Things 1 remember when I was growing up. T C and N railroad being built through Monroe. The first morning the train pulled into the station people gathered by the hundreds to see that locomotive creep into town, load up with many cords of board bought it. Now it runs from Raleigh to Atlanta.

The first automobi e I ever met was a little rattle trap bought in Charlotte by Tom Laney. The first cotton gin I ever saw was pulled around by horses. They caimed they could gin a half bale in a day if they started early.

The first liquor still I ever was down on Brown branch. first two-horse plow I ever drawn by horses and owned by Dr. Griffin's uncle Emsley Griffin. The first bunch of wild deer I ever met were feeding in my father's wheat field. The red fox I met was in the cow lot when mother and I went to milk. I remember a lot of things but this story is getting long. Haven't forgotten about snakes and mad dogs and other pole cats, wild cats and tom cats. When the general election comes a round again I would love to see the Republicans come to the bat. Dem ocrats have been in the saddle so long they are beginning to smell. There's a bad odor in the air and nothing will stop it but a new order of the day. We had less war down through the years when the Republicans ruled the nation and fewer strikes. John L. Lewis rules the business end of the nation. He has created more disorder than any man born. What good is a President if he can't stop strikes.

I am ashamed the way we desecrate the Sabbath. Its the burning question of the present day. If we give up the Sabbath, the church goes. If we give up the church the home goes, and it the home goes, the nation goes.

Germany, proudly said Hitler. The Pimber Ratio Gets Badly Off Balance

> The timber ratio in Eastern North Carolina is now badly off balance and unless corrective steps are taken soon, the ultimate production of voluable pine will hardly meet the toothpick demand at a Sunday School pic-

> Chowan County Agent C. W. Overman, quoting the record, says that on his county's 33,000 acres of woodlands young pine seedlings now represent 22 per cent of wood growth while hardwoods and scrub material constitute the remainder. However, growing timber, six inches in diameter and larger, is now about equally divided between pine and hardwood.

Forestry Professor G. K. Slocum at State College, who recently participated in a state-wide survey of timber conditions, reminded that even if pine were not cut selectively it would be almost eliminated by hardwoods in the course of a hundred years. His prime advice to farmers as a corrective measure in stimulating the growth of pine-more valuable overall than hardwoods - is that wood to fire with. Later the Sea- they provide "sufficient clear space for pine seed and sufficient trees to furnish the seed."

> State foresters again urged farmers to prune and thin forests to provide growing room for straighter, healthier timber.

In the provision of lumber badly needed houses, selective cutting is recommended so as not to dissipate the state's wood supply. Repeated tests have shown that combination cutting of timber-for both time—will return a better profit than lumber and pulpwood at the the cutting of plot for lumber or pulpwood alone.

THE RURAL TELEPHONE JOB AHEAD

SUNRISE DAIRY

WE are enlarging our rural telephone es pansion activities just as rapidly as equipment and materials become available.

At many places we have to install more equipment at the central office, in addition to building telephone lines out into the rural areas, before we can furnish service.

At other places we even have to construct or enlarge buildings before we have space to install the central office equipment.

Much depends on how rapidly manufacturers can supply the necessary equipment and materials. However, we will continue to an forward with our rural telephone work as fast as conditions permit.
