MRS. MARVIN ELMER MCGILL

McGill-Williams Vows Spoken Wednesday In Home Ceremony

Miss Maude Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wray A. Williams, of Kings Mountain, became the bride of Marvin Elmer McGill, son of Mrs. L. B. McGill, and the late L. B. McGill of Kings Mountain, Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. J. H. Brendall, jr., pastor of the Central Methodist church officiated using the double ring ceremony.

The vows were spoken under an arch before the mantle in the music room, which was banked with ferns and lacy greenery interspersed with baskets of white gladioli. Lighted cathedral tapers in seven branched candelabras added a soft glow to the setting. H. O. Williams, brother of the bride, and Welford Bullock, brother-in-law, lighted the cathedral tapers.

Mrs. John Gamble, sister of the bridegroom, pianist, and Mrs. C. J. McCarter, of Gastonia, vocal soloist, presented a program of nuptial music prior to the speaking of the vows. Before the ceremony Mrs. Gamble played "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Liebestraum"; "To A Wild Rose" was played softly as a background for the exchange of vows. Mrs. McCarter sang, "Through The Years" and "I Love You Truly," before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer," as the benediction. The traditional wedding marches were used as the processional and recessional.

The bride and groom entered together. The bride made a pretty picture in her wedding gown of sheer white organdy, a Meemont original, fashioned after the quaint gowns of an earlier period. It was designed with a high neckline, fitted bodice with an intricate design of applique daisies and a full skirt with unpressed pleats from the bodice to the hem. Her shoulder tip veil of sheer French illusion fell gracefully from a bandeau of illusion. She carried a nosegay of white garden flowers centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Williams, mother of the bride, wore a blue dress with white accessories and a shoulder corsage of red rosebuds.

Mrs. McGill, mother of the bridegroom, wore an orchid dress with white accessories and a shoulder corsage of pink rosebuds.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents, entertained the wedding guests at a reception. The bride's table in the dining room was covered with an Irish linen cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom and flanked on either side with white cut and served the wedding cake after the bride and bridegroom had cut the traditional first piece.

Later Mr. and Mrs. McGill left for a wedding trip to the mountains of Western North Carolina. For traveling the bride wore a yellow Handmacher suit with white accessories and a white orchid shoulder corsage.

Mrs. McGill is a graduate of WCUNC and has been employed as a teacher in the city schools of Gastonia, N. C. Mr. McGill is a graduate of Erskine College and is now employed as a teacher at Sherrill's Ford, N. C.

On their return from their wedding trip they will make their home in Mooresville.

Only members of the two immediate families and the following out-of-town guests were present: Mrs.
