Extensive repairs have been completed on the Kings Mountain high school gymnasium under the direction of A. G. Everhart, a local painting contractor. Painting the gym took about two weeks and two coats were applied in this time. A special coat was applied to the ceiling to keep the knots from showing and aluminum paint was used on all metal work. Dressing rooms were painted white with a grey wainscoat.

A sump pump was installed to keep water from flooding the basement and the inter-communications system, which can be controlled from the gymnasium or from the inter-communications room in the high school, was extended to the gymnasium, however, the system is not in operation yet.
