New Construction Method Expected To Decrease Costs

Bids received for the Apartment-Dormitory building at the State Sanatorium at McCain, N. C., recently have now been tabulated and show a marked saving on a new construction method employed, says Frand Turner, spokesman for the engineering office of the Budget Bureau in Raleigh. The new design, created by F. Carter Williams, Raleigh architect, employs Reinforced Rowlock Brick walls, which system affords greater strength with thinner walls than ordinary construction. This is said to be the primary reason for the economy.

Low bidder on the new structure was Wilson-Ledford Construction Co., of Gastonia, who placed an alternate bid increasing the general contract bid of $39,361 by almost 10 percent to substitute brick and cinder block walls for the new system.

Alternate bids for the two methods of construction were requested because it was feared that economies of the Reinforced Rowlock Brick wall might not be apparent on its first trial in this area, but it was significant that only 3 of the 12 general contractors bidding on the project offered bids favoring the more conventional system. According to Mr. Turner, whose office diligently watches expenditures on State construction, these results indicate that the new method offers real possibilities for saving money on the large North Carolina building program projected for the near future.

Herald "House-of-the-Week"

THE BRADDOCK, a small two bedroom house, utilizes the garage that is attached to the blank wall formed by the stairs and the entrance vestibule to present a wide front. Both, the garage door and the front entrance, are amply protected by the wide sheltering roof overhang.

The adjoining kitchen and bathroom, with the laundry directly below, groups the plumbing. The bedroom closets are the wardrobe type. The front vestibule holds a large linen cabinet and coat closet.

The exterior is finished with wide siding. The living room has a large double glazed picture window with flanking corner windows. The low pitched hip roof is constructed with asphalt shingles.

Overall dimensions are 44 feet by 26 feet. The living room projection is 5 feet 6 inches. The floor area is 896 square feet excluding the garage, while the cubage is 17,374 cubic feet.

For further information about THE BRADDOCK, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.
