DUST BOWL LESSON LEARNED

With the lesson of "dust bowls" fresh in their minds, American farmers during this war are using the land much more wisely today than they did in the last war, the Office of War Information reports on the basis of data from the Department of Agriculture, Interior and War. Farmers plowed up 20 million acres of land unsuitable for crop cultivation during the last war. During this war they have plowed up less than 1,000,000 acres of such land, and much of this has been put in Victory gardens where it can be kept fairly well under control. Airfields have caused one of the worst recent and erosion problems. Spinning propellers caused miniature dust storms, resulting in damage to planes and injury to the men. Still conservation is a year ago the Department of Agri-expert and Army engineers, however, have worked out methods of protecting the runways and preventing these miniature "dust bowls" from getting started.

THIS IS FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

This is fire prevention week. An proclamation of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. One of every three persons who lost their lives as a result of fires in the United States last year was a farm person. The Department of Agriculture reports fire is more hazardous on the farm than in the city because ten farms can call on a trained fire department for assistance, most farms are not equipped with a ready water supply for fire fighting. Farm buildings are usually not as fire resistant as city buildings and farmers usually carry less fire insurance than city people do. Farm fire prevention suggestions. Have a readily available ladder that will reach to the top of the highest building; see that there is a water-supply for fire fighting on the farm, barns and stations. Firebreaks around haystacks, farm buildings, surrounding farm crops of high fire hazard.

OUTLOOK FOR LIVESTOCK PRICES

With fewer hogs to be marketed this fall and winter and with larger non-living pork purchases, the hog price outlook is more promising than cattle says. Total hog slaughter this year will reach an all time high. The large slaughter has resulted from high butterfat prices in relation to dairy cow prices, a weak demand for calves by cattle feeders, relatively high prices for veal calves for slaughter and record numbers of cows on farms. Prices for hams are likely to average higher this fall and winter than a year ago and live prices now lowest since the fall of 1941.
