Musical Stars Play To Small Audience

Three noted singers, Richard Maxwell, Margot Power and Mildred Young, appearing here at Central Methodist church Wednesday, gave a superb performance to a handful of people.

The talented trio is one of the units which are now touring the United States under the auspices of the Protestant Churches of America and the Veteran's Hospital Programs, with the purpose of securing funds for the entertainment of our hospitalized veterans.

Mr. Maxwell, nationally known as a radio singer, has been heard for years on his CBS programs, "Songs Of Cheer and Comfort," "A Friend In Deed" and "Hymns You Love." During the war years, he appeared with his choir of eight to ten members, in more than 175 Army camps and bases, giving carefully prepared programs which could be aptly described as "entertainment with a religious purpose." In his present work Mr. Maxwell said, "We are striving to build morale and convert veterans to Christianity in the Veterans Hospitals throughout the land and are making these personal appearances in order to finance the work."

Starting the program with his theme song on many programs, "This Is My Creed," Mr. Maxwell also sang "The Chapel In My Heart" and "The Old Rugged Cross." He put the audience into a friendly mood of informality by leading them in a cheerful song after which he outlined the purposes of the program and made an appeal for funds to take entertaining troops and radios into the hospitals where he said, "these boys are being forgotten."

Miss Power, youngest member of the group, has gained acclaim both as a soloist and pianist, having appeared in both capacities with the "Arthur Godfrey Show and the Buffalo Civic Symphony Orchestra. On the program, she plays her own accompaniment as well as that of the others. Her number Wednesday evening included "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte and "Greater Love Hath No Man" by Power as vocal renditions and two piano solos, one by Chopin and a Spanish number, "Malquena" by Leouona.

Miss Young, a graduate of the Julliard School of Music, for several years was soloist at Rev. Ralph Sockman's Park Avenue church, in New York, later singing for a time with a symphony under Toscanini. She was a popular entertainer in Army camps in South America, Africa and India during the recent war. Her selections in the local program were the alto solo from "The Messiah," "He Shall Feed His Flock," "I Talked To God Last Night" by Dyne and "When Children Pray."

At the conclusion of the program, the audience was invited to gather around the piano and request their favorite numbers. Several remained for awhile to hear an impromptu concert of hymns, classics and semi-popular songs.

Mrs. Cole Honored At Delightful Party

Mrs. James Cole was delightfully honored on Saturday evening, the day being her birthday anniversary, when Mrs. Bruce Cash, entertained at a gay party.

Guests were a few intimate friends who showered Mrs. Cole with many beautiful gifts.

A number of amusing games were played and at the conclusion of the party, the hostess served the delicious birthday cake along with an appetizing salad course.

Miss Pearl Harmon Weds Charles Black

On Friday evening, January 23, at 7:30, the Parsonage of Central Methodist church was the scene of a beautiful wedding when Miss Pearl Harmon and Charles Black were united in marriage by Rev. J. G. Winkler, who used the impressive double ring ceremony.

The vows were exchanged in an exceptionally pretty setting, achieved by white roses, narcissi, carnations and burning tapers in effective arrangement.

Before the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. James Black, pianist and Miss Betty Hawkins, vocalist. Mrs. Black played "O Perfect Love" by Barnby and Miss Hawkins sang "Because" by d'Harlot and "I Love You Truly" by Bond.

Approaching the improvised altar with the bridegroom, the bride looked very lovely in a fashionable suit of Moth rose gabardine with which she wore a smart orchid-hued hat. Her other accessories were black and white and at her shoulder were a pair of purple orchids. Her only ornament was an antique cameo pin, which was worn by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. William Eiters, when she was married.

Attendants were the bride's sister, Miss Nina Harmon, as maid of honor and the bridegroom's brother, Jimmy Black, serving as best man. The maid of honor was attractively gowned in a dress of purple, designed with a flattering draped hood, hip-molding peplum and long fitted sleeves ending in Calla lily points at the wrists. Her corsage was of pink camellias with matching ribbon.

Mrs. Black is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edgar D. Harmon of this town. She has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Anthony for the past several years.

Mr. Black is the son of Mrs. J. B. Self and the late Harley Black. He served nearly five years in the U. S. Marine Corps, spending 35 months of this time in the Pacific Theatre. He is now employed by Neisler Mills.

Reception

Immediately following the wedding, Mrs. Jack Anthony, sister of the bride, entertained the wedding party, close relatives and intimate friends at a reception and dinner party at the South Dining Hall. The bride's table, covered with an exquisite cloth of Chinese lace, was centered with the three-tiered wedding cake. Bowls of white narcissi, roses and fern and tall tapers in crystal holders were used at each end of the table.

Those assisting at the reception were Mesames Fred Harmon, Jack Sherer, James Cloninger, Alex Harmon and Earl Cloninger.

Following the reception, the couple left for a Southern wedding trip and on their return will make their home in this town.

Gleaners Class Met At Matthews Home

Members of the Gleaners Class of the First Baptist church were entertained on Monday evening by Mrs. Eugene Matthews and Mrs. Clyde Murphy at the home of the former on Cansler street, when they came together for their regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. J. B. Falls, president, was in charge and several matters of business were dispatched. A special offering was taken to be sent to Chinese orphans, sponsorship of a Girl Scout troop was discussed and plans were made for an auction sale to be held at the February meeting.

During the social period which followed the business session, the hostesses served an attractive and tasty salad and sweet course.

Guilford county, with 15 persons killed through November, has had the greatest decrease of all counties. During the first 11 months of 1946, Guilford reported 51 traffic deaths.
