What to Do

by DONALD CRAGHEAD

Home should be a comfortable place to live in—to come home to after a hard day's work, so do your utmost toward bringing cheer into your home.

Do away with useless things such as make believe fireplaces and fake flowers.

If you are building a permanent home—one you expect to live in for years—invest money in upholstered pieces and good wooden pieces.

Get a huge mirror for over your mantel—or behind your couch. Mirrors give space and light to a room but—a word of warning—don't place a mirror where it will directly catch your reflection — do have them placed where they will repeat a good view.

Dear Jim:

Sorry the letter so late, but I'm up to my ears in the 5th War Loan Drive.

As head of the town committee, I'm busy almost every waking moment selling bonds. This is, by all odds, the most critical period of the war. Everything is at stake — everything (As if I needed to tell you that.) Our quota calls for two billion dollars more in this loan than the last — everyone's got to buy two or three times more than he's ever bought before — if things are to go as we solemnly pray they should.

Thank God most of the people I talk to seem to realize the critical need. They do without things they actually need in order to plunk down another hundred or two. I guess they feel as I do. With a man you love over there, the least you can do is your utmost.

I want you to know, Jim, that the folks here at home are with you — and their money is fighting with you - every last dollar they can scrape up. Mother and I send love.

Dad.
