 Following is an interesting letter received by Mrs. Lydia Ann Mitchell from her son, Pvt. Johnny Mitchell who at the time the letter was written was at Camp Beale, Calif., part of embarkation:
To the Family:
 Mother, while sitting here tonight, nothing to do, so I thought it would be a good idea to write home. The copy enclosed, I will explain later. Now is everyone, fine I hope, and I hope you received your letter.

West School Faculty And Pupils Entertain

The faculty and pupils of West End school, assisted by the grade mothers, entertained the patrons of the school at a program and informal reception yesterday afternoon and again last evening. The grade mothers and a representative group received in each classroom which was decorated in such a way that educational projects were brought to the attention of the visitors. Mrs. Paul McGinnis, cafeteria manager, and so. I hope you will get my letter and also this one.

 The copy:
 As you see the copy is about a Memorial Service. Yes, six of the boys from camp were killed in bus wreck. Friends of mine as well as the whole camp. While waiting like myself to be shipped overseas, they along with a group of men went to town to help on a job to aid the Home Front. On their way back to camp, when it happened. The Doctors tried to save them, but it was too late, the boys had gone to rest. We hope that these boys have not died in vain, and we hope that the people back home know that. The men and women in the Service still have something to think about until everyone is safe at home again.
 Although, the war is over, the people still have something to fight for and that this country under God may have a new birth of freedom, the government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth—Lincoln.
 Your son,
 Johnny.

Good Schools mean GOOD

WE have always believed that good schools mean good business. Educate a boy and he is a better producer. He will spend more because he can earn more and because he will want better things.

That is why we want to see the schools of this community steadily improved. We also want better schools in the next county and the next state.

Recently the U. S. Chamber of Commerce issued a study which proves our hunch was right. Actual records show that in sections where schools are best and most generously supported—

Of course, we want better schools to give our children cultural advantages and enable them to make the most of themselves. But we also want better schools because they mean good business. Education is an investment that pays.

- incomes are greater
- rentals are higher
- more telephones are used
- more magazines are distributed
- retail sales are greater.

Our schools have given us a special invitation to visit them during American Education Week, November 11-17. Let's do it.
