Jets, Bearcats To Be Available For Navy

NAVAL BASE, Charleston, S. C.—Jet fighters (F4U PHANTOMS and P-51 FURIES) and the latest conventional Navy fighter planes (F4U Bearcats) are being made available for the first time to Naval Reserve Pilots.

The Commandment Sixth Naval District has been notified that 24 FSF's are scheduled to be delivered to the U. S. Naval Air Station, Atlanta, Ga., by December 31, 1949.

More than 15,500 Naval Reserve pilots are actively participating in the Navy's air reserve training program throughout the country.

Help for the Boss

Once in awhile, a new chapter is written in the history of labor union activities. Most labor-management difficulties are very old problems that have existed ever since man first hired-out to another; however, a lot of them belong to new situations, and sometimes we have thought they were new because we had not solved them before. But we have paid increasing attention to hours, wages, and working conditions. A new science of industrial relations has grown up, with nearly every company giving time and effort to improve things for the worker.

One-sided Progress?

In this the unions have helped, for unions in fact exist for the main purpose of looking out for their own. Now, if we have reached the place where union members can see things they can do in turn for their employers, have we not reached an important milestone in industrial relations?

Just recently Mr. Walter Cenerazzo, president of the American Watch Workers Union, led members of his union in a project designed to help the Waltham Watch Company. This company, one of three major American watchmakers, had closed its Waltham, Mass., plant December 31 because it could no longer meet interest payments on a debt of some 5 million dollars. In closing, the 96-year-old company had to discharge 2,300 workers.

What Workers Did

Mr. Cenerazzo, having an unusual grasp of the many problems that labor has to face these days, determined to do something. "If a company is worth working for and drawing a livelihood from, it's worth putting your money into to furnish the working capital to make it a success," he told union members in a mass meeting. Then Mr. Cenerazzo and Waltham employees undertook to see what they could do about it.

Right away, 820 union members pledged themselves to subscribe $318,000 in equity financing. More than $40,000 was put up in cash. One employee with 45 years service pledged $5,000. A stock-buying plan for employees was set up, permitting purchases of stock on a time-payment basis. "We expect to raise more than $1,250,000 by this method," said Mr. Cenerazzo.

Common Problems

This is the story of a company up against trouble. It is also a story of employee integrity, courage, and determination. I hope these workers succeed in saving their company. In this story, the theme of labor-management relations has indeed taken a new twist. The workers of Waltham have understood the desperate need of industry for capital. "Twice the working capital is needed now as in 1940, because of increased costs," Mr. Cenerazzo told workers.

This milestone in industrial relations proves that labor unions can see that industry's problems are their problems also. You may call it just good sense—seeing the other fellow's difficulty and helping him out of it. Another name for it is the Golden Rule.
