

Plan To Continue Dog Racing Season

Morehead City. — Tentative date for ending the first summer season of Morehead City's new dog track has been set for October 15, according to announcement made this week by officials of Carolina Racing Association. The track was completed and formally opened on June 30, and many predicted that it would be a short-lived recreational enterprise. As matter of fact there has never been an enterprise in this section of the State which has grown so much in popularity.

Under the supervision of the Morehead City Racing Commission and through an act of the legislature enacted in 1939, the track inroduced pari-mutuel gambling in North Carolina. Many of the Eastern Carolina residents who visit the track to witness the races do not go there to gamble—they go because they like dogs, whether they are pointers, setters, coon, 'possum, fox or greyhounds. It is greyhounds which do the racing and more than 300 dogs have been here during the season to be entered in the races.

Miss Brashers Lists Top Plentiful Foods

Irish potatoes are in undisputed first place on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's plentiful foods list for September — the fifth consecutive month in top position — Miss LaUna Brashers, home demonstration agent for the State College Extension Service, said here this week. In the second spot on the plentiful list, she said, are grapes, followed closely by celery, tomatoes, and apples.

Among other September plentifuls the home agent added, are canned citrus juices, "which offer an excellent source of cooling summer drinks, please the taste, and add a good supply of nutrients to hot weather diets." Although orange supplies from Florida are negligible Miss Brashers explained that California is shipping oranges and lemons in sufficient quantity to keep them on retail markets during the month.

About 70,000 tons of asparagus butts are discarded annually by processing plants.
