The Kings Mountain Herald

A weekly newspaper devoted to the promotion of the general welfare and published for the enlightenment, entertainment and benefit of the citizens of Kings Mountain and its vicinity, published every Friday by the Herald Publishing House.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Kings Mountain, N. C., under Act of Congress of March 3, 1873.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT

Martin Harmon ...... Editor-Publisher Charles T. Carpenter, Jr. ...... Sports, Circulation, News Mrs. P. D. Herndon ..... Society

Eugene Matthews

MECHANICAL DEPARTMENT Horace Walker Paul Jackson (*—Member of Armed Forces)

Ronald Moore Ivan Weaver* Charles Odems

TELEPHONE NUMBERS-167 or 283

SUBSCRIPTION RATES, PAYABLE IN ADVANCE SIX MONTHS-$1.40 ONE YEAR-$2.50. THREE MONTHS-75c BY MAIL ANYWHERE

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

A good man obtaineth favour of the Lord: but a man of wicked devices will be condemn. Proverbs 12: 2.

Information Required

The city board of commissioners contracted last week with Olsen Engineering Company, of Raleigh, to conduct a survey of its disposal and water distribution systems, with a view to rebuilding the former and, when needed, to expand the latter.

Later in the week it discussed, at length, a possible contract with an electrical engineer to map the present electrical distribution system with a view to rebuilding it.

On the face of it, the new administration, by contracting with the Raleigh firm, is getting to work on a basic problem and it would be doing the same by obtaining the electrical system mapping and survey.

The sewage system survey will give the city information as to feasibility and practicability of constructing one sewage disposal plant, and/or estimated costs of the construction on rebuilding the present five-unit disposal system is The defective sewage disposal system is not only the Number 1 problem of the current administration. It has plagued every administration since the late thir-

Recommendations concerning the water distribution system represent a throw-in bonus by the Olsen Company, which, of course, can furnish water plant recommendations for little additional cost to itself, using the data it will gather in compiling the sewage

Mapping of the electrical system is needed, whether the city remains in the power distribution business, or whether the lines are sold, as has been suggested, but which few feel likely. It is the Herald's understanding that the city electrical system "just growed", like Topsy. The mapping would enable the engineer to make recommendations to eliminate present service difficulties, which could be done piecemeal by regular crews, or at one fell swoop by electrical contractors.

The mapping would also enable the engineer to determine the physical value of the plant, which would be a most important factor in any person's decision to sell, or to retain, the power plant. Information is essential to efficient operation of any business, any government service, or anything else.

The city administration, in its effort to obtain information is taking the first important step in improving the efficiency of its operation.

The death of Mrs. William Lawrence Mauney at the early age of 34 was indeed a tragedy, though it may be said that the tragedy occured more than nine months ago when she first became ill. The best of medical advice, treatment and attention were to no avail in relieving her condition and it gradually worsened to the point that the imminence of her death was recognized. Mrs, Mauney way a young woman of personality, vivacity and charm. She was a devoted wife and mother and her early death removes from the community one of its best citizens. Her family has had, and has, the sympathy of the community.

The wet weather has been good for corn and cotton, but it has also been a boon to the boll weevil and other insects which damage crops. Farmers who attend to their dusting will be in better shape come harvest-time, the agricultural experts say.

Our hearty congratulations to Arnold W. Kincaid, newly elected Worthy Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of North Carolina, Order of Eastern Star. This is a signal honor and a deserved one. Mr. Kincaid has devoted many hours and much energy to the work of the Order.

Prices and Beef

If spokesmen for the livestock industry are telling the truth it may become quite difficult again to get a T-bone steak, or even other less costly cuts of beef.

As quickly as a roll-back had been ordered on the price of beef, dire warnings came out from livestock dealers and others that the government was encouraging a return of the World War II "moonlight packers" and "meateasies", and other extra-legal meat operations.

In spite of the experience of World War II with rationing and price control, it appears impossible for the average citizen to understand the mass of official pronouncements, both from industries affected and from government, on the several phases of controls.

The line-up of prominent citizens of national stature doesn't help much either. Bernard Baruch is a pro-controls man, as is Charles E. Wilson, until re-cently president of General Electric company. Other leaders of "big busiare just as convinced that price controls either are 1) not needed, or 2) will ruin the economy.

Big mass of the nation, however, still falls in the common catgory. They think price controls are all right for everyone else but themselves.

Biggest plaint among retilers is that price controls are unnecessary, and, in truth most of them are allowed markups higher than they can get for the particular items.

Most business people feel that supplies of goods in most fields are sufficient to maintain fair prices, without the necessity of controls.

