MAKE FRIENDS WITH BOOKS BOOK WEEK NOVEMBER 12-18, 1950

The 32nd annual celebration of Children's Book Week is near. This is one of the events of the calendar year we never ignore despite the pressure of work or lack of money. In the book world failure to take note of it is about equivalent to not having a vacation in the workaday world. That's the 1950 Book Week Poster above. It was painted by William Pene du Bois, winner of the 1947 Newberry Medal for his incredible Twenty-One Balloons. The subject matter varies slightly from the usual boy or girl reading a book. The fox (just one of the many which have appeared in animal stories down through the ages) is dressed in 19th century riding clothes and reading a book of Children's Stories (note: without the apostrophe "s"). Mr. du Bois says the original model didn't show enough enthusiasm about the stories during the painting so a full colored poultry catalog was substituted. This produced the proper expression. The fox "ate it up from cover to cover, which proves most convincingly that wondrous things can be achieved when just the right book is placed in the right hands," says Mr. du Bois.

Experiment Station Gets Researcher

Assignment of George M. Townsend, agricultural economist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, to work with the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station in its research program was announced this week by Dr. H. B. James, head of State College's Department of Agricultural Economics. Townsend is employed by the Division of Farm Management and Costs of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. He will do research on the economics of feed utilization on farms, with special attention to pastures and forage crops. He formerly served as agricultural economist with the BAE at Little Rock, Arkansas, a post he held for eight years. For the past three years, he has been a building contractor and co-owner of a general construction firm in San Angelo, Texas. The USDA researcher completed his training and study in agriculture at Texas Tech and the A & M College of Texas. He received his master's degree in agricultural economics from Texas A & M. in 1938, and later served on the staff there as agricultural economist. Townsend's wife and two children will join him in Raleigh as soon as living accommodations have been arranged.

Dixie-Home Cutting Prices On Coffee

GREENVILLE, S. C.—Dixie-Home Stores today announced a price decline of 4c to 7c per pound on several National brands of Coffee. Maxwell House and Chase & Sanborn down 4c; Beech-Nut down 7c; Del Monte down 4c; Sanka down 5c. Dixie-Home's buyers expect a further reduction of 2c per pound in the near future on their Gold Cup and Silver Cup brands, which were reduced 2c per pound two weeks ago. Dixie-Home's buyers also stated that there may be further minor changes in coffee prices, however, much depends on the World situation and supplies of coffee from the new crop in Brazil.

Report Shows Cow-Owners Drink More Milk In Rural Areas

Cow ownership is by far the most influential factor in encouraging fluid milk consumption among rural people, according to a survey recently completed by Walter P. Cotton, associate professor of agricultural economics at North Carolina State College and the Experiment Station.

20 Stalks Of Corn Produces 92 Ears

A farmer who produces 92 ears of corn on 20 stalks really has something to crow about. That's exactly what a Hertford County Negro farmer, Murrefreesboro, did this year. Murrefreesboro, did this year. Murrefreesboro, did this year.

three times as shallow as possible. At the last cultivation I applied 100 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre. That's a... said with a grin. "But wait a minute," he went on. "You know, I believe I have one of the best crops of corn I've ever made, and I believe the spacing is the difference. This year I planted all my corn 16 inches in the drill in 3 1/2-foot rows. I notice it stood up better in the field and the overall yield is even better."

The first American newspaper, Public Occurrences, was started with the intent of "curing, or at least charming, of that spirit of lying which prevails in Massachusetts colony. It was suppressed after the first issue.

The Herald was the first newspaper in New York to give detailed descriptions of the gowns worn by women at social affairs.
