

MRS. PAUL EDWARD WARE

Miss Doris Cloninger Becomes Bride Of Paul E. Ware In Church Ceremony

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was solemnized at the First Baptist church on Saturday, July 23, at 5:30 in the afternoon when Miss Doris June Cloninger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Flo Cloninger, became the bride of Paul Edward Ware, son of Mrs. John Fletcher Ware, and the late Mr. Ware.

Rev. Lucian C. Pinnix, pastor of the church, heard the exchange of vows, using the inspiring double ring ritual.

A setting of uncual beauty was achieved by use of stately floor baskets filled with white gladioli which were posed before a background of Olive palms and Plumosa fern, grouped with cathedral tapers in branched candelabra. Lighted tapers, emerging from clusters of feathery fern, were used to outline the curved choir railing at each side of the altar. Dainty tendrils of fern tied with satin ribbon marked the pews for the two families.

Nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. L. C. Pinnix, organist, Miss Barbara Matthews, soprano, and Bill Amos, baritone. Before the ceremony, Mrs. Pinnix played "The Bells of Saint Mary" by Adams, Schubert's "Serenade," "Nocturne in E Flat" by Chopin and "Traumerie," by Schumann. Miss Matthews and Mr. Amos sang together Victor Herbert's "Indian Love Call" and Mr. Amos sang "Because" by deHardenot. Traditional marches were played for the processional and recessional and as a benediction, Mr. Amos sang "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte.

The bride, an attractive blonde, was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She made a charming picture in her gown of filmy white marquisette. A Queneau, it was fashioned with a high neckline which featured atiny collar of exquisite lace. A double band of the same scalloped lace circled her shoulders and came together at the front to form an appealing yoke-effect. The sculptured bodice, coming to a deep V in front, had a row of wee self-covered buttons from throat to waist which were repeated at the wrists of the fitted sleeves which ended in Calla Lily points over the hands. The softly gathered skirt extended into a lovely rounded train. Her fingertip veil of Strausvian illusion had a brief over tier and was held in place by a tiara of fluted organdy. Lilies-of-the-valley sprinkled the tiara and were caught in the ribbons which fell in graceful streamers from the back of the headpiece. She wore sheer nylon mitts and carried a bouquet of white roses, centered with a purple-throated orchid and showered with ribbon-tied tuberoseas.

Mrs. Oliver Falls was her sister's only attendant. Her gown was a Trippani creation of white organza mounted on orchid taffeta. Intricately embroidered organza in upright folds made a flattering stole collar above the sweetheart neckline of the bodice which was girdled with a cummerbund of orchid taffeta. The full skirt had insets of the same delicate embroidery. An orchid ostrich plume was secured in her hair by a narrow bandeau of braided velvet and she carried an arm bouquet of pink and purple asters.

George Ware served his brother as best man and ushers were Everette Cloninger, brother of the bride, Belvin Ware, brother of the bridegroom, Oliver Falls, the bride's brother-in-law, and Charles H. Gantt.

Mrs. Cloninger, the bride's mother, wore a modish dress of grey crepe with black accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Ware, mother of the bridegroom, was smartly attired in black. Her accessories were white and her shoulder bouquet was of white rosebuds.

Miss Shirley Falls, niece of the bride, and Miss Joyce Cloninger, the bride's cousin, presided at the registers. Miss Falls was gowned in green taffeta and Miss Cloninger was in yellow.

After the ceremony the bridal couple and their attendants, standing in the foyer graciously greeted the guests as they left the church. Mr. and Mrs. Ware left afterwards for a wedding trip and on their return will reside at the home of Mr. Ware's mother on the Waco road. For traveling Mrs. Ware chose a chic suit of brown Moineau linen with which she wore white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The young couple were educated in the city schools and both hold positions with Plonk Enterprises.

Fortune of Hickory were invited in for refreshments. Out of town guests were Miss Patty Harris of Americus, Ga., and Miss Nancy Wilson of Bartow, Fla.

Miss Bobbie Barrett Given Surprise Party

Miss Jo Ann Wall and Miss Doris Barrett were hostesses Wednesday night at the home of the latter at a pretty surprise birthday party complimenting Miss Bobbie Barrett who was celebrating her birthday anniversary.

The home was attractively decorated with cut summers flowers and the table in the dining room, was covered with a snowy white linen cloth in the center was a large birthday cake decorated in pink and white, flanked on either side with lighted candles.

Guests enjoyed an hour of informal games which were led by Miss Jo Ann Wall. After the games Miss Barrett was invited to go into the dining room to open her shower of gifts.

Later the hostesses served ice cream, cakes and punch.