Perhaps that is true of the beef situa-

Few would argue that the price of food will not be harder to control than, for instance, the price of apparel. When a man gets hungry, he won't worry much about controls when he is trying to buy his dinner. That makes him an easy touch for the dealer who is willing to risk the embarrassment, fines and possible imprisonment which go along with selling covered goods at higherthan- ceiling prices.

A Sane View

Commenting on the reports of the recent atomic experiments on Eniwetok atoll, the New York Times, customarily credited with taking a sane, moderate view on most national and international problems, noted the increased deathdealing power of the newest bombs, and also commented on the charges of General MacArthur, and others, that America, through a policy of weakness, is inviting disaster.

The times said: "It is neither cowardly nor undigni-fied to work for peace by every means we can command—by strength, by firmness in essentials, by willingness to dis-cuss nonessentials. We are not, as some would make us appear, like a boy with a chip on his shoulder. Under the pressure of terrible events we have or should have-put aside childish things. We would go to war to defend those principles that make life worth living. Surely our policies and our practices have left no doubt about that. But surely it must be evident, too, that we will not go to war, we will not bring ruin down on the world, we will not risk the destruction of civilization merely to satisfy an outworn code of martial chivalry.

"A refusal to make a suicidal choice is not weakness but the height of strength and wisdom. If the tragic necessity nevertheless arises our nation will defend itself the more valiantly because it has hated war and has done everything in its power to avert war."

Only eight days remain to pay city taxes and qualify for the two percent discount.

YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

Items of news taken from the 1941 files of the Kings Mountain Herald.

Members of the Town Council Bridges left Sunday to attend the Carlton Ethridge, Ensign, Navy met Tuesday night with all pres- Kiwanis International Conven- Reserve took place in Central ent. Mayor Joe Thompson pre- tion in Atlanta. President W. E. Methodist Church Monday evensided. The board voted to pur-chase the property at the cor-mrs, B. S. Neill and Mr. and Mrs. Sprinkle, Jr., of West Asheville for the Junior playground at a the convention, price not to succeed $3,000 and a committee was appointed to put the deal through.

Social and Personal

ner of Parker and Gaston Street L. A. Hoke are also attending Church, recent pastor of the bride officiated.

The class of 40 invited classes of 36 through 41 to a dance to be he deal through.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy held in the Womban's Club June Messers, Harry Page and Glee Lillian Patterson to Mr. Richard 27th.

martin's medicine

By Martin Harmon cining bits of news, wisbe taken weekly. Avoid ever-dosage.)

Wet Weather Notes

In spite of the scads of rain falling on Kings Mountain since June 3, when the weather man finally decided to dampen purched fields, lawns-and gardens, I find the rain has not increased the fertility of the medicinal field for this particular edition. I'm dry as a bone—about as dry as some of the ex-wholesalers and re-tailers of the white stuff made out of corn, mosh, and, some suspect, kerosene and Red Dev-

It's funny about the weather, a good conversation piece at any time, but lately it has seemed to vary in heavy dos-es. First the grass was withering, and cotton was struggling to find enough wetness to grow on. Then the clouds opened up for days in a row, and the grass has taken over in no uncertain terms. And last winter there was an unusually long "cold spell", at least unusual for this part of the country.

But who was the philosopher who claimed the weather never ruined anyone, provided the human had done his part? Maybe he lived before the days of the big outdoor promotions. Baseball doesn't thrive too well on a steady diet of rain, for instance.

I was kidding Ted Weir at the Kiwanis horse show Wed-nesday night and accused him and his Kiwanis brethern of not praying enough to avoid the rain. Ted countered quite well. I thought. He said "Didn't pray enough! I think we did it just right. All the rain fell before and between the show, not during it."

The horse show was quite a good bare, even to the layman, and it remains unfortunate that more folk don't go out to see the expensive pieces of horseflesh. It is always, better to "hindsight" a promotion than to "foresight" it, but I have been wondering if more spectators might not be attrac-ted if the event were run as two night shows on a weekend than during the middle of the week. The merchants tell me that most folk have spent out by mid-week and are waiting to spend again 'til the Friday paychecks arrive. Naturally, the problem of sleeping the exhibitors arises, but the sponsors of the next show might throw in a hotel-building project in advance.

W-W-11

Other horse show notes: None was having a better time at the Kiwanis club show than C. W. Champe, of Ct riotte. He is an amateur, in the horse business for the fun of it, and regarded his ribbons as "sucker bait" for the forthcoming show season. But he had no objection to being a "sucker", he in dicated, remarking, "A man's got to get a little enjoyment out of life."... Initial indications are that the show was a financial success and that the Kiwanis club's fund for underprivileged children will be enhanced considerably... All the exhibitors were mighty enthusiastic about the caliber of Kings Mountain cooking, after getting a sample at the Kiwanis picnic for exhibitors held at Byron Keeter's home. . . .

