

Barkley To Address Jackson-Jefferson Dinner In Raleigh

With Vice President Alben Barkley making the principal address, and with a dozen or more top officials from Washington on hand, the 1950 Jackson-Jefferson Dinner in Raleigh on January 28 bids fair to break all previous records for interest and outstanding success.

National Committeeman Jonathan Daniels opened offices in the Sir Walter Hotel last week, with Mrs. Mary Pollard, veteran of many Democratic party campaigns, in charge. Thomas A. Banks, Raleigh lawyer and former private secretary to Governor Broughton, has been named finance director.

A staff of stenographers is busy getting out letters to county chairmen advising the number of dinner tickets which have been allotted to the respective counties. Purpose of the dinner is to raise funds for the Democratic National Committee, and while tickets are not actually "sold," allotment is on basis of one ticket for each $50 contribution to the party fund. Total goal has been set at a minimum of $30,000.

The "Veep" will be accompanied by Mrs. Barkley, bride of a few weeks, whose presence is expected to add glamor to the occasion. Because the dinner falls upon the same date as a southern regional conference of national Democratic leaders, numerous other high ranking guests are expected. These include W. R. Boyle, national Democratic chair-

Tax On Margarine Is Gaining Support Senate Bill To Kill

Appeals to consumers to help reduce the cost of living by voting their support of the Senate bill to eliminate the federal tax of 10c a pound on yellow margarine are gaining support in every section of the country. C. G. Henry, chairman of the National Cotton Council's special committee on margarine legislation, declared here today.

Cottonseed and soybean producers across the nation have been active in the fight to repeal margarine taxes, he stated, and have done much to arouse public sentiment. Mr. Henry stated that the response of consumers in towns and cities was especially gratifying. He also praised the press for taking up the battle to repeal the margarine taxes.

Cottonseed, he pointed out, is produced by 1,200,000 farm families while soybean is grown by 700,000 farm families. Most of these, he added, have made known their views to their Senators. He warned, however, that during recent weeks the feeling has existed in some farm areas that the battle is over and that passage of legislation assuring repeal of onerous taxes on margarine is assured.

"This feeling of overconfidence, unless checked, can lead to defeat," he asserted. "Consumers and farmers who have not yet informed their Senators of their views on this important issue are doing an injustice to themselves and to all other farmers and consumers. Those who wish to continue saddling margarine with burdensome, crippling taxes are shrewdly and quietly rounding up opposition to the Senate bill. More than ever before constant vigilance is required of those who wish to free margarine from discriminatory statutes."
