

The Kings Mountain Herald

Established 1899

A weekly newspaper devoted to the promotion of the general welfare and published for the enlightenment, entertainment and benefit of the citizens of Kings Mountain and its vicinity, published every Friday by the Herald Publishing House.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Kings Mountain, N. C., under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Editorial Department
Martin Harmon Editor-Publisher
Charles T. Carpenter, Jr. Sports, Circulation, News
Mrs. F. D. Harndon Society

Mechanical Department
Eugene Matthews
Horace Walker
Paul Jackson
Charles Odems
Ivan Weaver

TELEPHONES: Society, 167; Other, 283

SUBSCRIPTION RATES, PAYABLE IN ADVANCE

ONE YEAR—$2.00 SIX MONTHS—$1.10 THREE MONTHS—.60

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

A naughty person, a wicked man, walked with a froward mouth. Proverbs 6:12.

Races Are Set

On the state-wide and district level, 1950's political races are formally set. There weren't any last-minute surprises which affect Kings Mountain and Cleveland County, and there were few across the state.

Thus the main interests of people of this area will concentrate on the two senatorial campaigns and the four-man affair for 11th district Congressman to succeed Major A. L. Bulwinkle.

Senator Clyde R. Hoey, of Shelby, doesn't figure to have to much trouble in retaining his seat against Marshall Kurfees, mayor of Winston-Salem, who has been running for some office or another for the past 18 years. He finally hit on the Winston-Salem mayoralty, but few political observers—in spite of Kurfees' expectation of corraling the organized labor vote—think he'll come close. Mr. Hoey, as former Governor and long-time servant of the electorate, is well-known on a personal basis throughout the state. Most important, he is known favorably. The people like him.

In the other race for the Senate, Dr. Frank P. Graham, Scott-appointee, is listed as the man to beat. He has the earlier start over his opponents, Willis Smith and Bob Reynolds, and his utterances and statements of recent weeks indicate that he is not quite as far to the left as some of his chief critics think. He also has the Scott-organization support. Smith is less-known, but highly regarded by those acquainted with him. His platform announced over the weekend, is not greatly different from Graham's, yet he will, nevertheless, carry the banner of the more conservative element in North Carolina, who, though they don't want to return to the unbalanced situation of the thirties, do feel that the so-called social programs can well be halted where they are, at least temporarily. Former Senator Reynolds, an effective campaigner, is an isolationist. Otherwise, his domestic program is as leftist, if not more so, than Dr. Graham's.

For the House, there are three major candidates. Charles T. Hamilton, of Gastonia, Woodrow Jones, of Rutherfordton, and Nat Hamrick, of Rutherfordton. The fourth, Mickey Walker of Rutherfordton, does not figure to get many votes—even in his home county. Of the three major candidates, all are of somewhat similar feeling, they have indicated, about governmental policy. The winner may well be the one with the greater will to work, and with the best personality.

Both the Graham-Smith-Reynolds fracas and the Jones-Hamilton-Hamrick battle have all the earmarks of producing slambang political fights, with most observers predicting second primaries in each.

Add to that the already warm, soon-to-be-hot, three-way joust for sheriff, and it can be seen that Cleveland County is in for an interesting spring. And the word "interesting" is quite probably an understatement.

It won't be long until the census-takers are active ringing doorbells to get the latest facts and figures on the people of the nation. Every citizen should get excited about the census and should be sure he's listed. One fellow remarked the other day he didn't think he'd ever been listed, and he was no juvenile. It might be hard for the 15 enumerators in this area to see everyone. If it looks like you're going to be missed, telephone one of the enumerators.

Our congratulations to Mrs. Candace Miller Mauney, who has reached the exclusive nonagenarian circle. Mrs. Mauney has lived a life of service, which makes citizens of this community even happier that she has attained her ninetieth birthday.

10 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

Items of news taken from the 1940 files of the Kings Mountain Herald.

Rev. E. C. Cooper, President of the Lutheran Seminary, Columbia, S. C., will speak at the annual community Easter service which is to be held at 7 a. m. Sunday morning at the Central high school.

Mrs. Aubrey Mauney has just received word from Dean Akward of the Music faculty of Western College, Greensboro, that two of her compositions won first place in the amateur group of the North Carolina Composer's contest.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL
Members of the Gleaners Class of the First Baptist church school held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Cox, with Mrs. Richard Ford as joint hostess.

Misses Betty and Jean Evelyn Cash, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. David Cash, entertained a number of their school friends at a lovely joint birthday party.

Mrs. Dick Eiam, has returned to Raleigh where he is a student at State College.

Miss Janet Scoggins of the high school faculty will visit her sister in Augusta, Ga., during the Easter holidays.

Mrs. W. R. Darracott and daughter, Bobbie Jean, Mrs. James S. Jones and Miss Mary Campbell were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Darracott last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cooper were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Segars of Troy, N. C.

martin's medicine

(Containing bits of news, wisdom, humor, and comment. To be taken weekly. Avoid over-dosage.)

Air Castles

Have you built any air castles lately?

Of course, you have. Everybody builds castles every day. It's an entertaining pastime.

