By E. T. Bell

THE BATHS — Mrs. Helen Brown and Ruth visited at Bath's Sunday.

THE LINGERER — Mr. Jack Lingerfelt has returned to his camp in the Lone Star state after visiting his people in the city.

THE VISITORS — Edward Harkin and wife from the Charlotte, visited your reporter Sunday.

THE RETURN — Pvt. Charles Crowder, stationed in Maryland in the Air Corps returned to his home Sunday.

THE VISITORS — Gladys Wood, wife and children, visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ware during the week end.

THE VISITORS — Mrs. Belle Whitford of Jefferson, Ga. visited Earl Brown during the week end. Gladys Brown from the Pacific was also a week end visitor.

THE VISITORS — We are so glad for the Haber family that they found Bobbie still living. I just had to go to see them. They are a happy family since they heard from their son. I guess if we were to hear from B. Y. Jr., well, I don't know — you guess.

THE VISITORS — I had on hand like previous shifts all wrapped and ready. I wrapped them up and sent them to Ector Hart's grocery shop. When they came back to the store, I better than when they came from the home, so I had a new endeavor.

THE VISITORS — Let me say a damned word by 1940 we will be feeding the Germans and Japanese. They are the best of us. I know an old Greek and his wife in Charlotte. They run a cafe. I want to see them to see if they are still there.

THE VISITORS — I want to see you then little more than pine knots down at the little Atlantic seat of Stanley sure do know how to put a ball in.

THE VISITORS — Every twenty five years we have to pull the Germans off the French map. Want we ever learn to stand to our business and quit breaking thru the Hinnerburg line.

THE VISITORS — Everytime you see a police pick up a man he's not taking him to jail — he might be going to the town hall to pay his taxes.

THE VISITORS — I swear unto you then little more than pine knots down at the little Atlantic seat of Stanley sure do know how to put a ball in.

THE VISITORS — Providence, R. I., Aug. 20. — A walk out of 7,000 whose 1930 were employed building combat cargo ships for the Navy. Why in the heck can't our soldier boys stack arms and wait out? No, they are forced to fight. Why not force these ship yard workers to pass the ammunition.

THE VISITORS — What ever became of the old mist that set in the corner all winter long with his legs crossed and drank liquor out of brown jug and said the Democrats were against prohibition?

THE VISITORS — If you remember Hoover got credit for bringing on a great depression. If you remember Hoover never plow all under every third row of cotton so we could have more sheets, shirts and socks. If you will still remember Hoover never killed the farmers' little pigs. Mrs. Hoover never did sell any over the radio four more years. Since, gracious goodness, why what for?

THE VISITORS — All I want out of this was is my little boy to come out of the South Pacific snaky jungles of hell and call me papa or daddy.

THE VISITORS — If you want to have a good lunch of neighbors know not their business — don't ask them to investigate a year affair.

THE VISITORS — I want to thank the good people for the subscriptions they are handing me. Come on sister, brother, we and you in our subscription corner.

THE VISITORS — The Home Store looks like a real city main street grocery store, with five two ladies wrapping up good things to eat and passing them to all those waiting crowds. We are awful glad Martha Walker came back from the store to stay and help out in the best store. The Home Store just didn't shut right with her gone.

THE VISITORS — That's all tonight.