W-W-M

Sunday past was Father's Day, and I date say most Kings mountain fathers were showered with gifts, which, some report, will show up on their June 30 statements from jewelers, furniture men and apparel merchants. At least one parel merchants. At least one fellow was hedging against such a procedure. Carl Finger was in a Kings Mountain firm, heard his wife discussing a gift for him and Carl Felled, "If you're going to sell her a Father's Day gift, don't put it on my account. It's got all it can stand right now."

Borrowed wisdom from William Feather:

"Everybody has problems, but some people keep quiet about them, praise be."

"The sad fact is that the fastest and simplest way to get things done is to pay somebody to do them."

"As I walk along the streets I wonder who or which or what would want to live with that yet somebody does, and those who look at me may have the identical thought."

"Reducing diets have made us a nation of self-deceivers."

"What I wonder is, whether

"What I wonder is, whether those who claim to give an-ony-mously give more than those who give publicly."

es anyone see any signs continuous run of sun

CROSSWORD . . . By A. C. Gordon

About the Home

41—To-disfigure furniture
44—Pluck; courage
46—Abbreviation for a feminine godly person
48—Greek god of love
50—Anguish
51—Present-day topic of international discussion ACROSS -1-The average bouse-

*1—The average bousewire's choses

10—The great helper in the home laundry (two words)

12—To partake of food

3—Kitchen necessities

15—Conjunction

18—Woman's wear

20—Definite article

21—Thoroughfare
(abbrev.)

22—Centraction for article of feminine apparel

23—Popular abbreviation for paper signifying indebtedness

25—Isle of Wight (abbrev.)

26—Kaicknack

28—A kind of abrasive polish used about the home

30—Method of attack
against household pests

31—Small wood fastener

32—The efficient housewife saves her feet by saving these

35—Pisherman's receptacle 51—Bresent-day topic or international discussion 92—Cleaners of the floor about the home 54—A tragic occurrence in woman's hosiery $5—Housewifely shopping

(abbrev.)
4—Chemical symbol for 6—Western Communication (abbrew.)
7—Exchamation of surprise 8—Sudden lear
9—To splice 10—Outlets in every home 11—Conforming to professional standards

DOWN

1—Terminal of the arm 2—Suffix equivalent to "ous" 3—Union of Housewives

vegetables
35—A sheltered noo't
36—To reget
37—Cockney for "home"
40—The edge of a garment
42—Human limb
43—Space in a home
43—Stout cord
46—Kind of affair a man cannot take his wife to 47—To dress (colloq.)
49—Mineral spring
51—Girl's name
53—The elder (abbrev.)
54—Scenish affirmative

19—Worthless coin
22—Chews
24—Brown pigment used in coloring
27—To make a kind of knotted-lace
29—Wrath
33—Kitchen utensil
34—Dish of meat and vegetables
35—A sheltered noor
36—To regret

See The Want Ad Section For This Week's Completed Puzzle Other Editor's Viewpoints . . . . .

PUBLIC TRUST By Pierce Harris

when he wrote me saying he'd seen my name in "Who's Who" impossible.

and what all my friends up his way were wondering was "Why."

Every holder of public office should consider the words of the satisfaction. A father, displeased ciples on and off, at the dictawith his son's report card, said.

"Son, you ought to be ashamed of yourself—you at the foot of the while crowd," to which the son said, "It don't make any difference. Dad. They target the control of the whole the son said." ference, Dad. They teach the C. A Drye, member of the Ire-same thing at both ends." You dell County Balanced Farming see by the trend of these lines I Program, is striving to develop ege for three or four years, he has started poultry and beef though, without picking up cattle enterprises something — like the blind pig that gets an acorn now and ther so I wasn't too surprised the Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Frazier, have other night when something I developed a nice poultry enterheard in a college civics class toppled down off the shelf of the prise on their farm. They now years and asked to be consider. have 1,800 young chicks and ed. Maybe it was because the plan to keep between 1,000 and thing is in simple language and 1,200 laying hens this winter. doesn't leave much room for de-bate that I had held on to it in what "Mutt' of the famous team "Mutt and Jeff," called my "un-conscious mind." I would like for you to take a look at this thing I've been lugging around thing I've been lugging around all these years. "A public office is a public trust." That's all—no more—no less—just the simple statement, "A public office is a public trust"—but in the light of current attitudes in many quarers that idea is as obsolete as the dodo and as old-fashioned as a bustle or high-top button shoes, Stirring around in memory's dim storehouse, I seem to re-member that even in other days, this idea was not universally accepted. For example, the Earl of Beaconfield said, "In politics, nothing is contemptible," and honesty is party expediency." I even such a worthy as our own Grover Cleveland said, "Party would like to take off after that word "Expediency" and show how graft and greed have used "expediency" as a wedge to open many a lock—then as an excuse to explain many a stolen trea-sure, many an ill-gotten gain; but we will stay with our origin-al proposition, "A public office is a public trust."

