Dear Gang:
I'm writing this letter to let you know what's going on in K. M. (as if you didn't know!) I think I'm doing a little "dick" around in the "elder crowd" to begin with.

There's been quite a bit of "dick" in the last week and one of the most unexpected dates of the week was "The Yee" and T. G. at the show Monday night with Avis and Bobby Troves, Makie and Terry and Jackie (yep, she's still got the old levlight in her eyes) and Sawyer. "Sawyer" seems to be in tip-top shape and Navy life seems to agree with him. Glad to have you home, Sawyer!

Has anybody looked around and noticed that we have a new "standby" couple in town! Yee, sure! You guessed it! It's Avis and Bobby G. And it doesn't seem like any one sided romance, either! Nice going, Avis! It looks like you've finally landed one; and not just either, from the feminine point of view!

When! It looks like they're coming thick and fast for Boots! Last week it was a sailor and this week it was a Coast Guard (I think!) Goodness, gal, how in the world do you do it? Mighty cute, fellow!

I wanna make a correction—By now everyone knows that Eddy Smith did not go with Jimmy G. (Are ya missin' him, Heulah!) to "the State of the Swaying Palm" (Florida) but from all the cards I've gotten from him he's enjoying himself (and he's enjoying the beach sights, too! Lucky guy, Spivey! Guess it's about time to print to the public the results of my secret survey on the couples in town so-o-o are goss:

This cap, too,
IS PART OF AMERICA'S FIGHTING FORCES!

The man who wears it is one of over one hundred fifty thousand patriotic soldiers of industry who are helping to win the war in an industry which works twenty-four hours a day, three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, to guard America's health by protecting its perishable food supply against attack from bacteria, mould, decay and spoilage.

This vital army of civilian workers, operating nearly six thousand five hundred ice manufacturing plants strategically located in each of our forty-eight States, constitutes a "battle line" in the strictest sense of the word. They are fighting a battle for health and nutrition to bring fresh, vitamin-laden food to our armed forces, war workers and civilian population. The Ice Industry, dedicated to this vital task, produced over forty million tons of ice during the past year! A Modern Record!

For our fighting men...
The protection of fresh perishable foods is a vital element in our war machine. Thousands of refrigerator cars, packed to capacity with fresh meat, fish, fruit, eggs, and vegetables for our fighting men in training and overseas, are on the move day and night. Millions of tons of ice are required to protect this vital food supply all the way from the producers to the Army and Navy Commissions, training centers, and ports. This service must not fail—the loss in vital foods would be staggering and the health of our soldiers and sailors at home and abroad would be seriously endangered.

For our workers...
The health of eleven million American families which use ice for refrigeration depends upon an adequate and continuous supply of ice to protect their food from spoilage. Despite unprecedented military demands and wartime shortages of manpower, materials and equipment, the Ice Industry delivered over twenty billion pounds of ice into these homes during 1943. Ice refrigeration is equally important to the 665,000 food stores, meat and fish markets, restaurants, hotels and hospitals, and other essential commercial establishments which are supplied with over twelve million tons of ice annually.

For our morale...
"Morale" is a vital weapon of war. It makes the difference between the success and failure of men, of Armies, of whole peoples. American morale must be maintained, must be held as high as a torch guiding and encouraging our Allies until final victory is achieved. Nothing contributes more to the day-by-day morale of our fighting men in training, of defense workers and civilians, than fresh, wholesome, vitamin-laden food and the relaxation and refreshment of an ice-cold drink—both made possible by the nation-wide, round-the-clock service of your local ice service man and the Ice Industry.

Along with its vital war activities, the Ice Industry is continuing its leadership in the Refrigeration Industry by constantly maintained research and post-war planning. After Victory comes we will be ready with many interesting innovations in product and service—as well as refrigerators of entirely new design, so that you can enjoy even better refrigeration than ever before. Ice Marches On—with a Nation at our
