The Kings Mountain ministerial association, in a pointed resolution Monday, took official note of liquor traffic in legally dry Cleveland county, and asked all citizens who voted against the legal sale of beer and wine in January 1949 to inform police officers of violations of the pronibition laws

The ministers also urged all officers to diligently enforce the law "against such violators, regardless of their prominence."

The ministers' group calls attention to the fact that court records are filled with public drunkenness records, yet note that "little is said in court about illegal dispensers of alcohol.