Let us take up again that remark by the Earl of Beaconfield, "In politics nothing is con temptible." I do not accept it. Even in Beaconfield's time, there must have been decent, honest people who felt contempt fo a system of government that lacked moral worth, and surrendered the interest of its citizens for a key to the treasure house. And even the Earl of Beaconfield did not exclude politicians in his charitable estimate of politics—politics, maybe, but not politicians. table estimate of politics—politics, maybe, but not politicians.
Only recently, I heard a citizen remark of an office holder.
"I once had an idea he was honest—dumb, but honest—but now, I think he's crooked; and I have contempt for him."

When people water.

heve in you. I telieve you will discharge faithfully the duties in the

Atlanta Journal

Taking comfort, I suppose, in the adage, "Misery loves company," I have always found great pleasure in the fact that Woodrow Wilson graduated 37th in his class, and that only five of those above him became famous enough to get their names in "Who's Who."

discharge faithfully the duties of your office and in their faithful discharge you will look after my interests." When an office-holder surrenders to "expediency" and the temptation to enrich his own purse at the expense of his helpless constituents, he is contemptible. The officeholder's only sure refuge is in doing what is right and in their faithfully the duties of your office and in their faithful discharge you will look after my interests." When an office-holder surrenders to "expediency" and the temptation to enrich his own purse at the expense of his helpless constituents, he is contemptible. The office-holder's only sure refuge is in doing what is right and in their faithful discharge you will look after my interests." When an office-holder surrenders to "expediency" and the temptation to enrich his own purse at the expense of his helpless constituents, he is contemptation to enrich his own purse at the expense of his helpless constituents, he is contemptation to enrich his own purse at the expense of his helpless constituents, he is contemptation to enrich his own purse at the expense of his helpless constituents, he is contemptation to enrich his own purse at the expense of his helpless constituents, he is contemptation to enrich his own purse at the expense of his helpless constituents, he is contemptation to enrich his own purse at the expense of his helpless constituents, he is contemptation to enrich his own purse at the expense of his helpless constituents. Who's Who."

line of duty toward that which he has been trusted to do. Jumpthough I never did exactly un. ing from one side to another of derstand what a friend meant a political fence makes such

Why."
In college I never classified as a scholar. There's another classomer think I certainly never was sic I've always considered with made for, and that is to put prinnever got any gold medals for several sources of income on his leading my class. You can't hang around a col- certified corn and small grain,

A Richmond County couple,

$ 3.15

CANDIDATE WITHOUT a VOT

A candidate for sheriff in Monroe County, Indiana, couldn't cast a vote for himself in a recent primary—he was in jail for public intoxication.

'Guess we'll have to go to jail too-cause we're intoxicated with that fresh Holsum Enriched Bread flavor.

IF YOU HAD A MILLION DOLLARS YOU COULDN'T BUY BETTER BREAD

DELLINGER'S Kings Mountain. A.C.

Kings Mountain Leading Jewelers'

WANTED

Technically Trained Men There is a demand for men who are trained in these courses: Television and Radio Basic Electronics Auto Mechanics Diesel Engine Diesel Electric Internal Combustion

Electric Appliance Service

Refrigeration and Air Conditioning Electricity Lathe Operation Welding (acetylene and electric)

Gasoline Electric

Young men can get this training before entering military service and benefit through higher ratings. You can come back to a trade for employment.

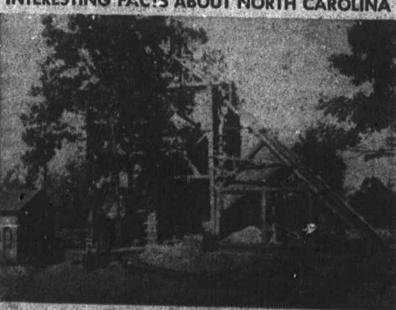

-DO NOT DELAY ENROLL NOW-

Southern Vocational Institute

253 1st. Avenue, N. W. Hickory, North Carolina - Phone 28987

First National Bank

PRESENTS INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT NORTH CAROLINA

GOLD MINING

Gold was discovered in 1799, and prior to 1829 all the gold mined in the United States and coined at the Philadelphia Mint was taken from North Carolina mines. The first discovery was made on the farm of John Reed, who had settled in Cabarrus County. Reed found a shiny piece of metal and used it for three years as a door stop. In 1802 he sold it to a jeweler for $3.50. The metal was gold and its real value was $8,900.

Our bank is an institution whose service is conducive to the growth and development of the commun-Ity. You have a cordial invitation to make our bank your financial headquarters.

