing which made the meal more delightful, was that I sat opposite Miss Hunsinger, the new band leader, and if she is good a director as she is charmingly, she'll be "I hang up job."

NEGRO NEWS

By Mrs. Jessie G. Costner

Pvt. Roscoe L. Brown of Some where in Italy sent the following item extracted from "News Bulletin" published at the front, December 11, 1941: "New York - Secretary of War Stimson at a Front conference discussed among other things the fighting qualities of the American Negro soldier. He quoted General Clark, Commander of the 5th Army to the effect that Negro troops under his command have made valuable contributions to the war effort in general and cited the 450th AAA Bn (AW in particular). The Secretary of War, further quoting Gen. Clark, pointed out that the enlisted men of this battalion are all colored and the first colored unit to see action in the European theater of operations since arriving at the front the 450th AAA Bn (AW has proven its fighting qualities and stood up well under enemy fire."

Pvt. Brown's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown of Candler street. His address is Pvt. Roscoe L. Brown, 24552234, Dtry B 450th AAA - AW - Bn, APO 464 in care of Postmaster, New York, N. Y. Restaurant And Cafe Owners To Meet

The CPO has called an important meeting of all cafe and restaurant operators and other institutional users of food at 1:30 P. M. Friday, January 14, 1942, in the courtroom of the 10th County Court House in Charlotte.

Mr. W. E. Widrig, the food field relations officer of the Office of Price Administration's national staff in Washington, will address the meeting. Mr. A. M. Hollingsworth, Charlotte district food rationing officer, will also talk at the meeting.

The meeting is of utmost importance to all operators of food or beverage because Mr. Widrig and Mr. Hollingsworth will outline the new method by which points for processed food, meats and fats will be figured under the new OPA program. They will also outline the records which must be kept by all those who serve food during this month.

W. E. Hakey urges owners registered with the local Board to attend.