In customary meaning, building air castles is merely dreaming. It doesn't necessarily mean one merely builds castles of the old English, Spanish or Moorish variety, but some dreaming does take that form. For instance the two lovely homes as most people remark about when going through Asheville on the way to fall football games, must have had much air castle work done long before building was actually begun. The same is unquestionably true for many homes here.

But building air castles takes many forms, applying not only to actual construction of buildings, but to work to hobbies, and to careers. (Career is a word I've never liked much, probably because it's seldom used as accurately as it should be. In other words, I think "career" is a little too glamorous and over-ambitious when applied to a person's four years in high school, or four years in college, or a few years of labor. Franklin Roosevelt, Dwight Eisenhower, John L. Lewis, General Marshall, Joe DiMaggio, Billy Sunday, all qualify in the "career" category and I suppose when one speaks of "career" one is quite accurate. But there's been something outstanding in the background, another less-glamorous word, not quite as indicative of great accomplishments, should be used.)

Temperance, the ever-present need in all things (though it gets greater attention in reference to consumption of booze,) is definitely necessary in the air-castle building business. The obvious result of too much air-castle building is, never getting around to doing anything toward getting the castle built. Concurrently, the obvious result of never building any air castles is stagnation. I can sure the readers of this piece can quickly think of people who fall in both categories. Some dream all the time, never do anything. Others never dream. Lack imagination.

The air castle department starts very early in life for most folks. Like a baby dreaming of mountains of chocolate candy, it continues through the imitating age, like two youngsters I saw last Saturday. They were dreaming that they were grown up, and were parading around in mama's old shoes, pushing doll carriages and carrying pocketbooks—and having the times of their lives.

Arnold Kiser was telling me the other day about his son Johnny. Johnny went down to Atlanta a season or two ago to see a football game between Georgia Tech and some other team. Ever since, Johnny has air-castled himself as a student at Tech, and unless he re-models his castle between now and finishing high school, that's likely where he'll wind up.

Air castle building put me into newspapering, though not in exactly the same form I used to dream about. When I was a youngster, I was a sports fiend, like most other youngsters. Big trouble was that I was never any good at any sport. I attained greatest efficiency, by comparison, in tennis and bowling and never was particularly good even at them. But I was just plain terrible at the first two: baseball, football, basketball. These were only one course left, and that was to write about it. Then I got to dreaming about being a big city sports columnist, sports man, and Alvin Gould, at that time, the Whitney Martin of the Associated Press sports department, was the ideal. The romance of watching and reporting Duke-Fitt in Durham one weekend, then doing the same on Southern California. Studied the part was really what I wanted. I thought, in the course of growing older, finding after college that the big-city boys weren't as anxious to snap up a brilliant and budding young reporter as I thought, and expected they would be. I got disappointed a little, and I've never mentioned it. The travel and comment that appeared so romantic to the 14-year-old would unquestionably prove wearying and perhaps even boring now.

But a man has to dream to accomplish anything. There's not a business in Kings Mountain, not a house, nor anything that isn't the result of building air castles. It's like Wilson Crawford told me sometime ago in reply to a question about the worth of a particular piece of property. "Well," he replied, "it depends on how you're going to use it. It would be worth so much and so more for building a house, probably worth

CROSSWORD

By A. C. Gordon

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11				12	13		14
15	16	17			18				20
21		22	23
24	25	26		27		28	29
31		32	33	34	35		36	37	38
39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48
49	50		51		52		53
54				55

World of Business

ACROSS

- Real estate contracts
- Business's great
- Official of communication
- A declaration of individuality
- To freeze
- The long way of writing the symbol designating first-class
- Businessman's assistant
- To wear away
- Brings to an end voluntarily the introduction of evidence (in law)
- A short letter (abbrev.)
- Measure of area
- Papers listing goods shipped (three words)
- One of the other of two (abbrev.)
- Chemical symbol of lithium
- Wrath
- Successive progressive measure toward a result
- Greek letter
- Southwestern U. S. state (abbrev.)

DOWN

- Revised Statutes of America (abbrev.)
- Legal Measures (abbrev.)
- Parental nickname
- Time past
- Young Administrative Executives (abbrev.)
- Three-toed sloth
- Supporting the receipt of a business letter
- The night before an event
- Silver on which Shakespeare lived
- To recall, as a law
- Fashionable French drawing rooms
- Measure of weight (abbrev.)
- East India (abbrev.)
- In addition
- Waterless vehicle
- Title of report used in business
- To seal, as a contract
- Weight of a container or vehicle
- Southwestern U. S. state (abbrev.)
- Printer's measure
- Pratin denoting "again"
- Chemical symbol for cerium
- Official enumeration of people
- Imposing arrangements
- To recede
- To drop
- Towards
- Man's nickname
- Noun suffix equivalent to "er"
- A legal right to control
- Compensation for professional service
- A detail on an invoice
- Profit
- To make worse
- Gardening implement
- One to whom your bills are paid
- Bring into line
- The residence of an aristocrat
- According to law
- Measure of area
- To advance
- Newspaper announcement
- A legal right to control
- Roman numeral
- Room
- To catch (dial.)
- Roman numeral
- A cat

See The Want Ad Section For This Week's Completed Puzzle

Other Editor's Viewpoints

GOOD ADVICE

(Rutherford County News)
Abraham Lincoln is credited with the following ten statements, or good advice. Read them carefully, they are worth knowing, regardless of who is their author.

