

Home Demonstration Week Is Observed

"The Home — Basis of a Better World," is the theme for National Home Demonstration Week in North Carolina, April 30-May 6. During this special week attention is being focused on what 63,242 home demonstration club women in the State are doing to improve their homes and keep their families well. At the same time, home demonstration members are broadening their horizons and developing a better understanding of national and international affairs in every state, Hawaii, Alaska, and Puerto Rico.

In the 2,050 communities in North Carolina where home demonstration clubs are organized, women are celebrating the week with county-wide meetings, tours to improved homes, demonstrations, exhibits, newspaper articles, and radio broadcasts. According to Miss Verna Stanton, as assistant State home agent for the State College Extension Service, community "Home Demonstration Days" are being held to recognize the 32,264 leaders for their contribution to the development of better homes and community life. Other activities are pointing up achievements as rural women hold open house across the State.

From a small beginning in 1911, the home demonstration program in North Carolina has grown to an organization covering all of the 100 counties. This broad program features good home management, nutrition, food production and preservation home furnishings and color arrangements, family relations, clothing for the family, citizenship, music appreciation, good reading, community activities, and many other interests of rural families.

"Better informed, healthier and happier rural people are important assets to our democracy," says Miss Stanton. "Rural people will continue to work toward these vital objectives as they improve their homes, and community life, which form the basis of a better world."

Farmers of the Wendell area of Wake County are showing a great deal of interest in commercial production of sweet potatoes this year.

Hollar Appointed To State 4-H Post

Appointment of Dan F. Hollar, cotton marketing specialist for the State College Extension Service, as assistant State 4-H Club leader was announced this week by L. R. Harrill, State 4-H leader.

Hollar, who assumed his new duties May 1, will work with 4-H Clubs in the southeastern extension district, covering 17 counties, and will have general supervision of the development of Young Men and Women's Clubs throughout the State.

He has had considerable experience in 4-H work, having served as assistant State leader for about a year during 1940-41. He was a club member for several years and a member of the Rutherford County 4-H livestock judging team for one year. While doing graduate work at State College from 1941 to 1942, he conducted a study of 4-H Club leadership. Hollar attended Central High School in Rutherford and later entered State College, where he graduated with a B. S. in animal husbandry in 1937. He served as assistant farm agent in Wilkes County for about six months and was then promoted to farm agent. Since March 1942, he has been extension cotton marketing specialist.

His father, O. J. Hollar of Union Mills, is a member of the State Board of Agriculture, and his mother is active in home demonstration work. His wife, the former Harriet McGoogan of Robeson county, was home demonstration agent in Wilkes County for several years.

Hollar, 38, is the father of two children, Forney, eight, and Nancy Lewis, 15 months. The family resides at 2315 Lake Drive, Raleigh.

Bumgardner Heads Wesley Foundation

Harvey Bumgardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Haze! B. Bumgardner of Kings Mountain, was installed as president of the Wesley Foundation of North Carolina State College Sunday night, April 30. Mr. Bumgardner is a rising senior in poultry science and has been active in the Wesley Foundation during his past year at the college.

Chancellor J. W. Herrelson of State College spoke at the installation services held at the Wesley Foundation Center.

The Wesley Foundation is the Methodist student fellowship for the State and Meredith College campuses and is affiliated with the Fairmont Methodist church of Raleigh.

The fifth national conference on farm electrification will be held in St. Louis October 18-20.
