More Flowers In Postwar Gardens

This year many a home dooryard will take on gay colors than for some years past. Victory Gardeners who concentrated on vegetable growing during the war can now afford to give more attention and space to flowers while continuing to raise enough vegetables for the table. From now on, seed of a greater range of flowers will be available, too. Certain kinds which were produced to a limited extent or not at all during the war are coming back.

You can find annual flowers suitable for almost any location on your home grounds. Is the soil sandy and inclined to be poor? Nasturtiums often like it better and bear more abundant bloom than when the seed is sown in more fertile ground. The same is true of poppies, portulaca, and zinnias.

Do you have a "hot spot" where the soil is likely to dry out rapidly? Ornamental sunflowers, petunias, annual gallardia, calliopsis, sweet alyssum, four o'clocks, and cosmos can endure quite a lot of heat and drought.

No annual flowers will thrive in all shade, but in a place where they get sunshine only part of each day you can enjoy the modest beauty of pansies, violets, bachelor buttons, and nigella.

Plan for a border of annuals that will furnish cut flowers over a long season with plenty left on the plants for dooryard charm. Most flowers do well in the same kind of soil that will grow good vegetables.

No annual flower in the world is more attractive, graceful, and longer lasting than the aster. Be sure to select wilt-resistant strains in their lovely pastel tints and shades. Other easily grown annuals with long stems for cutting are tall marigolds, giant zinnias, calendula, Pink Queen cleome, and cosmos in white, pink, orange, and the newer yellow tints. With shorter stems, though still ideal for bowls and vases and effective in the foreground of a border, are lilliput zinnias, the brave array of newly developed dwarf marigolds, annual pinks and chrysanthemums, snapdragons, and bachelor buttons in white, rose, red, and the popular blue.

Somewhere near a porch where you sit after the day's work is done, raise a clump or row of nicotiana or "flowering tobacco." The plants with their long trumpet blossoms are attractive, and a breath of the heavenly fragrance as night falls will well repay you for giving nicotiana a spot in which to grow.

More About Central Methodist Star

The meeting was closed with the benediction by the pastor of the church.

The Young Adult Fellowship is a newly organized class and has a total of 104 members to date. B. A. Murray is president, Fred Wright, jr is vice-president, Miss Grace Davis is secretary and treasurer and Miss Carolyn Prince is assistant to Miss Davis.

The members of this group hold a devotional in the Fellowship Hall each Sunday morning instead of the regular assembly of all classes. They have a committee that works actively toward increasing attendance and membership; one to plan recreation and entertainment and a flower and visiting committee. Each month two members are appointed to act as a welcoming committee.

Mrs. J. H. Patterson is a most efficient teacher and through her leadership and kind cooperation the Young Adult Fellowship has developed into the star class of the Central Methodist church.

70th Anniversary Couple Give Credit To Religion

"Read your Bible every day," declared 90 year old Jefferson Moss in giving his recipe for longevity and happiness in marriage as with Mrs. Moss, he celebrated his 70th wedding anniversary at their home west of Cherryville Sunday.

"I've worn out two Bibles in my married life," he continued as he beamed upon the throngs of relatives and visitors who all but over-ran the Moss home bright with flowers, gifts of articles and money and remembrances, including those of the President of the United States and Governor Gregg Cherry who sent along an autographed picture as a token of his esteem for folk who make marriage work—and stick—even 70 years.

"It is with a great deal of pleasure that I send you this note of congratulations on your 70th wedding anniversary," wrote President Truman in a letter on White House stationery. "Such an outstanding communionship will, I know, bring you many priceless memories and I want to join your many friends and loved ones in extending best wishes to both of you."

The day started with devotions led by Rev. J. W. Costner who called early at the Moss Home. Later, as the family began assembling for the dinner and open house which followed, Rev. Sylvester Elliott of Cherryville, led further devotionals because Mr. Moss said "we don't do anything here without praising the Lord first."

In excellent health and good spirits the two old people who have lived happily together—he's a Republican and a Baptist, she a Democrat and a Methodist, but they say they've never had an argument over politics or religion in all their married life—enjoyed the felicitations of kin and friends and looked forward to making it 75 years with another gala celebration five years hence.
