Hunting License Requirements. Many people have made inquiries according to Col. Clyde F. Patton, executive director of the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission, as to state laws applying to requirements for hunting licenses when a person is hunting unprotected birds, or animals such as English Sparrow, Great Horned Owl, Cooper's Hawks, Sharp-Shinned Hawks, Crows, Jays, Blackbirds, Starlings, Buzzards, Wildcats, Weasels, and Skunks. There has also been a question raised as to requirements for a license when a person is fox hunting with dogs or with guns in accordance with the county law which governs such hunting.

North Carolina law requires all persons over 16 years of age, except landowners or lessors hunting on their own land, to have a valid hunting license in their possession while hunting any wild bird or mammal whether or not it is protected by law. Regulations regarding the hunting and taking of foxes vary among counties which have special fox laws but in counties which do not have such special laws the season for shooting foxes opens and closes with the seasons on other game species.

Licenses are required to be purchased.

chased by fox hunters as well as by the hunters of unprotected species in all counties throughout the state. Game protectors, who are responsible for enforcing the game and fish laws, have been asked to exercise care in determining whether or not a person is actually engaged in fox hunting. After the protector has satisfied himself, however, that a person is actually participating in the fox hunt, and is not just a casual observer from an automobile, he may require the participant to purchase a hunting license.

Wildlife Commission Okays New Hatchery—The Wildlife Resources Commission's newly renovated fish hatchery and rearing station at Marion will have a new $23,000 trout hatchery building, subject to Budget Bureau approval, according to Col. Patton.

At a meeting in Raleigh recently the Commission voted for the hatchery building to augment trout production for streams in the western part of the State and to place facilities for trout hatching in a centrally located area.

The new hatchery building is an addition to the Commission's program of completely renovating the Marion hatchery. Work has recently been completed on the construction of new rearing ponds and water supply ponds. Trout are now being reared at the Marion hatchery for release during the coming season.

Sportsmen Asked To Aid Trout Stocking Program—At a meeting in Raleigh recently, the Commission approved a plan suggested by Col. Patton, which calls for encouraging sportsmen and sportsmen's organizations to assist with the distribution of hatchery-reared trout in western North Carolina streams.

When trout are ready to be released in a given locality, sportsmen and sportsmen's organizations in the area will be notified and urged to assist in distributing the fish. The plan is designed to effect a wider distribution of trout in western North Carolina streams.

When trout are ready to be released in a given locality, sportsmen and sportsmen's organizations in the area will be notified and urged to assist in distributing the fish. The plan is designed to effect a wider distribution of trout in public waters. To stock trout properly it is often necessary to carry them in buckets or packs over considerable distances for release in suitable areas. Cooperation of sportsmen in stocking operations would tend to reduce over-all costs of trout production and result in a more efficient system of stocking.

State Gets Federal Trout Eggs and Fingerlings—A total of nearly 900,000 trout eggs are now being incubated in the Commission's trout hatcheries, according to Col. Patton.

Included in the total are 293,921 eyed brook trout eggs from the federal hatchery at Berlin, New Hampshire, and 73,000 rainbow trout eggs from the Wytheville, Virginia, federal hatchery. The eggs, valued at $917.50, were received from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service Hatcheries without cost to the State.

One hundred thousand brook trout eggs and 73,000 rainbow trout eggs are being hatched at the Roaring Gap Hatchery, and 193,924 brook trout eggs are being hatched at the Waynesville hatchery. In addition to the eggs received from the Fish and Wildlife Service are 300,000 brown trout eggs and 200,000 rainbow trout eggs purchased from commercial hatcheries and now being hatched at the Waynesville hatchery.

Besides the eggs received from the federal hatcheries, the Commission has obtained 18,594 brook, rainbow, and brown trout fingerlings, running from five to six inches in length. The fingerlings are now in rearing ponds at the Marion hatchery, and are to be reared to seven inch size for release this year.

Trout eggs and fingerlings are received by the State under an agreement with the Fish and Wildlife Service which allows for free distribution of surpluses to State wildlife agencies. Total value of fingerlings and eggs received from the Fish and Wildlife Service is $2,706.60.

Former Conservation and Development Game Regulations Reinstated—The Commission has reinstated several regulations applying to game which were first instituted by the North Carolina Division of Conservation and Development, according to Col. Patton. Action was taken at a recent Commission meeting in Raleigh to put the following regulations in force:

1. It shall be unlawful for any hunting guide to aid or accompany any person, or persons in the taking of any wild animal or bird, unless such person or persons first possess the proper hunting license.
2. All regulations dealing with the taking of migratory wildfowl as established by the Department of the Interior are hereby adopted and have the full force of State regulations.
3. It shall be unlawful to allow dogs to run or chase deer during the closed season.
4. It shall be unlawful to permit dogs to chase deer or to take deer with dogs at any time in and west of the following counties: Vance,

Wake, Chatham, Montgomery, and Anson Counties.

The reinstatement of these regulations make them a part of the official regulations of the Wildlife Resources Commission pertaining to the taking of game.

The availability of potash has been improved through the expansion of plants in recent years.

CAMELS for MILDNESS!

They Add Up to a Brighter Future for the South

"Look Ahead—Look South!"

Last year the Southern Railway System repeated this invitation to industries over 43 million times in advertisements in the nation's leading magazines.

Why are we "telling the world" about the South year after year? Because every new factory that sets-up-shop here means more jobs... more business for local merchants... more dollars to spread across the South and into our homes... and more traffic for the Southern.

Along our lines, in the past several years, new industries have "come South" at the rate of more than one a day! And they keep coming!

When the bookkeepers of the future total their accounts, we believe they'll find that our efforts and enthusiasm have added up to greater things for all of us... to more opportunity for our youngsters... to a brighter future for the Southland.