- You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift.
- You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong.
- You cannot help the strong man by tearing down big men.
- You cannot help the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer.
- You cannot further the brotherhood of man by encouraging class hatred.
- You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich.
- You cannot establish sound security on borrowed money.
- You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than you earn.
- You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence.
- You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves.

Ever so important, we think, are these statements and if such a philosophy could be adopted by all state and national administrative heads, our people could be emancipated from bonds that hold moes tight to many types of grind-stones.

It goes without saying that the driving public is responsible for the increase, and it will be the driving public that will be responsible when there is a decrease.

It is interesting to note, however, that 63 additional highway patrolmen have recently been assigned to duty in the state. That should help some in the matter of accidents, as drivers are more apt to use care and precaution when they fear the presence of a patrolman. That is, many have more fear of being "pulled" for careless and reckless driving than they have of being killed for the same cause.

That feeling of BELONGING

Hard to beat, isn't it? That feeling of being accepted—of being a respected part of your community.

A business—like a man—is judged by the way it does business. To be accepted it must, of course, be law-abiding. It must fill a community need. It must create jobs... pay taxes... meet its obligations... keep its self respect.

A case in point is the business of selling beer—a self-regulated, legal business. Because it meets all these requirements, it has come to belong.

And having merited your support and respect, this business is continually working to retain your confidence.

How?

By cooperating with State and local enforcement agencies and advocating strict control of all establishments where beer is dispensed.

By seeing to it that, in every possible way, beer continues on its own merits... as a respected part of the business and social life of your community.

North Carolina Division
UNITED STATES BREWERS FOUNDATION, INC.

Deadline Near In Essay Contest

Excellent training and a chance to win a grand prize of a one-year college tuition scholarship are being offered to rural youth in the 1950 Cooperative Essay Contest, according to L. R. Harrell, 4-H Club leader for the State College Extension Service.

Harrell said all club members are invited to submit essays this year. First prize is a one-year scholarship and $100 in cash. In addition, $1,000 in cash awards will go to district and county winners.

The contest, which is sponsored by the Farmers Cooperative Exchange and the N. C. Cotton Growers Cooperative Association, is open to any rural boy or girl who is not over 21 years old and who is enrolled in regular high school work. All entries must be in the hands of school officials or county extension agents by April 1.

Of the hundreds of subjects submitted as titles for the 1950 contest, "My Part in the Farm Program of Tomorrow" was finally selected because of its timeliness. Miss Jo Earp, of Route 2, Administrators' Notice

Having qualified as administrator for the estate of Miss Mae Adams, deceased, before the Clerk of the Superior Court of Cleveland County, all persons having claims against said estate are required to file same with the undersigned on or before the 3rd day of March, 1951, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery.

All persons indebted to said estate will please make immediate payment.

This the 2nd day of March, 1951, C. L. Adams, Administrator.
J. R. Davis, Attorney. m-3-4-7

Beware Coughs From Common Colds That HANG ON

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Creomulsion for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis

Cleveland, a teacher of home economics at the Cool Springs High School, submitted this subject.

Since this annual contest was begun 20 years ago, more than 80,000 young people have participated. This year the sponsors estimate that 8,000 boys and girls will compete for the awards.

Because the contest deadline is set for April 1, Harrell said those who plan to enter but who have not yet started work should begin assembling their material as soon as possible.

VERSATILE!

GOLDEN GUERNSEY MILK

Fine GOLDEN GUERNSEY Milk comes only from carefully selected Guernsey cows. It is always kept separate. And... tests prove the difference in GOLDEN GUERNSEY! Besides there's a half pint of scumming cream at the top of each quart... with valuable milk solids throughout! A tempting beverage!... a beautiful ingredient! Protect your family's health with this versatile energy-food!

TRY SOME OF OUR GOLDEN GUERNSEY CREAM TODAY!

- XX Heavy Whipping Cream, 1/2 pt. 35c
- Coffee or Cereal Cream, 1/2 pt. 20c

Archdale Farms
Phone 2405

A LITTLE STORE With BIG BARGAINS
McCarters Cash Grocery
Phone 223

That's Right!

3%

ON SAVINGS

Three Ways to Earn 3%

- Full-paid Shares, at $1.00 each. Interest paid semi-annually.
- Optional Savings. Invest any amount any time. This new popular savings method is especially good for those who have varying amounts for savings. Interest credited semi-annually.
- Installment stock. Pay 25c per share, per week. Stock matures to full-paid shares of $100.

VETERANS!

Your GI insurance check could go to no better purpose than a savings account. Small regular payments will make it grow into an automobile, a building lot, or a home.

KINGS MOUNTAIN BUILDING & LOAN ASSN.

W. K. Mauney, President J. C. Laney, Sec. - Treas.
J. C. Keller, Vice-Pres.